A 4 year old little boy complained that his teeth had "trod on his tongue."

When a young man wants to protect a young lady, he naturally puts his armor round her.

My daughter, every bond of youth is a debt; the right lies in the payment of that debt; it can lie nowhere else.

A Chicago girl made an unsuccessful attempt at suicide by swallowing brimstone. Now, by chewing a little phosphorus, she ought to make a pretty good match.

"My son," said an American father, "how could you marry an Irish girl?" "Why, father," said the son, "I'm not able to keep two women, and if I'd married a yankee girl I'd have to marry an Irish girl to take care of her."

"I wish to heaven I had a gentleman opposite me," said an irritable old fellow at a dinner party. "Why should you wish such a thing?" was the retort; "you can not be more opposite to a gentleman than you are at present."

"They tell me," said the reformer, "that you have quit smoking. I am glad to hear it. Now, tell me, why did you quit?" Reformed smoker, feeling for a match. "Cause my cigar went out."

"This isn't a menagerie," sharply observed an irascible deacon to a man who was trying to force a passage through the crowd at the church doorway. "No, I presume not," returned the stranger, "or they wouldn't leave any of the animals to block up the entrance."

"I wish, reverend father," said Curran to Father O'Leary, "that you were Saint Peter and had the keys of heaven, because then you could let me in." "By my honor and conscience," replied O'Leary, "it would be better for you that I had the keys of the other place, for then I could let you out."

"Here's a fly in my soup waiter." "Yes, sir; very sorry, sir; but you can throw away the fly and eat the soup, can't you?"

"Of course I can; you didn't expect me to throw away the soup and eat the fly, did you?"

"You must admit, Jim Webster, that you stole those pullets," said the Judge to the culprit. "Judge," responded Jim, "I don't really believe I stole dem chickens. In de first place, Jedge, nobody saw me take 'em. In de next place dey could not be found on my premises, because I had done hid 'em under de floor. I can't help believin', Jedge, dat I is innocent as a lamb."

A lady was travelling in a stage coach with a troublesome dog. A gentleman complained of the annoyance, "Dear me, sir!" exclaimed the lady, "I wonder you complain of my dog—everybody admires it—it is real Peruvian." "I don't complain of your Peruvian dog," said the gentleman, "But I wish he would give us less of his Peruvian bark."

Showing her the Door. Thomas was a carpenter; but, owing to dullness in trade, he engaged as footman at the "big house" in the village. On the day of his engagement his mistress, having a lady visitor in the drawing-room, rang the bell for the footman. "You will show this lady to the front door, Thomas," she said.

"Yes, mem," replied Thomas, and, bowing to the lady, he requested her to follow him. On coming to the door he opened it, and the lady was about to pass out, when Thomas, tapping her on the shoulder, remarked, "This is the door, mem; good pitch-pine in it; framed twa an' a half inches thick, with raised moldings; wad cost about twa pound ten, mem."

A Satisfactory Explanation. Old Mose and another old darkey were standing in front of the News office discussing matters and things, when Jim Webster happened to pass.

"Dar am about forty regular chicken stealers in Galveston, including Jim Webster, remarked the old man. Jim overheard the remark, so he came right up to Mose and threatened to eliminate him if he did not take it back.

"Dar am forty regular chicken stealers in Galveston, not includin' Jim Webster, is yer satisfied now?" Jim said, very much affected: "Uncle Mose, when a man 'pologizes, he jess disarms me right dar. Shake old man. Taint often nowadays dat anybody flatters me as you has jess done.
