A Transatiantic Romance.

The Jersey City Journal says : - A few months ago lived on Jersey avenue Miss Gussie E. Reman, a beautiful and charming young lady. Thence she removed to Seventh street, Hoboken. About a year ago Capt. Spencer, who commanded one of the National line of steamers, saw Miss Reman at a social gathering and was struck by her appearance and charming modesty. He secured an introduction to her, and saw her three times in all before his vessel sailed. When he crossed the ocean he left his heart behind, but took with him the heart of the young lady. He never came back, as he was appointed to a responsible position in the company's employ in London. An epistolary courtship ensued; Captain Spencer proposed and was accepted. Although 3,000 miles of ocean separated them, the betrothment was followed by the settlements, and arrangements, for the wedding were made.

The day was fixed by cable for June 2, and the bride was to set out and join her affianced in England. The trosseau was made in this country, and this morning the bride elect was on board the steamer Greece bound for London, A very large circle of friends saw her off. An entire section was fitted up for her personal accommodation and she hold a brief "drawing room" to her friends. The floral gifts were numerous and elegant. As the ship moved from her dock the blushing lady waived ber handkerchief, and in an April shower of smiles and tears bade farewell to friends and home forever. She goes to join a husband honored and honorable and a happy life.

Fires in New Jersey.

ATSION, N. J., May 17. - On Saturday night it was thought the forest fires were over, but this morning alarming reports are received of fiercely burning fires south and east. They have-by reports-destroyed everything in and about Hammonton, Ellwood and Egg Harbor. The vineyard country from here to Egg Harbor is totally destroyed. The people have given up all hope. They are prostrated by their efforts in fighting the flames and they are helpless with despair. One cannot realize the suffering and misery that will follow, especially to the vineyard growers.

BRICKSBURG, N. J., May 17 .- The fires are still raging about us, sun, moon and sky are obscured, and the air is stifling. Yesterday morning all danger was considered passed, but by noon the air was thick with smoke. The fire is now raging flercely about Cedar Ridge and Kettle creek, the course being southeast. The people are now seized with the greatest fears that if the drought and changing winds continue the inhabited villages will be swept over. All the Protestant churches had special prayers for rain and for staying the progress of the flames.

At Post's station a house and barn and four cattle were burned on Saturday night. There is so much excitement it is impossible to get further particulars.

Queer Law.

Judge Bacon of the Superior Court has just rendered an important decison for travelers in declaring that a corporation, having agreed to carry a passenger over a through route at a reduced rate less than that asked for transport to some intermediate station, has no right to prevent that passenger from stopping at such intermediate points till he has paid additional fare. The particular case was that of Ward Mc-Allister, a Harvard law student, who bought a ticket from Boston to New York by the Old Colony line, and on attempting to go ashore at Newport was detained by an officer of the company till he bad paid sixty cents additional. Judge Bacon says the company may demand the difference in fare between the local and the through rate, and, if payment is refused, may recover the same in a civil action, but have no other remedy. His Honor also held that a passenger leaving the boat on this dollar ticket would be a trespasser on the gang plank and wharf of the steamboat company.

A Curious Story.

West Point, N. Y., May 18 .- A young man named Purdy was found before daylight yesterday morning, bound hand and foot, on the roof of Dickey's drug-store, at Milton, N. Y., with some pieces of money lying around him. He claimed that he had been chloroformed and did not know how he got there. As the drugstore had been robbed, it is believed by some that he committed the act. The amount stolen is small. Some of the villagers claim to have seen him standing on the roof untied after the alarm had been given, and Mr. Dickey recognized him as a person whom he saw in the store while passing the window. Purdy says that he was sitting on the stoop when two men asked him for his kuife, and he knew nothing afterwards. The ferryman says that about the time Purdy refers to be saw two men running down the road from the village.

A Stroudsburg (Pa.) dispatch says the forest fires are dying out. It is reported a woman was burned to death in Beech Woods, Pike county.
