Death Caused by Politics.

CHESTER, August 30 .- As a crowd of men were standing on the station platform at Rockdale, about seven miles from here, last night, discussing politics one of them believed to be John Duffy, drew a pistol and fired at Wmi. Drake .-The ball missed Drake but struck Tom Conner, aged nineteen, behind the ear and killed him instantly. Duffy has since given himself up, claiming that the killing was accidental.

A Life Saved by a Corset.

On Monday afternoon, Mrs. Kate Benner, on the farm of Robert J. Evans Esq., near Reading, approached the cattle in the yard to drive them out. A feroclous bull turned upon her, and tossed her over his head. As soon as she landed on the earth she crawled into some bushes and managed to escape to the house. A physician, after making an examination found that one horn had struck her near the left shoulder, and the other at her right side. Had it not been for a strong corset one horn would have penetrated her body and caused a fatal wound.

· Valuable Baggage.

MONTREAL, Sept. 1 .- The United States custom authorities at this point are elated over a recent seizure. Mrs. Harmburger, dealer in fancy goods, left for New York by the 4 P. M. train on Thursday, with eighteen pieces of baggage declared to contain her effects as an emigrant. She arrived only ten minutes before the train started, and was ordered to report all dutiable goods at Richford, Vermont. Meantime a cursory examination of one package, said to contain wearing apparel, disclosed bottles of champagne of the best brand. A telegram was sent to Richford, and when she arrived there and again presented a Consular certificate a close inspection resulted in the disclosure of rolls of silks, velvets, laces, and silverware, and champagne. The goods were detained, and Mrs. Harmburger proceeded alone to New York. The good are valued at $10,000.

A Man That Must Marry or Lose.

Miscellaneous News Items.

In parts of Centre county laboring men are so scarce on farms that women are compelled to perform part of the stable work.

137 Five boys who had elimbed on top of a passenger car of the Lowell & Lawrence R. R., were swept off by a covered bridge, on Saturday a week and killed.

John Z. H. Duryea was killed on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, near Metuch en, N. J., one day last week. Papers found on the person of the deceased proved his identity.

TTA dispatch from Iona, Mich., says : John Hamilton, a wealthy farmer of Iona, was shot by his nephew on Monday night. It was a deliberate and unprovoked murder."

Solomom Evilizer, of Urbana, O., felt something fooling around his ankle Wednesday, but didn't mind it, and went into the house, when it was discovered that a rattlesnake had bitten him. He now lies at death's door.

TTA huge snake had long been the terror of farmers about Mt. Sterling, Ohio, Tuesday a band of bold crusaders ran the reptile down and after a terrible battle killed him. He was 12 feet long, with a display head and terrible fangs.

137 The Lancaster New Era tells of a young lady of that city who, being taken sick and vomiting threw off a lemon seed that had not only developed roots, but had what appeared to be leaves upon it. A prominent physician will prepare a paper on the subject.

COOR STATION, N. J., August 30 .- Jasper Thomas, a lawyer of Washington, D. C., who was on a visit here with his family was thrown from a carriage while riding out with his wife and two daughters to day and was instantly killed, his neck being broken. It is supposed he was taken with a fit.

EF An incendiary fire early Friday morning a week, at Steelton, just below Harrisburg, destroyed a warehouse and three stables owned by J. B. Litch, and a building belonging to Henry Banholtzer. The contents, with the exception of nine horses, were entirely consumed. The buildings were insured.

The German physiologist, Leo Baltzer, who has been carrying on excavations in the neighborhood of Nordhausen, has discovered, at a depth of about six feet below the surface of the valley, the entire skeleton of an antediluvian rhinoceros. The height of this beast can scarcely have been less than that of the average African elephant.

137 At an early hour Tuesday morning the track watchman of the Pennsylvania railroad discovered the remains of a young colored man on the tracks near Carpenter station, in Westmoreland county, which had been chopped to pieces by a train. The remains were gathered up and cared for but nobody could identify the deceased. It is supposed that he had been stealing a ride on a freight train from which he fell.

137 A German named Wm. Gossman, who at times worked as a laborer in Berks county and at other times tramped the antry, has fallen heir to a large fortune in Germany. He has received $40,000 thus far, with prospects of more to come. He is spending his money in the purchase of hotels about the country and driving horses. A few days ago he presented a female tramp with whom he used to associate with a thousand-dollar note.

Rev. James C. Watson, a resident of Milton, died at the Washington Hotel at an early hour yesterday, aged seventy-five years. He came to the city on Monday to preach the funeral sermon of a former parishioner, and was accompanied by his daughter. While walking on Chestnut street, below Eighth, on Monday evening, he was suddenly attacked with illness, and fell. He was carried to his room in the hotel. The physicians summoned pronounced his disease that of the heart, and his case as hopeless .- Philadelphia North American of the 2nd inst.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 1, 1880. Assistant Secretary Bell, of the Interlor Department does not anticipate trouble with the Utes. He thinks the treaty will be signed, as, before Ouray's death, the matter was thoroughly understood and the opposition to the treaty was not great. A dispatch received yesterday says the Indians have confidence in Ouray's successor, and are anxious for peace.

The very liberat arrangements of the managers of Washington's National Fair Association for the fall meeting are nearly complete. Over $25,000 will be given in premiums. Many Northern and Southern fast horses, including H. Jullen, will be here. The track is but a year old, but is pronounced an excellent one.

Senator Logan writes here to request a denial of the story that he said, "I am afraid that they have got Garfield." He writes that he is confident of Garfield's election. On the other hand, it may be said that Judge Black, who arrived here yesterday, is equally certain of success for Hancock. He says he is not prepared to claim Pennsylvania yet, but that he hopes for it.

The bluff game of offering, to bet against odds on the election of Hancock or Garfield, or majorities in pivotal States, has been commenced upon both sides, but is , not likely to make much impression. It is pretty well understood that the thing is done for effect, and that neither side can have any data at this stage of the canvass to justify this confidence. Possibly the September elections may give sufficient indications of the popular drift to forshadow the result of the Presidential election, but very likely it will need the October elections to furnish any reliable "straws." The results in Indiana and Ohio, especially if the majorities for either side should be of any size, will tell the story.

Considerable has been said and written about the display of a "rebel flag," at the Democratic ratification in this city. The bunting which attracted so much attention and created such a sensation consisted of a white star in a blue field, and broad red and white stripes or bars. It was the flag of Liberty, and appeared there among the flags of various nations, especially of Republics. It was quite dissimilar to the confederate flag, however.

Senator Wallace, Chairman of the Democratic Cougressional Committee, left last night for Philadelphia. He will return to the city in the course of a fortnight.

Attorney General Deven left the city this morning at 10:40 for Canton, Ohio, to be presont at the Soldiers' Re-union. From Canton, he will go to Indiana and Minnesota and make some campaign speeches. He will return to Washington September 11th.

Secretary Thompson dld not leave to-day for New York as was expected. He will not go before the latter part of the week. OLIVE.

Jacob Dunlap, an eccentric old bachelor, died a few days ago in Ashland, Ohio, and on reading his will it was found that he had bequeathed all his property-consisting of $25,000 in bonds, besides considerable real estate-to P. B. Clawson of Hayesville, Ohio, for an act of charity done him while traveling some years ago. It is stipulated in the will, however, that Clawson must marry some girl not known to him now, on or before the 4th of March, 1881. Falling to do this the money goes to charitable objects, and only the real estate to Clawson.

A Badly Fooled Pair.

The Rev. J. W. Grubbs officiated at what was intended to be a mock marriage, at Springfield, Mo., but afterward declared that the knot was legal, and made a formal record of the certificate. The couple were indignant at this action, and had the clergyman prosecuted. He was fined $25 for making a false return; but he has appealed, and for months the pair will not know whether or not they are husband and wife.

George C. Harward, a young and promising lawyer, and a friend, named Peter J. Larken, were attacked and stabbed by a party of roughs in Brooklyn one night last week while protecting two women from insult-the former being almost instantly killed and the latter seriously injured. Thomas Lurney, a porter; Walter J. Bost, a bottler, and James H. Harley, a laborer, have been arrested.

Foolish Workmen.

About thirty of Dexter, Lambert & Co.'s, slik weavers at Patterson, refused the other day to work on cheap ribbons at twenty per cent. reduction, though guaranteed $3 a day, and tried to intimidate those remaining at work. The company threatened to remove their works.

ST. PAUL, Minn., August 30 .- About 11 o'clock last night a young man named Robert Barton fatally stabbed George Larkin, aged twenty-two. Barton and a companion had been walking with two girls, and on leaving them were joined by Larkin, and two other young men. Larkin made a remark reflecting on the character of the girls which Barton resented, and on its being repeated he drew his knife and plunged it into Larkin's left breast, causing his death in twenty-five minutes.

137 A traveler at Shanghai saw a Chinaman fall from a boat and drown, with no effort on the part of other natives in boats very near him to save his life .--They screamed and tore their hair as if in great distress, and when asked why they made no exertions to rescue their companion, replied that a man who saved another from drowning was responsible for his debts, and that the drowned man could not have been saved anyhow, as he must have offended Typhoon Joss (the God of water), and as a natural consequence when Joss says a man must drown that settled it.

IT News comes from Copenhagen of a most extraordinary not to say miraculous escape from death. Two lads were playing at the top of the Round Tower, one of the curiosities of the town, originally built for astronomical purposes and fully 115 feet high. The tower is hollow and a trapdoor giving way one of the boys fell through the opening. His playmate fied and only spoke about the accident the next day, when, the wall having been broken through the boy was discovered at the bottem of the tower, very weak from loss of blood but otherwise unburt, having lauded after his fall of more than one hundred feet, on a heap of old rubbish and shavings.
