THE
SPRINGFIELD
SEWING MACHINE.

Best in the World.

The manufacturers of the SPRINGFIELD are aware that in order to meet the critical and economical demands of the times, the machine must possess a combination of mechanical ex-cellences, making it superior to any of its predecessors, and at the same time be offered at a price that will place it within the means of all.
Fully realizing the force of these conditions, they offer the Springfield, confident that it will fulfill every requirement that can be expected of a first-class family and manufacturing machine.
Every Machine is warranted perfect in construction. In case any of the parts prove defective, when machine is used for family purposes, within five years from date of purchase, the manufacturers will replace such defective part without charge. This does not apply to needles, shuttles, or bobbins. Made by

CHAS. G. BLATCHLEY, Manufacturer, 308 Market St., Philadelphia, Pa.

For sale by F. Mortimer, New Bloomfield, Pa.

A man being tormented with corns put his foot through a window and the pane was gone instantly.

"I don't so much mind," said Mr.
Henpeck—"I don't so much mind a woman's having a mind of her own, except that in such a case she usually takes charge of her husband's also."

The gate money: A naughty man who had the contribution box "showed under his nose" just after an appeal to strive to enter in at the straight gate, said he supposed they wanted to make sure of the gate money.

"Courtesy opens many doors," says the old adage. "This may be true as far as it goes," says a commentator;
"but you might stand before a bank building and courtesy till your spinal column was as limber as an old postage stamp, yet the doors wouldn't spring back on their hinges worth a cent."

A farmer one autumn day required a number of reapers; several presented themselves, and all were engaged with one exception. The poor man thus omitted said:

"Master, won't you hire me?"

"No," said the farmer.

"Why not?"

"Because you are too little."

"Too little!" cried the man, "does your honor reap your corn at the top?"

What could the farmer do but roar with laughter, and send the little man to join his comrades in the field?

A man who was too poor to indulge in any luxuries other than children was presented by a loving but unreckoning wife with triplets—three boys and he sought for some family to adopt them. Mr. Clark was rather inclined to take them, but his good wife thought that one would perhaps be enough.— They were talking it over before their little eight-year-old daughter, who said:
"Why don't you take one of them, ma, or don't they want to break the set?"

Solemn Thoughts.

"Be jabers," said Patrick O'Rafferty, as he was reading about a case of suicide;
"be jabers, if I ever I take me own life it will be wid chloroform."

"Nivir do the loike of that, Pat," said Mrs. O'Rafferty, "for yer inimes will bring it up again ye afterwards as long as ye live."

"I know all that, but little I'll care.
It's the best way to do, for ye see, Mrs.
O'Rafferty, ye just doze off, and you don't even know ye are dead till yer wake up and rade about it in the papers."

"That's thrue," said Mrs. O'Rafferty, solemnly and the subject was dropped."

The Minister's Cow.

An exchange tells this droll story of a clergyman's experiment and how it ended:

Some years ago there lived in Central New York a very worthy and respectable divine known as Father Goss. He had a hired man named Isaac, who always obeyed orders without question.

Father Goss bought a cow one day which proved refractory when milked, refusing to surrender the lactical fluid, although Isaac used all the persuasive arts of which he was master. He finally reported her delinquencies to his master.

"Well, Isaac," said he, "go to the barn and get those pieces of new rope."

Isaac obeyed; the cow was driven into the stable tied with a piece of the rope, when the Rev. came out, armed with a knife.

"Now," he exclaimed to Isaac, "I will get on the cow's back and you tie my feet beneath her, then you go on with your milking, and with my weight on her back she must give down her milk."

Isaac obeyed. The feet were tied, the pail got and milking commenced.

But bossy objected, and plunged wildly about. The stable was low, and the Rev's head was fearfully thumped.—
"Oh, Isaac, Isaac!" bawled he "cut the rope."

Isaac seized the knife and cut—not the rope which tied the master's feet! but the one that tied the cow. The stable gate was open, also the yard-gate.

Away darted the frantic cow, the terrified man on her back, helplessly roaring: "Stop her, stop her!"

While madly careering down the road he met a parishioner, who excitedly called: "Why, Mr. Goss, where are you going?"

"Only God and this cow know!"

groaned he: "I don't."

The animal was finally caught and the man released much frightened but unhurt.
