The persons arrested as the Benders, when confronted with the citizens of the Kansas town were declared net to be them. It was an old dodge to get cheap transportation.

Death of Ex-Governor Bigler.

EX-GOVERNOR WM. BIGLER died at his home in Clearfield at 9 o'clock last Monday morning. He was born in Spring township, this county, (then Cumberland), about January 1, 1814, and had passed into the second half of his 67th year.

Cutting a Man's Throat to Save His Life.

The Harrisburg Telegraph says:—The necessity of prompt action in an emergency when one is confronted by sudden danger was never so forcibly illustrated as in this city yesterday. From a gentleman who witnessed the affair we learned the following facts: Dr. Eckart of Rockville and a lady were driving up Third Street about 1 o'clock on the way home.

Villainous Tricks on a Farmer.

The Huntingdon Globe says that Jesse Curfman, Esq., of Cass township, an old and respectable farmer, has a thriving young apple orchard on his farm about one mile and a quarter west of Cassville. Some fiend in human shape paid it a visit lately in the darkness of the night, and with a sharp knife peeled the bark from the body of eight or ten of his most beautiful and prosperous trees.

Terrible Accident.

A train on the West Jersey line was run into by the second train on Tuesday evening and two persons were killed and twenty or more badly injured. The latter section was entered by the cars had passed when the second section was on behind. The latter section was approached, and were applied they fatted to work, owing to the wet, and the rear locomotive crashed into the last car of the first section, telescoping it and causing a fearful wreck. As the locomotive forced its way into the car the cylinder heads were forced open, and a cloud of steam poured through the car, scalding nearly every passenger in it. In an instant there was a scene of fearful excitement. The sound of the hissing steam and shrieks of the terrified passengers were blended and carried through the cars, striking terror to the hearts of all.

Since the above was in type sixteen more persons have died from injuries received.

Why They Moved.

A party of young men went from New York, recently, to the wilds of Potter county, this State, to enjoy a season of camping out. They erected their tent, made a fire in front of it to keep away the mosquitoes, and lay down for the night to sleep. Being awakened in the night by an unusual noise, one of the young men looked out of the tent, and saw the fire surrounded by rattlesnakes. The party took their clubs, sallied forth and attacked the rattling intruders, killing twenty-six of them, whose united length was seventy-eight feet. It is scarcely necessary to say that their first work in the morning was to "fold their tent like the Arab and silently steal away" from that particular locality.

A Terrible Fall.

James P. Wills, a painter, while engaged in painting the roof of the Globe Hotel, Altoona, met with a frightful death Wednesday morning. After finishing his work he, in a playful, not to say foolhardy, manner began jumping from the roof of the main building to the roof of another wing running parallel with it, between which there is an intervening space of about five feet. He had successfully accomplished the feat twice, against which his employer, Mr. J. H. Bergstresser, who is also Wills' brother-in-law, strongly remonstrated, but he was deaf to all advice and warning, and remarked that he was not at all afraid of the undertaking. On the third attempt he slipped on the comb roofing of the western wing, and fell a distance of fifty-four feet, striking on the plank flooring between the two buildings. His head was shockingly crushed in, and he expired almost instantly.—Tribune.

A High Toned Chap.

In the Henrico county, Va., Court, last week, J. W. Hoenninger, who had just been summoned as a juror to try the case of horse stealing, upon going to the clerk's desk to be sworn in, refused to serve because there was a negro on the jury. The Judge thereupon ordered a fine of $250 to be imposed upon Hoenninger, with ten days' imprisonment in jail for contempt. Hoenninger subsequently purged himself of contempt, and consented to serve, and his punishment was remitted.

A Heavy Robbery.

UTICA, N. Y., August 9.—Henry Schuler, a representative of Noah Mitchell, of New York, came to Utica last Friday with a stock of diamonds. He left Baggs' hotel at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and returned at 11 last evening. This morning he discovered that during his absence he had been robbed of diamonds valued at $15,000. There is no clue to the thieves.

Business Rivalry Causes a Murder.

STEVENS POINT, Wis., August 11.—A despatch from Warsaw, Wis., says: Dr. Edward L. Hazle was shot here last night by Dr. Bennett. Dr. Hazle had only recently come to Warsaw to practice his profession. The jealousy of Dr. Bennett, the resident dentist, was aroused, and last evening while intoxicated he procured a shot gun and went to a hotel where Hazle was and fired at the latter, killing him instantly.

Since the fire in Milton the population of the place has increased, but there is great bitterness and resentment among people of small means at what they regard as the greed of those who have abundance.

A fire occurred at White Sulphur Springs, on Sunday a week, by which forty-five horses, some of them valuable ones, were burned. The fire occurred by the carelessness of negroes in a barn.

York, Pa., August 13.—Word was received here this morning that Jacob Emig, aged about seventy, who left yesterday with a car load of mules for Philadelphia, was killed on the Pennsylvania railroad last night. His remains will be sent home for burial.

PENNSYLVANIA STATE COLLEGE admits both sexes. Endowment half a million. Tuition free. Courses of study, Classical, Scientific, and Agricultural. A thorough Preparatory Department. Expenses $3 to $5 per week. For catalogue, address, JOSEPH SHORTLIFFE, A. M., Pres. State College, Pa.

Miscellaneous News Items.

John Dickie, of Westmoreland county lost his barn which was struck by lightning. The loss is estimated at $4,000.

W. A. Vallance, of Fulton county, had twenty-seven turkeys and three chickens carried off by a fox a short time ago.

A widow of Indiana county, named Beatty, met with a horrible death by her dress catching on the tumbling shaft of a threshing machine.

Miss Annie Kalemback, 22 years of age, daughter of Jacob Kalemback, living near Henrysville, Clark county, shot herself to death because her parents would not allow her to hire out as a domestic.

An Ohio paper says: About twenty high toned New Yorkers, members of the Seventeenth regiment, who didn't want to go into camp, were arrested yesterday, and marched out at the point of the bayonet.

A cripple with a sick wife and five children were turned out of a rickety tenement house a few days ago in New York because they owed $8 rent. The tenement is owned by this society for the prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The town of Red Wing, Ia., is full of men wanting employment in the harvest field but the twine binder has put an end to the golden age of the harvest hand. Prices are lower and fewer men get employed than ever before.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., August 9.—Alphozo Klock fatally shot Jerry Holden of Herkimer, last night in a cow stable, two miles west of this place. Holden was having improper relations with Klock's sister when the deed was committed. Klock delivered himself to the authorities this morning.

WILMINGTON, Del., August 11.—A burglar entered the house of W. L. G. Thomas last night, during the absence of the family, and the brother of the owner of the house returning while the intruder was there, shot the latter in the breast, inflicting a wound from which he will probably die. The wounded burglar's name is Frederic Creese, and he belongs to Philadelphia.

Parties who were blackberrying near Locust valley, Long Island, on Sunday, found the body of a man near the woods; the severed head was laying six or seven feet distant. The man had been dead four or five weeks. A woman says she saw him three weeks ago, but supposed him to be drunk and did not go near. The unknown was about fifty years old, was well dressed, and the pockets turned inside out.

Mr. Joseph L. Buffington, an employee of the Telegraph office for a number of years past, complained of being unwell on Saturday and quit work in consequence. During the evening he was stricken with paralysis, which deprived him of the use of his right hand, and affected his right leg to some extent. His numerous friends will learn of his terrible affliction with deep regret.

New York, August 10.—This morning the hull of the burning vessel, Nictaux, still at large, floated against the pier occupied by the American Export Lumber Co., at Hunter's Point. The premises occupied by the company occupies both sides of Newton creek. At the time the Nictaux came in contact with the pier they were unloading there a large number of vessels. The fire immediately communicated to the lumber yard and spread in every direction with lightning rapidity. From the yard the fire spread to the vessels, and notwithstanding the efforts made by several tugs, which hastened to their assistance, six barges, one schooner and one ship were soon in flames. Over ten acres of fire is now raging wildly, and it appears beyond the control of the firemen.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 11, 1880. Year by year this city, as the Capital of a great and growing country, becomes of more and more importance. To say nothing of the great increase of population and wealth as an immediate consequence of the war, there are boards and Commissions of scientific, business, and other character created at every session, with headquarters here. These indirectly add to our permanent population and prosperity. The mis-named "Congressional Library"—it should be the "Library of the United States"—also, and for a similar reason, brings us very many receipts. Most of this gain is due to the fact that Washington is the capital of the country, but our excellent climate and the unsurpassed location of the city, have their favorable influence also. I expect to see Washington, in the next twenty years, a city as much in advance of its present condition as it now is of what it was prior to the war, and that will make it, beyond question, the first city on earth.

One interesting question was decided yesterday by the first Comptroller of the Treasury. A U. S. draft, sent out to an attorney in Tennessee, had been taken from the attorney under order from the State Court, the intention being to secure its endorsement and payment by others than the owner or attorney. The decision of the Comptroller is that only the owner or his duly authorized attorney can cash the draft. If the original owner—the party in whose name it draws, has died, or otherwise become incapable of acting, the papers must be returned to the U. S. Treasury, and a new claim made to the proper representatives, and a new draft issued.

The conundrum why Senator Conkling staid away from the New York Republican conference has not yet been solved. One report has it that he absented himself because of Garfield's inability to carry out a contract to displace Merritt from the Custom House. On the other hand, it has been hinted that Conkling absented himself as a matter of policy, in order to do away with the idea that there was any kicking on hand between him and Garfield. General Arthur is authority for the assurance that in two or three weeks from this time there will be no occasion to complain that the campaign is languishing in New York, nor that Senator Conkling is continuing his policy of masterly inactivity.

At Boston's coming two hundred and fiftieth anniversary it is expected that both Hancock and Garfield will be present, and it is a part of the program that they shall ride in a barouche together in the great procession. They will make a good looking pair.

Bailou's Magazine for September.

The September number of Bailou's Monthly Magazine is a charming specimen of a family serial, and one that can be read with pleasure and profit. It is full of stories, poetry and engravings that suit the season of the year. The first article is an illustrated one on scenes in Egypt, and contains a vast amount of information given in a pleasant manner. There is no other magazine published in this country that has such attractive contents as Bailou's; and, taken in connection with its price, it should be in every family in the country.

Published by Thomas & Talbot, 23 Hawley Street, Boston, Mass., at $1.50 per annum, postpaid, and for sale at all the news depots in the country. Send in your subscriptions at once to this popular magazine.

N. B.—We will furnish BAILLOU'S MAGAZINE to club with our paper at $3.75 per annum postpaid, for both publications.

The September number of the North American Review will contain an article on the ruins of Central America, by M. Charnay, the leader of the expedition now exploring Central America under the auspices of the American and French governments; also a paper on the trial of Mrs. Surratt, containing many new facts, written by the only surviving member of her counsel.
