HOUSE, FARM AND GARDEN.

Drying Cherries-Cherry Pudding.

Now that the cherries are ripening, do not let housekeepers forget, amid the hurry of canning, to dry a few in sugar for ples and steamed pudding, for which they are excellent in the spring when one is troubled to get up a-variety, or something new and toothsome, for the table. Take out the pits, and spread the fruit evenly on platters or plates. If very juicy, turn over them only part of the juice. Sprinkle liberally with white sugar, and set in the oven, or about the stove, where they will dry quickly, but be careful not to scorch, as this injuries the flavor; in fact, utterly rulns the fruit. When partially dry, loosen from the plates and stir occasionally. When fully dried, pack in bowls or small jars, and tie paper over the top to keep out insects and dust. A little sugar may be sprinkled between the layers, although, if the fruit is well dried, this is not im-

To make cherry pudding, take two eggs (one will answer), and beat till very light: one teacupful of good buttermilk, not too sour, half a cupful of sweet cream of medium richness, a pinch of salt, a good level teaspoonful of soda, and flour to make a batter about as stiff as can be easily stirred with a spoon .-Do not get it too stiff or the pudding will be hard and dry. Add a couple of handfuls of the dried cherries and stir till the fruit is evenly distributed through the batter; then put into a greased pudding dish or basin, set into the steamer, and steam about three-fourths of an hour .-Have the water boiling before the pudding goes in, and do not let the boiling cease till done. Eat with cream and su_ gar, maple syrup, or any pudding sauce that is preferred. Twice the above quantity will be required if the family is a

Ants as Fruit-Growers' Friends.

Many of the leading orchard proprietors in Northern Italy and Southern Germany are cultivators of the common black ant, which insect they hold in high esteem as the fruit-grower's best friend. They establish ant-hills in their orchards, and leave the police service of their fruit trees entirely to the tiny colonists, which pass their time in climbing up the stems of the fruit trees, cleansing their boughs and leaves of malefactors, mature as well as embryotic, and descending laden with spoils to the ground, where they comfortably consume or prudently store away their booty. They never meddle with sound fruit, but only invade such apples, pears and plums as have already been penetrated by the canker, which they remorselessly pursue to its fastnesses within the very heart of the fruit. Nowhere are apple and pear trees so free from blight and destructive insects as in the immediate neighborhood of a large ant hill five or six years old. The favorite food of ants would appear to be the larvæ and pupæ of those creatures which spend the whole of their brief existence in devouring the tender shoots and juvenile leaves of fruit trees.

The Root Crop.

There is much to be said in favor of a field being devoted to a crop of roots, either Mangle or the large sorts of the Sugar-Beet. First it is good for the field. In the thorough culture which a root crop demands, the soil is much improved, and the good effect is felt on the other crops, all through the rotation. Secondly, It is an advantage in the distribution of labor. A field of roots will furnish employment at times when there will be little other pressing work, and in this way the farm hands can be hired by the season and kept busy all the time. In the third place, the crop itself is a very valuable one, and even with the present enthusiasm over ensilage, it is not surpassed as a fodder crop by any other. We are not inclined to think less, but on the other hand more, of the root crop from the knowledge the agriculturists are gaining upon the value of palatable food for live stock in winter. There is no better green winter food than roots.

Sandwiches.

Cut the bread very thin. Chop some cold boiled ham fine and mix with the yolks of uncooked eggs, a little pepper and mustard. Spread between the slices of buttered bread.

Almost Young Again.

My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy inac-tive condition of the whole system; tive condition of the whole system; headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpiess. No physicians or medicines did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family.—A lady in Providence, R. I.—Journal., VALUABLE FARMS

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE!

THE MOST SUCCESSFUL REMEDY EVER discovered, as it is certain in its effects and does not blister. Read Proof Below.

From Rev. N. P. Granger,

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District. St. Albans, Vt., Jan. 20th, 1880. St. Albans, Vt., Jan. 20th, 1880.

DR. J. B. KENDALL & CO., Gents: — In rep y to your letter I will say that my experience with Kendall's Spavin Cure has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bot. the of your agent, and with it, circed a horse of lameness caused by Spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a vine bone was forming. I procured a bottle of Keudall's Soavin Cure, and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found.

Kespectfully yours.

B. J. Kendall & Co., Gents:—in justice to you and myself. I thus I ought to let you know that I have removed Two Bone Spavins with Kendall's Spavin Core." one very large one: don't know how long the Spavin had been there. I have owned the lorse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off, and two months for the small one. I have used 10 bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunch to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but If it does for all what it has done for me its sale will be very great.

Respectfully yours.
