Money in that Goat.

One of them was a stockman from Western Texas named Bob Gazley, and the other was an old Galvestonian named Col. Wm. Griswold. They were talking about the stock-raising. The man from Western Texas said impres-sively."I tell you what, colonel, there is more money in goats than any other critter that eats Texan grass. People will keep on raising fine horses and cattle, and lose money by it, while there is more money in one goat than you can shake a stick at," and he went on to tell of the rapid increase, the price of goat skin, etc."You are right," replied Griswold.
"I am a goat man myself. I've got a goat in my yard right now that I wouldn't part with for seventy-five dollars.""He must be a fine animal. He is half Angora, I reckon. I must see him."

"Come along, then."

After trudging about an hour they came to the residence of the Galveston-ian. The goat was tied up in an outhouse. The Western Texas man looked at the goat with a bewildered air."There ain't no Angora in that goat.""There's money in him for all that," responded the owner.The stockman felt the animal all over, looked at the texture of his hair, and then said:"I can't see any points that goat has got over any other goat. Did you say you paid seventy-five dollars for that scrub?""That goat cost me seventy-five dollars, and I expect to get my money back.""Well, you couldn't get it out of me.""I am not trying to get it out of you, but I hope to get it out of the goat.— But I'll tell you candidly, if you had chewed up my vest pocket with seventy five dollars in it, like that goat did, I'd have it out of you some way or the other."Then the stockman caught hold of his own vest and laughed until a crowd began to gather.
