HOUSE, FARM AND GARDEN.

For Our Farmers.

Corn does not succeed well after buck-wheat.

Drakes are quarrelsome, the fewer on hand the better.

Water filtered through charcoal becomes perfectly pure.

Oak is stronger than iron, both pieces being of equal weight.

Poor cows are dear at any price; really good ones, if young, are never sold too high.

It is well for farmers to bear in mind that the average for all breeds of cows is about six pounds of hay, or its equivalent, for one quart of milk.

The Agricultural Department is informed that the codling moth is making such ravages among the orchards of California as threaten the destruction of all the apple trees on the Pacific coast.

At a recent agricultural gathering in New England, one claimed that he made 12 per cent, on his capital invested in farming, and another said he did not make over 14 per cent.

Horse Shoes Kept on too Long.

There seems to be no doubt that this causes more injury to the feet of a horse than anything else; for as soon as the shoe is fastened on a double action begins, as his hoof grows down and presses against the shoe, and the shoe is hammered forcibly up against the hoof every time the foot is set on the ground after being raised.

This makes the double action which is so apt to prove injurious. To obviate this, it becomes necessary to have the shoe fit nicely and easily at all times to the horse's foot. To insure this, it should be taken off and re-set about once a fortnight; and in doing so, care should be taken to first file off the clinching part of the nails outside of the hoof, so they cannot make large holes or tear the hoof when withdrawn.

Some persons let shoes remain on the horse two, or three months. Nothing can be more injurious to keeping up a sound, good foot than this. The change of twice a month or so, allows the foot to expand, and keeps it in a healthy, natural form.

A farmer who owns forty-seven head of hornless cattle gives in The Western Rural his reasons for preferring them. He says:

First, they are about as harmless as a flock of sheep; second, sheep, colts and horses can run in the same pasture or yard and drink out of the same tank with safety; third, it is sometimes necessary to milk in a storm, and I have only to open the cow stable door and twelve cows will not take more room than three pairs of horns; fourth, a straw-rick two rods long and twenty feet wide will make a first-rate shelter for thirty head of young muley stock, for they will soon have rick shelved all around, and lie down like so many hogs and be comfortable under the edges of the stock, while six pair of horns could hardly be accommodated on the same territory. I never have had my horses wounded, or colts, sheep, calves, children, women or men tossed upon muley bulls' horns. My stock are descendants of the old English red muley breed.

From statistics furnished the Department of Agriculture, the total wheat crop of 1880, in the United States for 1880, is given at 480,849,723 bushels, being an increase of over 32,000,000 bushels compared with the former year.

Illinois produced the largest crop, which was 53,767,200 bushels; California is second on the list with 45,700,000 bushels; Minnesota comes next with 40,752,000, and is followed by Indiana with 38,341,900 bushels. Pennsylvania measures out 22,399,090 bushels, being a decrease of 8157 bushels compared with 1879; New York, New Jersey and Ohio all produced considerably smaller crops last year than in 1879, indicating that in these States the crop fell off last year as was anticipated.

A very simple remedy—and said to be effective—to rid canary birds of mites, is to place a clean white cloth over the cage at night. The vermin leave the bird and gather upon the cloth. They are very small, red, and scarcely discernible with the naked eye.

To color drab, take willow bark and a little copperas.

Terrible.

Such is the term Mr. C. W. Purcell, of the National Stock Yards, Chicago, Ill., applies to his sufferings. He says: "I, for one, wish to speak a word of praise for St. Jacob's Oil. I suffered with a pain in my arm and shoulder for some six months and at times it was terrible. One bottle of St. Jacob's Oil, however, cured me thoroughly."
