On Thursday evening a week the soldiers' orphan school at White Hall was struck by lightning and badly splintered. Nobody was seriously injured, but Mr. John Lutton, who was sitting at a residence near by was shocked insensible.

Monday a week William Morgan and "Cookie," two colored lads aged about thirteen years, got into a quarrell over a game of marbles, in Chambersburg, and Morgan drew a pocket knife and cut the other so badly that he is not expected to recover.

The list of questions which the Census enumerator is obliged to ask is appalling. In fact he is looked upon as a traveling interrogation point. The position is not as pleasant as many of the applicants supposed it would be.

Captain Pratt, of the Indian school, will shortly visit Perry county in search of a suitable place to encamp, with a number of the boys, during the coming warm weather. Only a portion of the boys will encamp at a time. The streams and mountains of sister Perry abound in game.—Valley Sentinel.

This was the warmest and dryest May for over 20 years.

Singular Accident .- On Tuesday last a son of Theodore Corl, aged about four years, residing in Juniata twp., met with a singular accident. The child was standing up in the buggy with its hands on the dash. While driving along near Clark's Mill, a boy passing on horse back caused the animal in the vehicle to kick up, and in so doing the iron shoe hit the hand of the child, cutting off the first finger, leaving it in the road, and so nearly taking off the second that it had to be amputated. The next finger was also badly mashed. Dr. Strickler attended to the wounds; but the most skillful surgery in the world would not prevent the child from hav-Ing a crippled hand for life.

The Census.-The census enumerators have commenced their labors. They meet with some curious people, and as many do not fully understand the object of the many questions asked, they are often given evasive answers. In one instance a woman being asked whether married or single," threatened to broomstick the enumerator for insulting her, asking him, "what he supposed she was doing with all these young ones if a single woman." One man was quite mad, because after giving the list of names of the members of his family, he was asked if all were white persons. The law is very strict on the subject and the enumerator is furnished a list of questions he is required to ask. Persons should remember this fact and also remember that to refuse to answer them subjects the person refusing to severe penalties.

Rail Road Prospects.-It has been decided that there is a good route for a railroad from Bloomfield to Newport. This week the committee will see what encouragement is held out by our citizens towards pushing the project to a success. Responsible parties have offered to construct the road, and not be paid a single dollar until the road is graded, bridged, and accepted by the directors. This contract they are ready to enter into as soon as a company is formed, so that a binding contract can be made. An arrangement of this kind will ensure the stock holders against any possible chance of paying money without getting any return for it. If the citizens of this valley want a railroad outlet, now is the chance to secure it, but in order to do so they must aid the committee in their labors by words and subscriptions. It is not enough to say "we want a road," but you must say how much you want it, and whether you want the benefit of a road at your own, or some other man's expense. We want to see a railroad running up this valley, and are willing to pay one thousand dollars towards putting one into operation. How much will You subscribe towards it?

Sad Accident.-Last Tuesday, just before the dinner hour, Elmer Ziegler, one of the employees at Cook's saw mill, above town, met with an accident, which is of a very serious nature, and will require great care and careful nursing to bring him through. Capt. H. S. Dimm, the foreman of the mill, set Elmer to work at what is called "gumming" a large circular saw, on an emery wheel, which is rigged up in the lower part of the mill, after which he (the Captain) went up stairs where the saws operate to attend to some matters. He was only up a few moments when Harvey Wingert, fireman, called him down again, and when he arrived where he left Elmer working, he was horrifled to see the young man lying on the ground and his head bathed in blood. While "gumming" the saw, the emery wheel, which was a new one, bursted, breaking into four pieces, one of the pieces striking Ziegler on the left side of his head. He was taken out of the mill and to his father's residence, which is only a short Eby summoned. The doctor found his face very much injured, but could not tell whether the skull was fractured or not. He also sustained a cut under the chin, which it is supposed he got while falling, his chin striking one of the teeth of the saw. It was said that his tongue was also bitten. Mr. Cook informed us that the stone was not of the make usually used by them, but was made by the Union Emery Wheel Company, of Boston, Mass., and would not have been used had it not been sent by the firm from which he has been in the habit of getting all his saws, etc., which is a perfectly reliable one. The stone was, undoubtedly, of very inferior quality .-Newport Ledger.

A Barber Falls Dead.-Last night about ten minutes before six o'clock a journeyman barber in the employ of Thomas & Dennee, barbers, 502 Market street, was shaving a customer. Suddenly he became unsteady, the customer caught him by the wrists and he swooned in the arms of Mr. Thomas, one of the proprietors. He was carried out into the yard and a physician sent for. Dr. M. F. Raysor arrived, but the man died in about ten minutes. The man's name is Wm. M'Clintock. He is about thirtyfive years old and leaves a wife. His residence is on East State street near the railroad. M'Clintock has had an affection of the heart for some time, which troubled him whenever he became excited. Yesterday he was considerably worried over a law suit and had complained during the afternoon of feeling unwell. The body was taken charge of by the secret society to which he belonged and conveyed to his home. When the occurrence became known an immense crowd of morbidly curious people gathered around the place and it was only by the efforts of several policemen that they were prevented from rushing in to where the dead man lay .-Harrisburg Patriot of 1st inst.

A Muscular Horse Thief .- Information was received in this city yesterday morning that some time during Sunday night the stable of Porter Thompson, at Mexico, Juniata county, had been broken open and a horse and buggy stolen. On making inquiries it was discovered that the thief had taken breakfast in Harrisburg and was on his way to Middletown. Telegrams were sent to various points along the line of the Pennsylvania railroad, and this morning information was received that the fellow had been captured at Elizabethtown, Lancaster county. Chief Cilley and Detective A. Roat were preparing to go to Elizabethtown by carriage, no trains stopping there until this evening, when they learned that the thief had escaped. He had been captured by two men, and while they were taking him to the depot he turned on them and, after whipping both, he fled. They followed and fired revolvers at him, and finally recaptured the fellow, taking him to the depot for security. While one of the captors absented himself from the room momentarily the thief turned on the remaining officer and severely whipped ded in escaping, and up to this time he has not been caught. And that's why Messrs. Cilley and Roat did not take a carriage ride down to the beautiful county of Lancaster, -Harrisburg Telegraph.

Arrested for Murder.—Detective Lyon has arrested Emanuel Rittinger, Uriah Moyer and Mary Hartley on the charge of murdering an aged couple in Snyder county, two years ago. The parties were brought from Michigan to which place they had removed.

Up to December 8th, 1877, James Kintzler, aged 73, and his wife, Gretchen Kintzler, aged 75, lived in Adams township, Snyder county. They had lived there for about fifty years. They had no children. They owned a farm of ten acres, and had accumulated, it is supposed, about $2,500. This money they had secreted in their house, under the carpets, under the rafters in the garret, in cracks and in similar places from the roof to the cellar. All the bank notes they received they had exchanged for silver and copper coin. This soon became noised about the neighborhood, and became known to the lawless class who lived there. Kintzler was frequently advised to deposit his money in some bank, but he replied that what little he had was as safe with him as anywhere

On Sunday night, Dec. 8, 1877, his house was burned down, and on Sunday morning following, the charred skeletons of the aged couple were found among the embers. A thorough search among the ashes was made, but no money was found. After a careful investigation a Coroner's jury rendered a verdict that the Kintzlers had been murdered and robbed, and their house burned down to conceal the crime.

which was a new one, bursted, breaking into four pieces, one of the pieces striking Ziegler on the left side of his head. He was taken out of the mill and to his father's residence, which is only a short distance above the mill, and Dr. J. B.

The story of the murder, as it is claimed, will now be shown at the trial, is that the supposed murderers agreed to rob the Kintzlers on Saturday night.—
The Kintzlers elsept in a small room on the lower floor, and the plan was to inject chloroform into the room and so stupely them as to make the robbery easy to accomplish. This plan falled, They took an axe and battered down the door. As they entered, the old man met them, and he was felled to the floor with a club. His aged wife shricked murder and ran to her husband's assistance,-She, too, was knocked down with a club, dropping on her hands and knees, she begged piteously that they would spare their lives and take all they had. She implored them not to commit murder, because they would be found out, as there was one in the party who would tell all. At this she was struck another blow on the head, which killed her almost instantly. The murderers then searched the house, and found about $2,000 in coin. When their search was completed one of the party saw Mr. Kintzler's limb move. With an oath in Pennsylvania German, he exclaimed, " He's not dead yet," and he kicked the old man violently on the head, while another cut his throat.

There were two women in the party, and they suggested that the best thing to be done would be to burn down the house with the dead bodies. The women gathered leaves, and carried them into the kitchen, poured coal oil over them, and set them on fire. One of the women threw a pot of old pennies into the fire, saying that it would not do take all the money, but that some must be found in the ruins in order to avert suspicion. A later search was made, and a number of old coins were found, but these did not allay suspicion, because it was proven that a larger amount should have been found if the fire had been an accidental one. The Commissioners of the county therefore took an active interest in probing the case to the bottom.

A Probable Murder .- Yesterday morning Thomas Foster, a farmer, residing at Byberry, Twenty-third ward, visited the city with a load of hay, and after disposing of it proceeded to Mt. Vernon street to transact some business. He then started for his home, and in passing down Mt. Vernon street was accosted by a colored man, who asked in what direction he was going. Mr. Foster replied that he resided at Hyberry and was bound in that direction. The stranger then requested that he be allowed to ride in the wagon, stating that he had no money to ride in the steam cars and was too ill to walk. The request was granted, and the colored man took a seat beside Mr. Foster. Last evening about nine o'clock, when the team had arrived a short distance above Bell's corner, in the vicinity of Bustleton, the harness attached to one of the horses became disarranged, and while Foster was engaged in repairing it, he was approached by the colored man, and struck on the head with a stone and knocked insensible. The colored man then robbed his victim of $25 and fled. Several hours later Foster was found lying in the road by a farmer bound for this city, and he was removed to his home, where he now lies in a very precarlous condition. The authorities are now engaged in investigating the matter.—Harrisourg Fatriot of the 3d inst.

Juniata County.— We copy the following from the Juniata county papers of last week:

Mitch Varnes lost a valuable horse on Thursday of last week, which he found dead in the pasture field. This is the fourth animal Mr. V. has lost by death inside of a year.

A fire was discovered among some rubbish in the alley back of Mr. John Robinson's stable, in Patterson, on Wednesday, that threatened for a time to be serious. Part of the fence close to the stable was burned, and but for its timely discovery much damage might have resulted.—Tribune.

On Wednesday night of last week a horse belonging to William Dixon strayed on the railroad above Thompsontown and was killed by a Pittsburgh express west. The front part of the engine was considerably damaged.

On Sunday night of this week, two fine horses were stole from Mr. Porter Thompson, at Mexico. The thieves took the horses out of the stable and hitched them to a buggy belonging to Mr. T., and drove away, in which direction it is not known. The horse, harness and buggy were valued it $400. A reward of $50 is offered for the recovery of the stolen property and the apprehension of the thelves.

[The thief was subsequently arrested, and the property recovered. — ED. Times.]

On Monday evening, about dusk, as a lady on Cherry street stepped from the door of her house she saw a snake stretched across the pavement. She ran into the garden and brought out a hoe.—The snake was still there. Then she called five or six neighbor ladies, and they all came—one with a rake, one with a fire-shovel, one with a broom, one with a stick of wood, one with hot water, and one to do the shouting. Of course children in the neighborhood came as only the coming generation can come upon the scene in which a snake is the central figure. A vigorous attack was made upon the reptile, which was kept up till all parties were satisfied when, upon a close investigation of the object that had been so vigorously assaulted. It turned out to be a black strap. Senthel.

Another lot of Lawns will be received this week by F. MORTIMER.

Cumberland County.—We copy the following from the Cumberland papers of last week:

There are now under regular training in the Indian School at Cariisle Barracks, ten boys as carpenters, six as blacksmiths, nine as saddlers, one printer, and the remainder, who are old enough, under agricultural training.

George Motter of Mifflin township, lost a fine mare on Thursday night of last week. The mare with colt was in pasture, and the next morning was found dead, and the colt unharmed. The general supposition is she was killed by lightning.

A. M. Clark, Esq., of Newburg, sent a reglatered letter to his mother, in Kansas, containing seventy-five dollars, which was lost. The letter has been traced to near its destination and it is supposed that a postmistress scooped it in and decamped to Colorado, who will, no doubt be brought back by the authorities, and the P. M., or the bait be made to make good the loss.—Enterprise.

A little daughter of William Goodyear, the baker, on Friday evening last ran against the blade of a hatchet in the hands of Jacob Baker and received a severe cut in the temple. The wound bled freely, but was drawn together and dressed with court plaster, and the little sufferer is again as well as can be expected.

A large Berkshire sow belonging to Wm. Drawbaugh, of Frankfort twp., was found dead under a tree in a field on last Friday morning. There was nothing to show that she struggled or had been sick, but a blue streak along her jaw and down one of her front legs, led to the belief that she was struck and killed by lightning.

On last Wednesday, Raymond, a young son of Mrs. Ed. Eberly, met with a very painful accident. He was playing with powder in a wood near town, when, on attempting to light some with a match, the powder exploded in the boy's face, burning him very severely on the right cheek and eye. His injuries are painful but not serious.

During the severe thunder storm on Thursday night of last week, Mr. Joseph Bosier's barn a little ways west of town was struck by lightning and a considerable portion of the roof torn off.

The same night the new barn of Daniel Kunkle, in the northwest corner of Eliver Spring twp., was also struck by lightning. The damage done was fortunately light and consisted of the splitting of a post and the knocking off of some boards.—Volunteer.
