

A Wonderful Escape.

At Cincinnati last week, Bernard Koehler and Fritz Hisgen, two house-painters, began painting the large house at Betts street and Central Avenue. Three o'clock in the afternoon found them close under the eaves of the house and sixty-five feet from the ground. They had just finished the surface within reach and had started to lower the scaffold a few feet. When the required distance had been reached Hisgen called to his partner to hang on to the rope until he (Hisgen) tied his own, when he would come over and perform a like service for him. Hisgen had just completed his own knot when Koehler cried out:

"Come over quick, I can't hold it!" Hisgen, as quickly as possible, started across the aerial bridge, but had not gone two steps when he saw the man let go his hold and felt the ladder give way beneath his feet. As he began to fall, in the energy of desperation he, with both hands grasped the almost smooth top of the fourth story window cornice and there hung in the air, a distance of over sixty feet from the pavement. He then gave an exhibition of nerve that terrified every one who saw it. Placing the toe of one boot against the window frame he gave his body a slight pendulum motion away from the house. A second push gave him a better impetus and as he swung on the return toward the window he released his hold and went crashing through the glass safely to the floor of the fourth story room, from whence he immediately looked out through the aperture he had made to see what had become of his companion.

Koehler had not been quite so fortunate. As he went shooting through the air he caught the hanging rope with both hands and lessened his speed all the way down at the expense of all the cuticle of his palms, which was burned off by the friction. He landed in a sitting posture on the sidewalk and was taken to the hospital with a pair of very sore lips.

A TERRIBLE CATASTROPHE.

Over 200 Victims.

LONDON, Ont., May 24.—This evening at 6 o'clock the steamer Victoria, with over 600 excursionists on board, was returning from Spring Bank and when near the Cove Railway Bridge, one mile below the city, the boat suddenly collapsed like an egg-shell and became a total wreck, level with the water's edge. All the passengers were instantly plunged into the stream, more than half of them being underneath the debris. The first news of the disaster which reached the city was brought by the survivors, who struggled through the streets, wet and weary. The news fell like a thunderbolt, and a stampede took place for the spot. Arriving there a horrible sight met their view. Fifty or sixty bodies had already been recovered, and were lying on the bank. Those arriving from the city from every direction crowded around, anxious to see if any relatives were on board. About 1,000 families were represented on the excursion and the wail of anguish that arose at the sight of the victims was heartrending. Fathers, mothers, brothers and sisters rushed about panic stricken endeavoring to identify their friends. About 7 o'clock 80 bodies were recovered from under the wreck. Almost every minute some victim was brought to the surface and conveyed to the bank. The steamer Princess Louise was early brought to the spot and the victims were placed on the upper decks. Fires were lighted on the bank overlooking the river, petroleum torches were brought, and the search was continued until night. Later reports show that the loss of life is still greater than was expected, as 238 bodies have already been recovered.

A Dreadful Disaster.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., May 24.—An explosion of 15 barrels of Danforth's fluid, stored in a cellar occurred at 9 o'clock last night. The floor over the cellar was occupied as a saloon and billiard room was kept by a colored man. A number of negroes were in the saloon at the time, all of whom lost their lives. The exact number cannot be ascertained as yet, but it is variously estimated at from fifteen to forty-five. Five bodies have been recovered up to this time, all buried beyond recognition. It is said that one white woman was in the place at the time of the casualty. The building was instantly and completely demolished. The inmates were all buried in the debris, which was completely enveloped by the hot flame of the burning fluid. The efforts of the fire department to subdue the flames were of no avail. Several thousand excited persons surrounded the scene of the disaster, and women and children screamed and bewailed the loss of their husbands and fathers or friends. The concussion shook the buildings several blocks around.

A War Relic.

In a very full report recently published in the Philadelphia Ledger, reference is made to the case of Mr. George I. Graham, a prominent politician and active journalist, (connected with the Philadelphia Sunday Mirror), who, by using the great German remedy, St. Jacob's Oil, was cured of a troublesome case of rheumatism, contracted during the war. He closes his statement with—"to those who are afflicted with that complaint, it is worth its weight in gold."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.
