

A York County Tragedy.

At 5.30 o'clock on Monday morning of last week, a shocking murder and an attempted suicide by the murderer occurred at Coyle's Ferry, York county, directly opposite Marietta. John Coyle, only son of the ferry-man by that name, in a fit of jealousy or desperation shot at and killed Emily Myers, aged about twenty years, whose parents are dead, and who was formerly of Chambersburg. Emily had been a servant in the Coyle family during the past winter. Miss Myers rose early on Monday morning to milk the cows. Several pistol shots were heard, after which John Coyle, the accused, came walking into the house, having blotches of blood on his clothes.

Young Coyle is twenty-six years old and is said to be of unsound mind. He had fallen desperately in love with Emma and stated that she promised to marry him. She trifled with him, he said, and for this reason he shot her. Deceased before she came to Coyle's lived with her grandparents at Chambersburg—her parents being dead. Notwithstanding he was desperately in love with Emma, Coyle quarrelled with her frequently. An examination of his wounds disclosed nothing serious. One ball had struck the sternum bone and glanced off. The other struck the right side of the head and glanced off also. Coyle was taken to the jail at York by the authorities. The parting scene with his mother is said to have been heartrending. His father is proprietor of the ferry and hotel and is reported to be in comfortable circumstances. As a precaution against mischief, the elder Coyle, it is reported, recently broke all the weapons around the premises. Coyle is an only child and was indulged in various ways. He shot at Miss Myer last Saturday, and the knowledge of this circumstance induced his father to hide the pistol from him. He procured a Smith and Wesson revolver and committed the crime above described.

Lawless Fellows.

LANCASTER, Pa., May 31.—At Wrightsville 3 miles down the river, on Saturday night, James Leese, a tavern keeper, was visited by a gang of fishermen and almost beaten to death. His office was the entertainment of State officials sent down the river to enforce some obnoxious fish laws. The Columbia dam is an obstruction to the passage of shad to the upper waters, and to ascend a fishway has been constructed, and fishing is forbidden within half a mile of the dam, but, as the best fishing is there, the fishermen locate their batteries and swing their nets there all the season. The law is very unpopular, and was made more so by its recent enforcement against six fishermen who were sent to jail for six months and whose families nearly starved in the winter during their incarceration. The State Board of Pardons refused to abridge their imprisonment at the same meeting at which Kemble and the other legislative bribers were pardoned. Accordingly the fish wardens find it hard to enforce the law. They are all refused common hospitalities, cannot get boats to go out to inspect violations of the law, are set on and beaten, or have their canoes broken up, and if they got to the fishermen they find them blackened or disguised. The attack on Leese was an indication of the bitter feeling among the fishermen toward those who even indirectly contribute to the execution of the law.

A Boy Twelve Years Old Shoots Another Aged Nine.

BALTIMORE, May 30.—This afternoon Jacob H. Freeburger, aged nine years, was fatally shot by Charles Derling, aged twelve years. The gun used was an old musket, and Derling was ignorant of its being loaded. Several boys were playing soldiers in an old cellar of a neighbor's house, and Freeburger was looking through the window. Derling pointed the musket at him, and pulling the trigger, to his amazement and horror, the weapon was discharged and young Freeburger fell dead. The entire right side of his head was blown off.

Bound to Marry.

In the town of Warren, Waushara county, Wis., lives a man named Hyke, who advertised for a wife. A lady in Michigan wrote him that she would come to Wisconsin and marry him if he would send her the expenses of trip. He forwarded fifteen dollars. The woman arrived in Berlin and proceeded thence on foot for the home of her soon-to-be husband. She happened to make inquiry in Hyke's neighborhood, of a man whom he was plowing for. The woman was taken into the house and Hyke sent for, and he took her to the nearest justice of the peace, who tied the knot.

Advice is cheap,—dreadfully cheap. But we must be true to our instincts of humanity and tell our suffering friends to use St. Jacobs Oil, and surprise their rheumatism and themselves also at the result. J. D. L. Harvey, Esq., Chicago, says: I would be recreant to my duty to those afflicted, did I not raise my voice in its praise.—St. Louis Chronicle.
