TWO FOOLS in Philadelphia have been disgracing the State by fighting a duel. They are both still alive, and unhurt, as one fired in the air and the other came nearer hitting his second than the man he fired at. There was a woman in it.

ALABAMA is now mentioned as a good place to settle in. A number of men from Maine went to De Kalb county about a year ago, and they now give the most flattering accounts of their success. Land was bought for $1.25 an acre, heavily timbered, well watered and with luxuriant grass. Snow seldom falls, and no shelter is needed for cattle. Consumption is unknown, and the temperature mild and equable. Many of the settlers are making considerable money out of Angora goats, which are bred and raised easily and profitably.

THE FARCE still goes on. On Monday of last week Wm. H. Kemble the absent briber made his appearance at Harrisburg and went to the jail where he waited while word was sent to Judge Pearson. The Judge declined to take bail till he had consulted with his associate, Judge Henderson, and the Sheriff very kindly allowed Mr. Kemble to go where he pleased till the next day. A hearing was then had and it being made to appear that the accused had come of his own accord the judge discharged him on $5000 bail until the 26th inst. Judge Pearson took occasion to say that he did not know whether he would recognize a previous pardon and he was sure Judge Henderson would not. The action of the court on the 26th inst. will be eagerly looked for.

Strange Lightning Freaks.

Lightning has been doing marvellous things in Virginia and Kentucky lately, and it isn't a very good time of year for lightning either. Near Charlottesville, Va., a little girl was standing at a window looking out upon the storm, when a stunning and blinding flash of lightning photographed an accurate portrait of her upon the window pane. Near Louisville, in a recent thunder-storm a tombstone was struck by lightning in the city cemetery, and the imprint of a cedar tree that stands close to the tombstone is impressed upon the stone so perfectly that every branch thereof is recognizable. The same impression appears on the opposite face of the stone.

Perished in the Snow.

On Saturday a week, an old woman named Ann Cushing, left the village of Fort-Coulonge, Quebec, during a very severe snow storm, and missing the road she followed a fence that led into the bush where she was found dead next morning. A dog belonging to her was found faithfully keeping watch over her remains.

Court Proceedings. — Notwithstanding the large amount of business that our Courts have disposed of in the present year, the opening of the regular April term seemed to gather a larger audience than usual, within the walls of the court room. This may be accounted for in part by the fact that the newly elected constables are sworn in at this term, and it was also generally understood that the temperance cohorts were going to make an attack in force upon the applicants for license to sell liquor.

The bell was rang at 1 o'clock P. M., and its echoes had hardly died away when the announcement was made from the Bench that court should be opened and in response to the crier's invitation to every person having business before the several courts to come forward and they should be heard, the constables were the first to present themselves with their returns from the various districts they represented. District Atty Wallis quietly remarked as he finished a hasty examination of the returns that they had brought in but little work for this term of the criminal court. The new constables for the ensuing year were called when some thirty came forward and solemnly swore that they would obey the Constitution of the United States, the Constitution of this Commonwealth, and perform their duties with fidelity, etc. It may be, with a slight variation from the Pirates of Penzance that "When constabulary duty's to be done, A constable's lot is not a pleasant one."

But nevertheless they are a respectable and efficient corps and will no doubt do their duty whenever and wherever necessary. Noticeably among the number was Jacob Freet, who for the thirty-fifth time took upon himself the duties of the office. Some day Watts twp., will lose Jacob Freet, but she will never fill his place with a more competent, honest, upright official. The grand jury were charged as to their duties and the work that lay before them and they left the court room to sit in judgment upon the various bills of indictment that the Com. would lay before them.

The various applications for license were taken up, when it was announced that thirteen remonstrances to the granting of license had been filed. Those to which no exceptions had been made were first disposed of, but before granting them his Honor Judge Junkin, stated that in order to suppress a great evil in many communities, the court proposed to enact a promise or pledge from every party to whom license was granted, and then calling up Benj. Ritter of Loysville, whose reputation as a landlord is so well established, the intentions of the court was explained and he was requested to sign it and was followed by each successive applicant to whom license was granted. The following is the pledge enacted:

IN THE COURT OF QUARTER SESSIONS OF PERRY COUNTY. WHEREAS, It has been discovered that many persons of known intemperate habits, and who liquor is refused at the bars of the retailers, are provided with intoxicating drink by means of their habits procuring it at the bars of the retailers in bottles, and then selling it again to those to whom it has been refused.

And WHEREAS, So long as this is done, it is impossible to prevent drunkenness: AND WHEREAS, I have applied to the Court of Quarter Sessions of Perry county for license, &c., to sell intoxicating liquors, which was granted upon condition that I would solemnly bind myself in writing, as follows, namely, that I would not sell intoxicating liquors by the bottle to any person within the range of my acquaintance, unless that I know him to be a man of known integrity, and incapable from his character as a man and a citizen, of either giving or selling such liquor to such persons as I am by law forbidden to sell to across my own bar. And I agree that I will prove that I have violated this written pledge, the Court may revoke the license so granted, as aforesaid, without proof of any other cause for so doing.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand this 12th day of April, 1880.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

On Wednesday morning the Criminal Court was opened. The first case called was the Com. vs. Henry Harp. Sometime in last December the store of Mr. Thornton at Losh's Run was robbed, and the goods thus taken were subsequently found in the home of Augustus Kline-Smith in Harrisburg, and the development of the case gathered around it a great deal of interest. Without intending to climb the genealogical tree to where the first Harp budded, we must go back to the oldest one. Not "The Harp that once in Tara's halls The soul of music shed, but the Harps who was the prolific progenitor of as ungodly and graceless progeny as ever was spawned in the Commonwealth, died sometime since at Reading leaving to survive him at least two sons one of whom was the accused in this case and two daughters. One of these daughters became the wife of a Spottanumber who ended his life on the gallows recently for murdering a tramp with whom this wife had taken up in his absence. The other became the wife of a desperado named Meroney with several aliases. Harp was a King's man, and when they all moved afterwards to Harrisburg. Here Meroney made his headquarters at the home of Kline-Smith against his protestations, and here his rage gathered, and the result was the stolen goods recovered were brought there by him and a companion without any explanation as to where they came from. The defendant proved an alibi sufficiently strong to cause the jury to doubt whether he had a hand in concealing the goods and he was acquitted. Although a young man, if the account he gave of himself outside of the court room be true, a single honest particle would find as much room in his stature as a stump balled calf in a forty acre pasture. Dist. Atty. Wallis & Sponser for Com. McAllister for Def.

Com. vs. Augustus Kline-Smith. Charge receiving stolen goods. This Def. was the step father of the Def. in the above case, and if there was an unspooled egg in the whole nest it was him. The evidence in the other case, showed conclusively that he was innocent of any guilt in this case and the Dist. Atty. therefore declined to offer any evidence to the jury and a verdict of not guilty was taken. Dist. Atty. Wallis & Sponser for Com. McAllister for Def.

Com. vs. John Benison. An indictment for stealing a coffee pot from the store of Ezra P. Tizell, in Millertown. There was also an indictment against him for stealing groceries and dry goods from the store of D. M. Rickabaugh in the same place. His conduct in these matters, but the good citizens of Millertown began to realize that his room would be much better than his company. J. G. McAllister, Esq., was assigned him as counsel at his request, and after hearing part of the proof against him, his counsel deemed it best to plead guilty and throw himself upon the mercy of the Court. This was done in both cases. He was sentenced to one year in the Eastern Penitentiary, and the return of Millertown will have to do without him the best way they can, until the trailing arbutus is again climbing the hillsides, and the swallows are twittering in the eaves in the year of our Lord, 1881. District Attorney Wallis for Commonwealth.

Com. vs. Peter Wertz. Indictment 1st count, keeping a tipping house; 2nd count, selling liquor to a minor. As to the first count the defendant asked a continuance on the grounds that it was not laid in the information, and pleading not guilty on the second count he went to trial. The prosecution alleged that while attending bar in the hotel in the 9th Ward in the borough of Newport, he gave a drink of intoxicating liquor to Eimer E. Miles a minor, Defendant denied any knowledge of his having taken a drink at the bar, and further stated that having heard him declare a short time previous that he was of age, and from his general appearance, he would not have refused him a drink on the grounds of minority. The jury returned a verdict of "not guilty," and Peter went home to pick his flint and secure his ammunition for another light at the August sessions on the other count. Dist. Atty. Wallis & Sponser and Barnett for Com. McAllister for defendant.

This ended the criminal business for the term. The grand jury ignored a number of bills and also found a number of true bills to be disposed of hereafter. They also made a presentation to the Court charging that the price of a barrel of county are in a bad condition and out of repair, and particularly the case in the townships of Howe, Tuscarora, Rye, Saville, Juniata, Oliver and Centre.

COMMON PLEAS.

Order of sale granted to Wm. H. Sponser, Assignee of Cyrus M. Clemson and Wellington Clemson, of Tuscarora twp., to sell real estate. W. H. Sponser attorney.

On petition of John Hemperly, of Watts twp., Committee of Michael Peters, he was discharged from further liability. McAllister, att'y.

Inquisition on an unknown man, found dead in the borough of Marysville confirmed. Wallis, att'y.

Report of Calvin Neilson, Auditor in the assigned estate of Wm. Holmes, filed.

Alias subpoena for divorce granted to Wm. Jacobs vs. Matilda Jacobs. Junkin att'y.

Subpoena in divorce awarded Geo. S. Drexler vs. Alwilda Drexler. McIntire, attorney.

Subpoena in divorce awarded Wm. Shoaff vs. Elizabeth Shoaff, and John S. Wetzel, Esq., appointed to take testimony.

W. N. Selbert, Esq., presented remonstrances from the boroughs of Newport and Millertown, and Chas. A. Barnett, Esq., from the borough of Bloomfield and Shermansdale. After a careful investigation which was only concluded on Tuesday night, the result was a refusal of license to Peter Wertz of Newport, and the cases of Wm. Shearer of Newport, Shuman Miller and Henry Martin of Millertown were held over.

During the progress of the court an ex-Judge, the Hon. Jacob Shibley of Spring twp., now over forty years of age, made his appearance in the court room, and by a special invitation of Judge Junkin, took his seat on the Bench. E. S. Doty, Jr., a member of the Juniata county was present part of the week and by his genial disposition and agreeable manner won a strong expression of good feeling from the members of the bar. On motion of Chas. A. Barnett he was admitted to practice in the several courts of this county. The Sheriff's deeds were acknowledged in open court on Wednesday, and a considerable amount of general business was transacted at odd intervals until about 3 o'clock on Saturday P. M. when court adjourned until the 4th day of May next. On Monday afternoon District Atty Wallis called on the case of Com. vs. Wm. Hoes, and Com. vs. James Kliner. These were both charges of desertion, but no prosecutors appeared and the cases were dismissed and the costs directed to be paid by the county.

On Tuesday morning the civil list was opened and the first case called was Jacob L. Liddlek vs. Chas. Troutman. The defendant in this case originally had a judgment on record against the plaintiff which he collected by means of an attachment execution which he issued against one of his creditors, and at the same time collected an amount of unsecured interest beyond the legal amount of judgment. To recover back the excessive interest, suit was instituted before a Justice of the peace by Liddlek who recovered judgment for the amount of his claim. From this judgment Troutman appealed, and this case was the appeal thus taken. After hearing the case the Court decided that the case could not be sustained for want of jurisdiction in the Justice who rendered the judgment and that the remedy lay in the Court of Common Pleas. Plaintiff took a non suit. McAllister for plaintiff. Potter and Sponser for defendant.

Uriah Shuman Admr. etc., of Robert Thompson dec'd vs. W. R. S. Cook, followed. Suit was brought by plaintiff to recover the balance due upon a contract of the following nature. Robert Thompson in his lifetime was the owner of a tract of land in Juniata county. Defendant secured the lease to cut locust pins thereon at a certain price per thousand. These pins are pieces of timber used by ship-builders. 31,521 pins were cut and taken away, and in addition thereto Thompson boarded defendant's hands while the work was going on. Certain payments had been made and the balance claimed was $1164. The defense was that Jos. Foreman was really the contractor with Thompson and that Cook was to purchase the pins from Foreman, but upon application of Thompson to him, he agreed to become responsible for the payment of all the pins of a marketable quality delivered at the railroad; that only a certain percentage of the pins thus delivered were fit to be shipped and for all that had been accepted he had already paid, and as to the balance they were useless except for firewood. The jury found for plaintiff a verdict of $103.87. The old common law recognized the right of married women to receive a certain allowance designated as "pin money," but this is the first case on record in our courts where pin money was allowed to the estate of a married man. W. A. Sponser for plaintiff. W. H. Sponser and McIntire for defendant.

Dr. A. A. Murray vs. The Farmers' Bank of Millertown was the next case. While the bank was in operation Dr. Murray became endorser on a bank note for Dr. E. T. Lineaweaver. At the same time Dr. Murray was a depositor in the bank and when the note became due the funds he had on hand were applied to its payment. The defense was that the note was an agreement to pay a five per cent. collection and under a ruling of the Supreme Court was therefore not negotiable, and hence there was no liability on the part of the endorser to the bank, and as Dr. Murray did not owe the bank they had no right to apply his funds to the payment of the debt of Dr. Lineaweaver. The jury rendered a verdict for plaintiff for $211.10, but the question involved being mainly one of law, the Court directed the entry of a bill to show cause why a new trial should not be granted. McIntire for plaintiff. Barnett for defendant.

The case next taken up on the civil list was Jacob Fleisher vs. Henry Gamber. This was an action of ejectment to recover possession of a lot of ground in Marysville borough. It was a lot to which Henry Gamber had an equitable title for a certain amount of purchase money paid. Fleisher bought his interest therein at a Sheriff's sale, and then brought this action to recover possession. No defense being made the jury rendered a verdict for the plaintiff for the land described in the proceps. Sponser for plaintiff. McAllister for defendant.

P. K. Brandt, Cashier of People's Bank vs. David McCoy and Singleton Sheaffer. Sometime since some "Patent Right" gentlemen induced David McCoy to purchase territory for the vending of a Patent Wagon Hoister, for which he gave a note without the clause "given for a Patent Right," contained therein as the Act of Assembly requires. This note was taken to W. H. Minnick, who discounted it and who induced the bearer, Singleton Sheaffer, to add his name to that of McCoy as better security for its payment, and then assign the note to the present plaintiff. The defense was that the machines were worthless and also that there was a material alteration of the note, which relieved McCoy from payment. On motion of Plaintiff's Court directed the name of Sheaffer to be stricken from the note, and then went to trial. Verdict for plaintiff for $35.08. A motion was made and rule entered for a new trial. — McIntire for plaintiff, Barnett for defendant.

W. H. Minick vs. Henry Douth and Herman Brinkman. This was an action of ejectment to recover a tract of land in Saville township. Prior to the year 1868 it was owned by John Waggoner who sold it to his step-son, A. M. Miller, by a parol agreement. Miller took possession of it and lived on it for some time when becoming involved financially, he surrendered it to Waggoner and left the State. Afterwards Waggoner died and his Administrator sold the land under an order of the Orphans' Court for payment of debts, upon condition, however, that the purchaser would not be required to pay any purchase money until it was ascertained that he would get a good title for it. Upon the other side it was alleged that Miller had paid all of the purchase money to Waggoner, although he never had received a deed of conveyance for it, and that before he had surrendered it back to Waggoner, Minick had entered a judgment against him which became a lien upon his equitable interest. Upon this judgment an execution was issued, the land sold and purchased by Minick, who claimed it by virtue of the Sheriff's deed he held therefor. The case being one likely to involve a considerable amount of difficulty and uncertainty of title hereafter, at the suggestion of the Court a compromise verdict was agreed upon, by the terms of which, both the Administrator and Minick are to execute a deed to the purchase and the purchase money to be divided between them. McIntire for plaintiff—Barnett and Smiley for defendants.

Andrew Baker vs. Geo. P. Clonke and D. P. Hussinger, trading as Geo. H. Clonke & Co. In the month of May of last year, the defendants took a lease of all the mineral known as the red oxide of iron, on the farm of Henry F. Smith, in Carroll township. This mineral has the qualities for making a superior red paint when finely ground, and machinery for that purpose was erected at the mill of Frank Gibson, a short distance below. They entered into a contract with the plaintiff, who was an experienced miner, to open a cut until it was necessary to go under ground and then run a drift to the ore, for a certain stipulated price per yard. Plaintiff continued until his claim for work reached the sum of $79.50 when having received but $23, he refused to continue work until the balance, or a considerable part thereof, was paid him. His demand not being complied with, he ceased work and brought suit before F. B. Clouser, Esq., in Bloomfield, where he recovered judgment for the sum of $24.50. From this judgment defendants appealed, alleging that the contract was entire, and by its terms only such sums of money as they saw proper to advance were to be paid before the drift reached ore and plaintiff having failed to perform his part of the contract, was not entitled to recover. Verdict for plaintiff for $24.23. Smiley for plaintiff—McIntire for defendants.

Phillip Jacobs vs. The School District of Saville township. Plaintiff in this case contracted with the defendants some years ago to build a School House. Certain specifications were given and the plaintiff began work. When the building was completed the defendants held back a portion of the contract price, alleging that the work was a very inferior job. That where the specifications called for the walls to be filled up with soft brick, in places they were filled with shavings, sweepings of the school house and ground; that inferior lumber was used, and in other particulars the specifications had been departed from. It was to recover the money thus held back, that this suit was brought. The jury made a deduction from the contract price, for certain things in which he fell short of his agreement, and then rendered a verdict for plaintiff for $226.71. Markel and Junkin for plaintiff—McIntire for defendant.

This finished the jury trials. The following are the most important items of miscellaneous business transacted. Upon the petition of certain citizens of Oliver township and elsewhere, for a rule on the Supervisors of Oliver township to show cause why a mandamus should not issue to compel them to open the public road lately laid out to the new county bridge crossing the Little Buffalo creek. Mandamus awarded, but not to be taken out until the further order of the Court. Sponser, attorney.
