The Bribery Cases.

The cases of Representative Smith, of Philadelphia; Edward McCune and Christian Long, of Shippensburg, were brought up in the Dauphin court last week, but owing to the non-appearance of witnesses and the legislative committee on prosecution, Judge Pearson ordered a continuance of the case until the January term. A remark of Mr. Simonton having been construed to mean that the legislative committee had no further desire to continue the prosecution, Judge Pearson said: "We are not in the least inclined to enter nolle prosequeis in these cases. We do not feel disposed to pass them over. We cannot pay any attention to the action of the committee. The cases must be tried the same as any case of misdemeanor. But we cannot compel defendants to appear when they are sick. We tried a case (Petroff's) on its merits and everything was in readiness for a continuance of the cases, but somehow after its conclusion the commonwealth's counsel seemed to be indifferent and the cases were postponed."

Romberger's Revelation.

Henry Romberger, the man who was arrested for the murder of Daniel Troutman, an account of which appeared in last week's Times, has made a confession, in which he implicates one Frank Romberger of Lykens, and denies that he (Henry) fired a shot on the night in question. On this statement Frank Romberger was arrested and lodged in jail. We append the confession in substance as it appeared in Saturday's PaWe then parted. I went to Tower City: we were up at Schooffstall's saloon, Lykens, on Saturday, and planned the expedition to rob the old man; we had talked together before about this robbery.

Satisfied With Their Vote.

The Temperance Party seems to be satisfied with their vote at the recent election, as will be seen by the following communication :

communication : Another battle is over, and before preparing our army for another conflict, it may help us, to look over the battlefield and see what we have gained or lost. To judge whether this struggle has been for us or against us, it is necessary first, to inquire what was the princi-ple object of this campaign. It was not for the immediate and instant prohibition of the liquor traffic. No intelligent voter for Gen. Neal Dow, expected or dreamed that there was the faintest hope of his election. What then was the object of this Prohibition voter 1 it was to increase the prohibition sentiment in the public mind, and by continuous and per-sistent effort, eventually to have a majority in favor of positive prohibition, like that now in Kansas. Have we accomplished this direct object, towards an ultimate purpose 1 If we have cost a smaller vote than four years ago, when Smith was our standard-bearer, then we may have lost this battle ; and it would be whethe to inquire into the cause, and if possible, to avoid such a mistake or blunder in the future. It may be safely said that never before was there so great an effort made by both, Republican and Democratic parties, to bring out all their vote, and keep their lines untorken. Never was money spent by them more lariship and never had either party so bring out all their vote, and keep their lines unbroken. Never was money spent by them more laxiably and never had either party so large a sote. It was therefore reasonable, that in the old Keystone many of those who had formerly, once or twice voted the Prohi-bition ticket should, in this unprecedented whiripool, he swallowed up by one or the other of the great parties, that there should be many like Stebbins and Passmore, who should, through the glasses given them, see only Gar-field; and like Smitherman and others, see only Hancock. When I saw such old veterans field; and like Smitherman and others, see only Hancock. When I saw such old veterans in our cause swallowed up by the whirlpool, I felt that we might expect many newer con-verts to follow them. It was with some auxi-ety that I watched the returns, and how rejoiced was I, when the noise and smoke of the battle cleared away, to find that our valiant army numbered not less, but three hundred and twenty-one more, than four years ago! Thus we see we have gained a good victory.

This we see we have gained a good victory. A victory made grand by the intensity and unexampled vigor of the great contending parties. Well may we feel encouraged by such a victory. Our votes were not thrown They counted us an increase. Thus away. we were rewarded.

NEWTON PRINCE.

A Woman Cremated at Washington, Pa.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 25 .- There was a quiet cremation at Dr. LeMoyne's furnace, the subject being Mrs. Lucia Noyes, the wife of C. H. Noyes, a lawyer of Warren, Pa. The lady died on the 21st of November, in her twentyeight year. The body arrived here this morning accompanied by Mr. Noyes, who with his wife had pledged themselves to cremate the one who died first. There were religious services, after which the body was placed in the retort. As soon as the door was closed all took their departure. A dense smoke was then seen to issue from the chimney. The ashes will be removed to-morrow.

A Relieved Man.

There was considerable circumstantial evidence that John Shufelt murdered his wife at North Egremont, Mass. She disappeared very mysteriously, after living very unhappily with him. A track was found that looked as though it had been made by dragging a body from the house to a lake near by : an old boat was discovered concealed in some bushes; and it was believed that Shufelt had sunk the remains in the water .-The lake was persistently dragged, but the woman was not produced, and the husband was necessarily discharged from custody. Suspicion clung to him however, only to be dispelled by the positive proof that Mrs. Shufelt eloped, and is still alive.

Pierce has been in the habit of visiting Mrs. Eagle.

137"A big sensation has been caused in Scranton among politicians by the serving of notices upon several prominent citizens, stakeholders in the recent election bets, restraining them from paying any money deposited in their hands by betters. The action has been begun by the Scranton Poor Board under a State law passed in 1817, and found in Purdon's Digest in the

"Frank Romberger started with me at the small bridge, near Savage's building, (below Lykens), near dusk Sunday evening, November 14th, 1880. A lady living near Rev. Lenker's in Lykens, saw Frank Romberger get in the buggy with me. We had a gray horse and a carriage, which I had hired at Tower City. Jacob Rettinger met us on the road near John Wallace's farm. Down below Shadel's hotel we met Harry Snyder in a carriage. We left the carriage and horse stand on the hill, near the creek, at James Troutman's. William Ferro passed Frank Romberger near Hiram Bueck's place in Lykens, before we started. We crossed the foot bridge at James Troutman's and went up the creek to Daniel Troutman's. We entered the door of the dwelling, and went into the room in front of the bed. Frank called, and then the old woman told Daniel Troutman to get up, some one called him. Then Frank asked him for his money. The old man said, "what?" Then Frank said: "We want your money or your life." Then the old man said he had no money .--Frank replied: "I know you have money of other people's." The old man said he had a few dollars, and got up, went toward the door and wanted to go out. We would not allow it, and then he (Daniel) went to the window and hoisted it. When he was done at the window he walked to the bed and stepped on it. He got his gun and I retreated and ran out of the house and turned to the left. I looked back and saw Daniel Troutman behind me with the gun. I went a few steps toward the fence and climbed over it. Daniel Troutman shot and I left myself fall. The shot missed me. Frank Romberger told me he had shot at the old man, Daniel Troutman, and Frank said that we must get out of this; I did not see Frank shoot, but I heard the shot. Then we started for home, and Frank got out of the carriage above the railroad crossing at Lykers .-

Counterfeit Butter.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17 .- The fact was developed yesterday that large quantities of a material which is called " butter," and sold as such on the market, is really made of lard by a peculiar process, known only to a few. One establishment in this city has been doing a prosperous business for more than a year, and has a trade so extensive that shipments are made to England. No effort whatever is made at concealment. The manufacturer is frank about it, and says the compound is no more injurious than pork. A large number of restaurants are said to be using it as butter, and the report is that other manufactories are to be opened shortly.

A Trade in Carpet Bags.

A man darted into a store at Nicholsville, Ohio, bought the first travelingbag he could get his hands on, and hurried toward the railroad station. On the way he caught up several bricks from a pile and put them into' the bag. His object was understood when a fellow passenger discovered that his own satchel, containing $3,000, had been taken from the seat by his side, and the one with bricks put in its pince.

Terrible Poisoning Accident.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., November 28 .-At a reception tendered Joel Hembree and wife, at the residence of the bride's father, Colonel Dail, near Kingston. Boone county, arsenic was used in mis-clauses treating of bets on election, where it provides that stakeholders can be proceeded against by Poor Boards for the full amount put in their hands.

WASHINGTON, November 23 .- John Paul Brown, a German, and painter by trade, who recently arrived here from Philadelphia, last night stabbed his wife eleven times and then cut his own throat. Both are still living, but their wounds are thought to be fatal.

Brown had on his person a letter written by himself and addressed to Mr. H. Haman, 502 St. John street, Philada., asking him to come here and act as peacemaker between himself and wife. Jealousy was the cause.

IT Two sisters at Lackawaxen, Pa., were engaged to marry two brothers, and the double wedding was to take place about the holidays. Just before the election, one of the girls asked her lover to take her to a Republican meeting, but he, being a Democrat, refused. She appealed to his brother, a Republican, and he accompanied her. The sister who remained at home and the Democratic brother, finding their political sympathies in accord, agreed to break up the previous arrangement and become man and wife. The idea met with favor all around, and the wedding will take place accordingly, each of the four taking a different mate.

12 Solomon Jones of Bloomburg, Md., was 70 when after many years of poverty, he received $2.000 in pension money. He had no relatives to leave it to when he died and therefor made up his mind to spend it all himself. In view of the short time remaining to him in this world, he felt that be must be fast and furious in his pleasures if he would spend the whole $2.000. He married a young wife, and gratified her love of dress: he got in a large stock of beverages, and drank them recklessly; he bought a fast horse, and bet on him. At the end of three months the last dollar was gone, his wife deserted him, his horse died. and he is still without any immediate prospect of dying.
