Postmaster General Confirmed.

The Senate has confirmed Horace Maynard to be Postmaster General, vice Key appointed U. S. Judge.

The Philadelphia evening Star says, last week we saw a bright, beautiful boy standing before a great audience reciting his exercise with all the promise of future oratorical eminence.

VENNOR, the weather prophet, predicts that June will be intensely hot, July a terrible month for heat, hail-storm, thunder and lightning, with frosts about the 20th.

Republican National Convention.

The action of the Convention which convened in Chicago on Wednesday last was eagerly awaited. As early as Monday the number of delegates and other politicians in Chicago was very large.

In the permanent organization the Anti-Grant men were successful, and Mr. Hoar was retained as chairman. The entire week until late on Saturday, was used in preliminary proceedings and skirmishing upon reports of committees on rules and credentials.

The Great Lock-out in Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH, June 2.—The iron mills of Western Pennsylvania are generally closed to-day. There are about 850 boiling furnaces, and the 150 in this immediate vicinity went out, and the lock-out began yesterday.

Sad Fate of a Young Girl.

Mary Tiley, a young girl from Allentown, recently went to live in Philadelphia as a servant in the family of a lawyer in that city. One day about a month ago, she was sent to deliver a parcel, but never returned to the house.

fallen into the hands of persons who would take every precaution to the end that her whereabouts should not be discovered. A few days ago, four weeks since the disappearance, information was received from the police authorities of Jersey City to the effect that a young girl supposed from the description to be Mary Tiley had been picked up in the streets and had been taken to the Charity Hospital, where she died on Thursday night of delirious fever.

A Cruel Stepfather.

Thomas Crowl, of Beaver county, was discharged with his regiment from the United States service at the close of the war, in 1865. He had served three years in the army, and participated in most of the great battles, escaping without a wound. While on the railroad on his way home, a collision occurred. He was killed. He left a wife and two small children. The widow subsequently married Jared Williams. The stepfather was abusive to the children.

Saved by His Watch.

A singular accident happened to Alonzo Tiffany, a workman in the box factory, the other day. He was running a board machine. Bearing on a trifle too hard, the crank broke, and he fell over on the auger, which is operated by steam power, and, of course kept on as if nothing had happened. His clothing was caught by the auger, which wound the cloth around itself until it came in contact with his watch, boring a hole into it, tearing out the works and then breaking off, which released Tiffany.

Almost a Riot.

At Baltimore, Monday afternoon, some of the negroes who followed the colored Post G. A. R., went into a beer saloon near the cemetery and obtained beer, which they refused to pay for. The proprietor made an effort to eject them, when they raided the place, took what they pleased, and were stoning the house when the police arrived.

Did Not Pay the Printer.

A paper in New Haven, Conn., sued a man for forty-three dollars, due for papers furnished. The defendant set up the plea that he had several times ordered the paper discontinued; but the court held that, under the laws of the State and of the United States, a publisher may continue to send his paper until all delinquencies were settled up, and that the parties to whom the papers are sent are liable for all copies so sent, and judgment was rendered for the amount and costs.

Contagious Hydrophobia.

Mrs. Mary Karney, a laundress at No. 31 Prospect, street died last week, and is supposed to have been a victim of hydrophobia. She was never bitten, but contracted the disease from her husband, who died of it seven months ago. The husband was never bitten, but once allowed a dog to lick a wound on his foot.

Miscellaneous News Items.

The stock house of the Kittanning rolling mill company fell down Wednesday evening because of pressure of too much stock inside.

The Easton Sentinel says that three iron companies at and near Glendon on the Lehigh, have 50,000 tons of pig metal on hand.

D. W. Langdon of Washington county, was struck by the limb of a falling tree on Wednesday, from the effect of which he may die.

A man supposed to have been from the neighborhood of Reading was found locked up in an empty freight car at Allentown the other day, in a dying condition. Every effort was made to minister to him, but he died soon after. He had twenty dollars in money on his person.

The Chester county burglars are pursuing the uneven tenor of their way. Andrew Anderson was chloroformed on Wednesday morning, of last week, and lost a gold watch and forty dollars' worth of clothing.

Samuel Smith, of Lebanon, who was found near that place several days ago bound and gagged, states that he was hustled from a train near Reading, by unknown parties, robbed of $3000, and then taken where found.

On Wednesday night of last week, Philip Daley, aged 16 years, a water carrier at the steel works, was lying on a platform about ten feet high in the Bessemer department. As one of the cranes which are used to lift ingots was being lowered he was struck by the apparatus and knocked to the ground. A physician was summoned but the young man died from his injuries in half an hour.

The following persons in New York have been debarred from the use of the mails for money order and registered letters, evidence satisfactory to the Post-office Department having been furnished that they conduct fraudulent schemes for obtaining money: W. H. Lee, care of Mr. Stephens; Wm. Lee, care of Mr. Hoff; S. Rand, care of Mr. Warren; James Harris, care of Mr. Grumpp; Charles O. Brooks, B. Rand, Howitt Perkins, and Wm. Gray.

John Eaby, a black smith, while driving to the residence of his father-in-law in Salisbury twp., Lancaster county, upset over an embankment. This is believed to have occurred early in the evening, and about midnight the man, horse and wagon were found lying by the roadside in one confused heap. The vehicle was completely wrecked, while the heavy seat rested on the neck of the unfortunate man, who was dead. The horse was found lying in a gutter, so severely injured that he was unable to arise. A coroner's jury rendered a verdict of "accidental death."

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 29, 1880.

The colossal mind of the average Congressman is in an emotional state of disintegration over, to him, momentous questions: What shall I do to justify myself in the opinion of my constituents for the folly and imbecility of my course during the present session of Congress, and how can I vote for an early adjournment without doing something for the country? The mind of a Congressman is generally well regulated, seldom distraught with small things, and oscillates between his salary and pulchrum for his clamorous constituency in the shape of Agricultural Reports and diseases of swine with the regularity of a pendulum.

As I have intimated, Congress wants to adjourn badly, but at present has not found sufficient excuse for a concurrent vote, as the Chicago Convention will undoubtedly nominate some person who will be distasteful to the Democrats, they will undoubtedly after the Convention, desire to prolong the session for partisan purposes, while the Republicans, if the Democrats do as I have indicated, will allow no adjournment until sometime after the Cincinnati Convention, as it is just possible, that the Democrats will nominate some one who cannot be supported by Republicans. The early adjournment idea has been fostered by two highly respectable "dark horses," Garfield and Randall, both of whom have evinced considerable solicitude for the liberties of the people, in the shape of protective tariff laws, and have thus far only been defeated by a combination of Congressmen who are interested in appropriations for public buildings, and who were antagonized by the Appropriation Committee, which latter Committee arrogates to itself the full powers of Congress.

Decoration day is being fully observed, by a general suspension of all business, and the usual ceremonies at Arlington Cemetery where thirteen thousand of our country's defenders sleep their last sleep, by the side of the ever murmuring and beautiful Potomac.

SUMMER FASHIONS.

With laudable enterprise, EHRICHS' FASHION QUARTERLY for the present Summer presents its readers with a beautiful chromo-lithograph, illustrative of the Fashions of the season. Unlike most fashion plates, which are merely creations of the artist's brain, the present is a faithful reproduction of actual, existent costumes, of which not only the full descriptions, but the prices as well, accompany the plate. For the benefit of our lady readers we append a brief summary of these costumes, extracted from an advance sheet furnished by the publishers.

No. 1 represents a walking costume in brown, of summer camel's hair cloth and polka dot satin. The front is of satin arranged in soft folds, with side draperies of camel's hair, edged with silk and tape fringe. The back of the skirt is of camel's hair, divided from the side draperies by broad bias bands of satin, and ornamented with satin bows. The basque is made in French coat style with broad hip pieces of the polka dot material, and tastefully trimmed cuffs and collar. Price, $47.00.

No. 2 is a second walking dress, appropriately named the "Sunrise," and made of gend'arme blue French bunting and silk brocade. By an ingenious arrangement of the two materials, the front is ornamented with the representation of a sun with rays; the side draperies being of bunting meeting at a point below the basque, and drawn to either side of the central design of the front. The basque is of bunting, cut long and round, and appropriately trimmed with the brocade. Price, $35.00.

The third figure in the illustration represents a combination dress of silk in two contrasting shades of drab. The underskirt in front is made of alternate strips of the two materials laid in kilt platings, the back being of a single shade, plain and full. The overskirt is trimmed across the bottom with revers of contrasting silk, with a full bow of silk in two shades; the back being of a darker shade of silk, neatly draped. The basque is made en panier, trimmed to correspond with the lower part of the costume. Price, $25.50.

The last figure is that of a dinner or reception dress of garnet colored satin duchess, elaborately trimmed with cashmere bead fringe and passementerie. The skirt is arranged in a double scarf, on which the trimming is imposed to great advantage; while the back drapery is formed of a bouffe box plating extending from the waist downward. The basque is cut with a coat back and elaborately trimmed. The sleeves are open on the upper side, and laced with cords of satin, with bands of passementerie on either side; the lower part of the sleeves, as well as the trimming of the neck, being finished with ruchings and platings of lace and satin. Price, $145.00.

FOR THE TIMES. The Pfouts Valley Drum Corps has presented their leader, James Newlin, with a silver life. Mr. Newlin returns his thanks to the drum corps. Mr. Smith of Newport played the fife on Decoration day, and praised the boys for their drumming.
