It must be a dirty scamp who would despoil a grave-stone. But that there are such creatures living is proved by the fact that one of them a few days since spit a large mouthful of tobacco juice on a finished tomb stone belonging to Mr. Hombaugh, staining the marble so bably as to nearly ruin it.

A scientific exchange says that coffee acts upon t ne numan system as a st poison. Whether true or not, we shall continue to take a little in ours for a few weeks longer, anyhow, but, if true it very important that you get the best quality, and that can be done by going to Mortimer's.

An accident at Cook's saw-mill in Juniata county, occurred on Tuesday which might have proved very disas-trous in results. While in motion the large circular saw broke in two, from coming in contact with a large splinter of the stick it was cutting. A portion of the saw remained in position after the mishap, but as a large piece of the broken tool flew away, fortunately lodging in a pile of saw dust without injury to any one,—News.

During the thunder storm on Monday evening, which was pretty severe, the lightning struck into the house of A. B. Portzline about one mile west of McKees Half Falls. It tore up the floor and did some other slight damages, and then passed out and killed a dog that was outside the house. None of the family was hurt beyond the shock such a terrific visitor would naturally produce after people had retired to bed. It happened about 11 o'clock.—Selinsgrove Times.

While Daniel Freed was at work in the open hearth department of the Steel Works, on Monday morning last, he met with and accident that will render him a cripple for life. A huge mold toppled over and fell on his left foot, crushing half of it to jelly. As the mold weighed 3,200 pounds the extent of the injury can easily be imagined. Freed was conveyed to the hospital where the foot was amputated near the middle. The wound was of such character, that another amputation was necessary. another amputation was necessary, Freed resides at 336 Cherry avenue, Harrisburg.—Steetton Item.

A Snake in Church. - A few Sundays since, while religious services were progressing at Kozier's, in Centre township, the officiating minister announced that he saw a snake under one of the seats and that it should be dispatched and removed with as little confusion as the circumstances would permit. At once there was a scene that may well be imagined but not easily described. The reptile was killed and order restored. It was a black-snake about four feet in length, ugly in appearance, but whose bite is harmless.—Democrat.

Burned to Death .- At about five o'clock on Saturday evening a little daughter of Mr. J. D. Mullen residing on Judge Junkin's farm near Delville, got a couple of parlor matches with which she set her clothing on fire. The flames instantly enveloped her whole body and in a few seconds her clothes except the bands that were outloned on were burnt off. The child was so horribly injured that death released her from her sufferings in a few hours. She was an interesting little girl aged about five years, and her sad death was a terrible shock to her afflicted parents.

A Subterranean Fish. - The Fulton Republican says: "One day last week, Rev. J. A. Reber, while drawing water from the well at the residence of J. E. Downes, of this place, brought up a live subterranean fish. It was between four and five inches long, of a light pink color and without eyes or scales. Its mouth resembled that of a sucker, and it had the regulation fish smell. stream of the well in question is very strong and the supposition is that it was carried away from its home in some subterranean lake or pool by the force of the current. Notwithstanding it was eyeless its aversion to the light or upper air was marked. Mr. Reber placed the specimen in alcohol for preservation .-Eyeless fish are common in many of the large caves of the country, and are numerous in the celebrated Mammoth Cave in Kentucky. A gentleman who has visited Watkin's Glen informs us that in a cavern at that place, the many pools are inhabited by fish of this character.

Judging by Looks. - In coming from Harrisburg on Tuesday night last we noticed two men, handcuffed together, accompanied by a third party. A friend who was with the writer said, "they are hard looking cases I wonder where the officer is taking them." We had some curiosity too, and so after the train started we interviewed the third man .-To our surprise we learned that one of the men we had taken for a prisoner, was the officer who had handcuffed the prisoner to himself for safety, and that the third party we had supposed was the officer, was only a friend. And then we had some more curiosity, to learn which was the prisoner, but this matter was finally settled by the friend informing us, and again we found that both of us had selected the officer as the hardest looking case of the two. The party was bound for Johnstown the larceny for which the arrest was made having been committed in Cambria Co. We both concluded that it was not always safe to judge by appearance.

A Cute Swindle. Below we give a portion of the contract that a set of swindlers are busy circulating through the country. They profess to be trying to introduce a valuable variety of grain, which is represented to be worth $5 per bushel, and they agree to furnish the seed and for the two bushels take four, and promse to buy the entire crop. If the farmer prefers, however, he can pay cash and keep all the seed, but by the contract he is not to pay anything till he has raised the grain to do it with. The contract is printed lengthwise of a cap sheet, and if this part of the contract is examined it will be seen that when torn across after the word "or," down to the word "agent," the left hand piece of paper is a good note with the signature in its proper place. The other portion of the paper is filled up with more details of the contract, which is of no account, as the note is all theswindler really cares for, and can easily be torn off. The blank where made payable is filled up with the name of the farmer's market town, and the Interest blank, with the rate legal in the State they happen to be operating in:

The horse ran away and escaped uninjured, but the sulky was somewhat broken.

On Monday night a flock of sheep from the country and a small drove of town cows found their way into Miss Lydia Stouffer's well-kept garden, at East Point. The destructive work of the animals among the nice vegetables can be more satisfactorily imagined than

We were shown on last Saturday, by Mr. Samuel Allen, of Frankfort township, a monstrosity in the shape of a chicken having four legs. The chicken is three weeks old and is as lively as a cricket.—Neuville Star.

A very fine horse belonging to Harry Hemminger, of Frankford, while in the pasture field, jumped over into a corn field, where a cultivator had been left standing close to the fence. The horse, in some way, struck one of the handles of the cultivator which entered his side, injuring him so badly that he died in a short time.

David Gross, a young man residing on the Trindle Road, near Locust Point, was severely kicked by a horse last week. The horse kicked with both hind feet striking Gross in the stomach. He is now lying in a very critical condition and his recovery is considered doubtful.

On Saturday night last two of our young men from Monroe twp., drove to Carlisle putting their horse in the yard at the Thudium House. When they came to get him again he had broken loose and was gone. Thinking he had gone home they followed on foot but upon arriving found no horse. They took another team and returned to Carlisle to find their horse at the hotel at lisle to find their horse at the hotel at which they had left him, a man having caught him some distance above town. He had broken one shaft but beyond this no damage was done nor was the horse hurt. Each had then a team to drive home, but they felt the worse for having made a whole night of it.

Some time between the hours of two and four o'clock on Sunday last the house of Mr. George Strock, Jr., on the road leading from Churchtown to Brandt's mill, was entered and silver-Brandt's mill, was entered and saver-ware to the amount of $40, a fine suit of clothes belonging to Mr. Strock, a re-volver and $13 in money belonging to the hired man, Mr. Trostle, were taken. The aggregate value of the property stolen is estimated at $50. No clue to the robber has yet been discovered.

The large flouring mill on the Cono-doguinet creek, opposite Hoguestown, known as the Butcher mill, was destroy-ed by fire on Thursday morning of last week. The mill contained over 3,000 bushels of wheat besides other grain and some flour. Besides the mill with all its contents being destroyed, the saw-mill and the miller's house were also burned, Mr. Brenneman, the miller, saving most of his household goods, yet the loss falling upon him is saving. the loss falling upon him is severe. The loss on the mill property was valued at $11,000, partly insured in the Allen and East Pennsboro' and Dover Companies. This was the oldest mill on the Conodoguinet creek, baving been built in 1794. The origin of the fire is unknown.

FOR THE TIMES.

MEDARYSVILLE, Ind., July 30, 1881. EDITOR OF TIMES :- A few lines from this section may interest your readers. Business here is on the boom. Farmers are getting here is on the boom. Farmers are getting pretty well along with their harvesting. The wheat crop is far better than was expected in the spring. Oats are very good; the meadows were not very heavy on account of dry weather. The corn crop promises to be one of the best ever raised in this part of the country. The new wheat is selling readily at $1.85 per bushel; corn worth 50 cents; oats 35 cents. It has been very dry here; we are needing rain badly. Stock water is getting scarce, and unless we have rain soon our corn crop will be cut short by the drought. I think my next trip will be to see the country west of the Mississippi. The longer I am in the west the more I think of the country, and am convinced that it is the place for a young man just start-Farmers are getting that it is the place for a young man just start-ing out in life, for by using economy, he can soon get a nice start in business.
