HOUSE, FARM AND GARDEN.

Cow Nature.

That cows acknowledge individuality among themselves is evident from the fact that in every herd there is sure to be one master cow who domineers over all the rest. Watch the thirsty herd going to drink at a pool on a sultry summer day, and you will see the master cow enter first, unopposed by the others, who, should the pool be a small one, will not presume to join her in it but will wait patiently on the bank till she leaves the water, even though she may choose to remain there, switching her tall at the flies and enjoying the cool bath for her legs, for some time after she has quenched her thirst, To flie human spectator it would seem that she is selfishly and needlessly prolonging the thirst of her friends; but they do not resent her self-indulgence, nor attempt to hurry her, but only humbly wait till it shall be her pleasure to make room for them to go and drink. For is not she their undisputed chief, and shall not a chief have privileges?

A contributor to an English journal tells the following story of the "top boss" in his herd, named Dulas: she is neither the biggest, nor the strongest, nor the longest horned of the party and how she has acquired her supremacy we know not, but we imagine that it must be through sheer force of character and will. We one day had an opportunity of watching her lead her companions to a place of mischief, which they all quite evidently knew to be against the laws of their human superiors, and therefore to be done on the sly, if possible. The cows were in a field adjoining a rickyard, and in the rickyard was an outhouse' wherein some mangels were stored. The field was separated from the rickyard by a hedge, in which was a hurdle; and twice in one day had the cows broken through the gap, got at their beloved mangels, and been driven out again ignominiously. Undaunted by this they made a third attack, and we happened to arrive just in time to see it done. While the men who had driven them back to the field were still near; the cows pretended to be grazing in tranquility as though no bigger ambition than grass had ever entered their innocent minds. But no sooner did the coast appear to be clear, than off set Dulas toward the hurdle, with a quick and resolute step, shaking her head with a most defiant and jaunty air as she walked. Instantly every other cow left off eating, and followed her, all evidently aware of what she meant to do. Sticking her horns skillfully under a bar of the hurdle, and heaving up her head to extract the hurdle from the ground, she very soon managed to remove the obstacle, and then proceeded triumphantly to the mangels, with all her companions at her heels. Now, in this case Dulas seems to have used some reasoning power; for there was no attempt made to batter down the gate by brute force, and she had discovered the necessity of lifting it upward. She has a talent for opening gates with easy fastenings which is rather troublesome putting her horns in and working her head about until she gets the fastening undone. And in this, also, she seems to show reason or observation, for else how would she know which part of the gate to strike?

A Mississippi farmer dashes cold water into the ears of choking cattle. -This causes the animal to shake its head violently, and the muscular action dislodges the obstruction.

Woman's Wisdom.

"She insists that it is more importance that her family shall be kept in full health, than that she should have all the fashionable dresses and styles of the times. She therefore sees to it, that each member of her family is supplied with enough Hop Bitters, at the first appearance of any symptoms of ill health, to prevent a fit of sickness with its attendant expense, care and anxiety. its attendant expense, care and anxiety. Quick and Sure.

Many miserable people drag themselves about from day to day, not knowing what alls them, but with failing strength and spirits all the time that they are steadily sinking into their graves. If these sufferers would only use Parker's Ginger Tonic, they would find a cure commencing from the first dose, and vitality, strength and cheerfulness quickly and surely coming back to them, with restoration to perfect health. St. Albans, Vt., Jan. 20th, 1880.

DR. J. B. KENDALL & CO., Gents: — In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with Kendall's Spavin Cure has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent and with it, cured a horse of lameness caused by Spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ring be grew worse, when I discovered that a ring be grew worse, when I discovered that a ring be grew worse, when I discovered that a ring be grew worse, when I discovered that a ring be grew worse, when I discovered that a ring be grew worse, when I discovered that a ring be grew worse, and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found.

B. J. Kendall & Co., Gents:—In justice to you and myself, I think I ought te let you know that I have removed TWO BONE SPAVINS with Kendall's Spavin Cure." one very large one; don't know how long the Spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months It took me four months to take the large one off, and two months for the small one. I have used 10 bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all istiff, and no bunch to be seen or felf. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me its sale will be very great.

Respectfully yours.
