WHILE breaking up a lot of condemned shells near Fort McHenry, on Tuesday a shell exploded and killed six persons. Some were literally blown to pieces, the largest piece found of one being an arm.

TERRIBLE FIRES seems to be the order of the day. In addition to the Oil fires in Bradford Co., the woods fires in New Jersey and other places, the town of Stuyvesant in York State was almost destroyed, and now we learn that on Friday P. M., nearly the entire town of Milton in Northumberland county, was burned. The loss by flames during the past week have been almost beyond calculation.

Another Town Destroyed.

SUNBURY, May 14.-The town of Milton was almost entirely destroyed by fire to-day. The fire started in the finishing room of the car works in the northern section of the town. An alarm was at once sounded, but before the engines could get on the ground the entire works were in flames. The wind blew a gale in the direction of the town, and soon the fire was beyond all control. Aid was telegraphed for and the Sunbury fire department was soon on the ground. The wind was veering in different directions and it was impossible to do an effectual work, and Broadway and Forest streets, the business part of the town, were soon wrapped in flames and the fire swept on and on until it reached the open country at the southern end of the town. In the meantime the Williamsport, Danville, Watsontown and Lewisburg fire departments had arrived, but the wind continued so high that they could render but little service and only a few houses here and there along the track of the fire could be saved. All the hotels, churches, two banks, opera house, telegraph office, the Miltonian and Independent weekly printing offices, all the business houses with two exceptions, and the depot, altogether about 400 houses, were destroyed. The body of one man burned to a crisp was found. Two women and several children are reported missing. About 600 families are homeless. Aid has been tendered by the citizens of Sunbury, Lewisburg and Watsontown to the destitute people. Large quantities of household goods were loaded on the cars and taken up and down the road, and the fields around the town are filled with goods. During the confusion many articles were stolen and carried away. One lady lost $60,000 in government bonds. The fire raged so fiercely that in the upper part of the town most of the people barely escaped with their lives. The wife of Dr. Cyrus Brown is badly burned and several others are known to be severely injured. The scene was one of great confusion, hundreds of people pouring into town from every direction. The fire was gotten under control about six o'clock. The loss is variously estimated from one to two millions, but no accurate estimate can be given to-night. The mansion of ex-Governor Pollock was destroyed. The only important business places saved are the rolling mill, nail works, Wilson's fly net factory and the planing mills.

glycerine magazine, containing 500 pounds of the compound, exploded. The magazine was located a short distance from Duke Centre. All the wells at Baker's Trestle, White Rabbit and Oll Centre were burned. The town is reported in ashes. No lives are reported lost. Terrible Powder Explosion.

DEADWOOD, D. T., May 11 .- An explosion of five boxes, containing nearly one hundred pounds of giant powder. occurred at the blacksnith shop of the High Lode mine, at Central City, this morning, instantly killing Samuel Kimble, foreman of the mines, and Joseph Trubill and Jonas Gilmore, employes .--The bodies were most fearfully torn to pleces. The country for an area of a mile square was strewn with small fragments of flesh and ruins of the shop.

A Misunderstanding.

A preacher over in England who puts his Liberal politics into his prayers, was conducting a prayer meeting the other day and began praying for Gladstone, that he and his fellow-redeemers of England might "hang together." On hearing this prayer, a brother sitting below, who was accustomed to say "Amen" in prayer time, and who approved of Lord Beaconsfield's pollcy on the Eastern question exclaimed, "Amen amen ; may they all hang together !"-The parson felt that he was misunderstood, and by way of explanation said, "I do not mean ' hang together' in the sense which our brother down below means it. I mean may they in accord and concord hang together." " Amen, amen." replied the Conservative worshipper, " I don't mind what the ' cord' is, so long as they hang by the same cord."

...... Ten Dollars Found.

The death of Judge Blackman, of New Haven, revives an old story about how he was once fooled by his son Samuel, a regular hard case. The judge one day found a ten-dollar bill in the street and gave it to Sam, with orders to put a little " found" advertisement in one of the newspapers, leaving the note with the newspaper proprietor for Identification. Sam went down street in the direction of a newspaper office, but stoped on his way at the office of a lawyer who was one of his boon companions .--They arranged a little scheme, whereby his companion made out a "lost" advertisement fully describing the bill, and went with it to the newspaper office were Sam was destined. Ten minutes latter Sam took his " found" advertisement to the same office, only to be told that the owner had already been there, and to be referred to his friend as the proper claimant. Returning to the office, he told the judge, who said : " Return the money to the loser by all means you were lucky to find him." Whereat Sam and his chum had a quiet little spree off the proceeds.

tor The Cecil Democrat gives the following in relation to one of those rascally lightning rod transaction : One day recently a farmer living near Lewisville, just across the line in Chester Co., Pa., was called on by a lightning rod man who expressed an ardent wish to furnish his buildings with the latest improved and safest lightning conductors in use. His price was high-about $150-and the farmer declined. But the agent persisted and gradually reduced his price until he reached $18, when an agreement was concluded and a paper setting forth the stipulations signed. The agent then left, with the understanding that his workmen would be along shortly and put up the rods. They arrived but the farmer learned from them that the price was to be $150 instead of $18, refused to allow them to proceed with the work .--Their foreman insisted that the farmer signed a contract for $150, and declared that he would, in spite of him, put up the rods, or leave them on the place .--The discussion became more excited .-The farmer armed with an axe and the foreman with a pistol, faced each other. But the farmer was in earnest. The lightning rod man haw it and sought safty in retreat. Fearing that he might return and leave the rods the farmer chained his gates. Two of his neighbors, residing in this county, we have been informed, were victimized by the same or another party of swindlers .--Not having as much pluck they submitted to the imposition. As our informant remarked, they probably don't read the papers, and consequently are not up to the tricks of rascally peddlers.

night before, and they were afraid that it had scorched her breasts a little, as she had endeavored to keep her offspring from nursing during the day.

From another source it was learned that the baby was found rolling in pain during the morning; that part of an apple containing strychnine was taken from its mouth, and that another part of an apple saturated with the deadly poison was picked up in the little circle around which the baby is allowed to roam.

10.000 Miscellaneous News Items.

While the fire raged at Coleville a laborer, named John Clark, went upon a 250-barrel tank and smothered a small flame that would soon have caused the oil to explode.

HUDSON, N. Y., May 18 .- The village of Stuyvesant, containing a population of four thousand people and situated on the Hudson river road, 125 miles from New York, and 17 from Albany and 10 from Hudson, was destroyed by fire this morning.

137" A colored man recently drowned the infant of his paramour at Columbus, Ga., and when officers last week attempted to arrest him, he jumped forty feet from a bridge into the Chattahoochie river. Uninjured by the jump he sought deep water and drowned himself.

137" William Rooks, of Canton, Fulton county, Ill., has been afflicted with what was supposed to be dyspepsia, but the matter came to a crisis last week, when he vomited up several "acephalocists" or mole-shaped monsters, each about two inches long and covered with a substance resembling moss.

137 There is a great mystery about the case of the death of two men whose bodies were found in the woods near Fort Benton, Minn., the other day. The doctors declare they died of poison, but not the shadow of a motive for murder, or sulcide, or a trace of possible murders, can be discovered. Buicide is suspected.

137 Recently a bitter feeling sprung up between Henry A. Stocks and John R. Russell, farmers, living on adjoining places on Eight-Mile Prairie, Williamson county, Ill. On Tuesday the parties met on the road and an altercation ensued, during which Russell shot Stocks, killing him almost instantly Russell has not been arrested.

The Bradford Era tells briefly as follows how some recent fires occurred in that region. A man visited a 25,000-barrel oil tank with a naked lantern and Red Rock was burned. A man built a fire near a well and went to dinner ; the destruction of Rew City was the result. A woman upset a gas stove and Rixford went up in smoke and 60,000 barrels of oil were lost.

At least one child owes its life to the bravery of its mother, who had learned to swim. Mrs. Shoff, living near Neff's Island in the Susquehanna river, took ber two small children in a boat on Thursday of last week to row where her husband was fishing. The boat struck a rock, and the woman, telling the children to cling to her, undertook to swim ashore with them. One of them fell off aud was drowned, but she reached the shore in safety with the other, but very much exhausted.

threatens to make hot work at the Chicago Nominating Convention, and many a Democrat, heretofore full of grief at party defections and quarrels in New York, Virginia and other States, takes comfort in a prophetic view of a general Republican spill. Probably, however, both parties will be well united before the day of election. Let alone the matter of principle, the patronage of the National Administration is now so great that dissension will be overcome. I look for the liveliest campaign since 1860, to the practical obliteration of the "third party" and an unusually solid vote for the caudidates of the two great partles.

Legislation goes on better than at any previous time during the session. Congressmen seem to realize that if they postpone work until after the first of the National Conventions they will find it impossible to do work at all, and so they are attending to business while it is yet time. To-day the resolution fixing May 24th as the day for adjournment will be up, and, from present appearances, will be amended by extending the time for a few days, and will then be passed.

There seems to be an understanding among members that none of the appropriation bills yet to be acted on shall be debated at great length. The Legislative, Executive and Judicial bill was up in the House yesterday, and was talked over. It will be sent to the Senate by Tuesday next. The general deficiency bill is ready to report. The River and Harbor monstrosity will be put through under a suspension of the rules.

The Cabinet yesterday had under consideration the Howgate Polar Expedition, and it was decided to ask Congress for an appropriation for it.

"The town of Milton has this day "The town of Milton has this day been almost entirely destroyed by fire. Three thousand people are now home-less, destitute of clothing, provisions and all the necessities of life. Additional oil Fires.

BRADFORD, Pa., May 12 .- This afternoon a fire started in Oll Centre, near Duke Centre. A very heavy west wind was blowing, and the flames spread with incredible rapidity. At this hour it is reported that the 25,000 barrel iron tanks are burning and that a portion of the town of Duke Centre had been laid in ashes. There are twenty-one monster tanks located in the valley, directly in the path of the fire.

The Baby Elephant's Troubles.

New York paper says :- On Tuesday Hebe, said to be the mother of the only elephant ever born in captivity, was very restless, jerking her head from side to side, and straining at the chains which held both a hind and fore leg captive, in the London Circus, now performing in Brooklyn. Her keeper, on being questioned, said that the hay sur-rounding Hebe had caught fire the WILLIAMSPORT, May 10 .- Forest fires are still raging in this part of the State, Sullivan county being the latest sufferer. The hemlock forest of that county have been burning for two or three days, and great quantities of timber are reported destroyed. The latest advices received here to-day are to the effect that two thousand acres are already burned over between Thorndale and Schreyvogels, and over fifteen hundred cords of bark belonging to Thorn McFarland & Co. here have been eaten up by the flames. The fire is still fiercely burning and promises to do still greater damage unless its destructive progress is arrested by rain.

Boston, May 18 .- The shutting off of gas and water in the Post Office and Sub-Treasury to-day resulted in seriously crippling the workings of both departments. The mails are greatly delayed, as they cannot be sorted in the basement without light. The Sub-Treasury suffers principally from lack of water. The Postmaster General has been notified of the situation.

The clerks at the Post Office to-night performed their duties by the aid of locomotive headlights loaned to the Postmaster, tallow candles and lanterns. The Postmasters of Portland, Newport, R. I., and New Bedford, have received and accepted offers from the local gas companies in those cities offering to furnish gas at their own risk.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 12, 1880. Washington is now, more than before, National politics headquarters. Part of this, of course, is due to the presence of Congress, all whose members are in constant (free) telegraphic correspondence with their constituents. Nothing political of real, or imagined importance, but is made known here at once. We were better informed, for instauce, of the difficulties among the Grant, and Blaine-Washburne men of Cook county, Illinois, the other day than the Chicagoans themselves. This difficulty, from present appearances,
