Some of the boys of Newport have been having drunken sprees from wine and alcohol stolen from the cellar of B. M. Eby's drug store. The liquor was stolen by a colored boy who entered the cellar through an unsealed door leading into Dr. Slinger's cellar. Ben now has the door nailed up, and if the boy is caught, he will be apt to get locked up.

Stolen.—On Friday night, July 30, the shop of P. F. Michener, in Duncannon, was entered, and there was stolen therefrom one nickel plated ratchet brace, one three-fourth inch, and one one inch bit, both single worm, and one 1 1/2 inch firmer chisel.

Death from Hydrophobia.—Captain Jas. H. Stanley, a prominent citizen of Middletown, in Dauphin county, died last Wednesday from hydrophobia. When the symptoms first became manifest, last Sunday, he bade his friends goodbye and submitted himself to the care of keepers; but on Monday night, during a violent spasm, he escaped, and was found subsequently in the suburbs, biting at everything within his reach. The deceased was bitten by his own dog about five weeks ago. During the intervals between his spasms he would converse in an intelligent manner with those around him.

A Thrifty Chap.—Harrisburg can lay claim successfully to the most thrifty German in the State. He is a carter by trade, and six years ago began to gather up stray brick-bats lying in the streets with a view of finally obtaining enough to build a house. On rainy days, when he could get no job, he would search the town for bats, and finally his efforts were crowned with success. He had enough. Then buying a lot, he set the mechanics to work, and is now living in a house every brick in whose walls was picked up in the streets and lanes of the city.

Arrested for Murder.—On Tuesday last, a man named F. P. Hoover, who resided in Spring township, was lodged in jail in this place on the charge of murder. On the 26th of January last, Hoover's wife was shot and killed by him, as was then claimed, by an accidental discharge of the weapon as he was cleaning it. No investigation was held at the time and Mrs. H. was buried at the Frankford church in Cumberland county. On Sunday the 25th ult., Hoover married a Miss Peck, a young girl who was living with him at the time his wife was killed, and who was present in the room when the fatal shot was fired.—The Peck family were opposed to the marriage and now make the charge that the killing of Mrs Hoover was murder, and that her death was caused by her husband on purpose to make a way for this marriage. The testimony offered to substantiate the charge seemed to warrant his arrest, and therefore he was committed to answer before the court.

Narrow Escape.—On Monday morning last an accident occurred in A. V. Hombach's marble shop, which might have proved serious to those employed therein, but fortunately did not amount to any loss, save the running away of the contents of the carboy. Saturday last Mr. H. received a ten gallon carboy of muriatic acid, which he uses in cleaning marble, and placed it in one corner of the room. On Monday morning two of his employees attempted to pour out some of it for use, when a crack was heard and the acid ran over the floor, filling the room with a very foul gas, which forced all hands to vamoose the ranche instanter. The acid ran out into the garden, completely killing every spear of grass, and vegetable with which it came in contact. None of the hands were injured, but Yura Fleck had his boots burned.—Lodger.

The Boss Fish Story.—The Altoona Tribune tell a remarkably fish story. It says a young man bathing in a small stream near Conemaugh was seized by some large fish that he escaped from only by the loss of a large piece from the calf of his leg. The young man having since had his leg amputated. It will be remembered that sometime in May, as a train of freight cars were coming east a link broke and a slight collision occurred throwing a car into the stream at this point. The car contained general freight and among other things a live alligator, about six feet long, which was on its way to the Philadelphia Zoological Garden. Nothing was ever afterward seen of the animal and it was supposed to have been killed by the fall. But it must have escaped, and this was probably the animal which attacked young Sharp. People in the vicinity are in a great state of excitement and will not let their children go near the stream, as they are afraid they will be eaten. Almost a constant watch has since been kept on the place by men armed with shot guns who are determined to destroy the beast, but as yet it has failed to show itself.

Wm. Kenawell, of Walker township, called with us on Monday, and showed us a piece of ore which he took from his land. It is a dark brown in color. Mr. O'Neal, a blacksmith, melted some of the ore in a ladle and a large portion of it proved to be a white metal. It is supposed to be either silver or nickel. Mr. Kenawell says the vein he took it from is four feet in thickness, but he does not Snake Bitten.—The Carlisle Volunteer says: James Bitner, of Henry's Valley Perry county, in company with others, was cutting a bee tree on Friday evening. Noticing a copperhead he marched for a stone to dispatch the reptile.—While in the act of picking up the stone another snake which lay concealed in the leaves bit him on the thumb.—Whisky was administered but seemingly with little effect. At this writing, Saturday, the arm to the shoulder is swollen enormously and has turned to a dark color. The young man is thought to be in a very critical condition.

Good Report.—The Altoona Tribune makes the following pleasing mention of former residents of this place:

Mr. E. A. K. Hackett, formerly of the Tribune, but now of the Blufftown, (Ind.) Banner, last Friday purchased the Fort Wayne Daily Sentinel, and will greatly improve the paper typographically and its editorial and news department as well. Mr. D. G. Hackett, now business manager of the Tribune, will occupy a similar position on the Sentinel, and C. M. Hackett, lately connected with the press of this city, will fill the position of City Editor. They will leave for Fort Wayne the latter part of this week to enter upon their respective duties. We most heartily wish all these gentlemen unbounded success in their new enterprise. Each of them has the business capacity and journalistic experience to give Fort Wayne a first-class daily paper. Mr. D. G. Hackett has so long been a fixture about the Tribune office that we part with him with reluctance. He was careful in the management of the financial part of this establishment, and in his new field we feel sure he will not be less careful and diligent. Cal. has the ability to get up a racy and readable city department, and this he will do as soon as he gets the hang of the city. May their most sanguine expectations be realized.

A little four year old daughter of Benjamin Mitchell, of Patterson, fell off the porch on Friday last, and broke her arm. Dr. Elder gave the needed surgical aid, and she is doing well.

McNeal Arnold, of Tuscarora township, had his arm broken while handling logs on last Friday. The same log rolled over Al. Laird but he was in town on Monday, not visibly flattened.
A valuable horse owned by Porter Thompson hanged himself by getting his head fast between posts in his stall a few days ago. Mr. Thompson had been offered $150 for the horse only a few days before the accident.
While bringing the cows from the pasture a few evenings ago, a copperhead snake struck its fangs into the leg of a little daughter of Benjamin Long, of Susquehanna township. The limb and body of the child were greatly swollen, and for a while the life of the child was considered as good as gone. The latest report however, says that there is hope of a speedy recovery.
As the funeral cortege which followed the remains of Moses Kyle to their last resting place, on Sunday, was ascending the hill below Mount Pleasant, a horse began to back with a buggy.—The result was that a carriage containing James Adams and lady, was thrown over an embankment, a carriage containing John Stoner and son was upset, H. Atker had his spring wagon broken, and Tobias Atker had his buggy damaged. No one was seriously injured.

know what distance it runs under the ground. He intends sending a specimen piece of the ore to an assayer.—Dem. & Register.

Cumberland County.—We copy the following from the Cumberland papers of last week:

Last week Mr. Jonas C. Rupp, of Hampden township, met with a severe accident. He was engaged at hanging up his hay ladders in the wagon shed and fell from the upper floor, striking the iron hooks of the ladders with his body, injuring himself seriously, being confined to his room ever since. He is attended by Dr. H. R. Williams, of Hogestown and is gradually improving.

Lewis Gutworth of the Fourth ward before retiring Tuesday night, undertook to remove a number of cartridge shells from a revolver he had been using during the day. One of the cartridges had not been used, and of course it was necessary for this one to explode, and lodge in Mr. G's leg. The ball could not be removed on Tuesday night, and yet remains in the leg above the knee.—Valley Sentinel.

On Wednesday evening of last week, Mr. Isaac Single, a well known citizen of the north-eastern part of Silver Spring township died very suddenly of heart disease. He retired early complaining of feeling light-headed. His wife opened the windows to admit fresh air into the room and immediately sent one of the children to Mr. Simon Walters, a neighbor, for assistance, but ten minutes later he breathed his last. He was nearly fifty-five years old.

Samuel Stanton and Isaac Sampson (colored) were engaged at sinking an ore shaft near Huntsville last week. When the shaft had reached the depth of thirty feet an accident occurred which might have resulted fatally to one of them. Stanton was hoisting the bucket containing about a bushel of clay and was about to take it out at the top when it suddenly dropped back with all its contents upon the top of Sampson's head, the chimes cutting through the skull. Dr. W. H. Longdorf attended the injured man, and last accounts say he is doing well.

One day last week, an individual by the name of Jake Smith, under the full blaze of day, deliberately entered the premises of Samuel Smith (son of Baltzer), a few miles north of Shippensburg, and drove therefrom two hogs, and when within a mile of town, was in the act of selling them, he was suddenly surprised by the owner. Jake seeing the fix he was in at once took to his heels, leaving the hogs. Mr. Smith immediately had a warrant issued for the arrest of said Jake, but up to the hour of going to press, nothing has been heard of the audacious thief.—Shippensburg News.

On last Monday night, the dwelling of Samuel Miller, in Newton township, was struck by lightning. The stroke dividing, one portion struck a locust post in front of the house, the other striking the end of the porch, injuring the wood work and roof of the porch, and then entered the house through the brick wall, again dividing, one portion going out at the washboard, the other running up between the partition, tearing and loosening the lath and plastering. Mr. S. Miller's family, were in the dwelling, but escaped unhurt.

On last Saturday Charles Miller, a young man in the employ of Jeremiah Baker, farmer, living one mile east of this place, brought a load of corn to the "Town Mill," and after unloading the corn, attempted to turn the team, consisting of five horses, in the direction of home, when they became unmanageable and, turning too short, threw Mr. M. against the corner of the mill, where he was caught by the fore wheel of the wagon and badly crushed. He fell to the ground, and before assistance could be rendered the hind part of the wagon had passed over him. He was taken to Mr. Baker's home and Dr. Bender, of this place, summoned who dressed the wounds of the unfortunate man. At present writing he is doing as well as can be expected.—Carlisle Volunteer.
