

THE TIMES.

New Bloomfield, Oct. 18, 1881.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS.
No cut or stereotype will be inserted in this paper unless (1) face and on metal base.

Twenty per cent. in excess of regular rates, will be charged for advertisements set in Double Column.
Mr. J. H. BAYES, Newspaper Advertising Ag't, 41 Park Row, (Times Building), New York, is authorized to contract for advertisements for this paper at our best rates.

SEVERAL prominent lawyers have been asked to aid Mr. Scoville in the defense of Guiteau, but decline to have anything to do with defending such a scamp.

SECRETARY WINDOM wishes to leave the Cabinet. He prefers to be Senator from Minnesota, and will no doubt be elected to that position. Mr. MacVeagh also insists upon retiring from his position.

IT SEEMS strange that Confederate bonds have recently been found to have a market value, in the European money centers. But they have been sold within ten days, for five dollars a sheet. It is a high price to pay for waste paper.

THE IOWA election was as usual, rather one-sided. The Republicans have nearly 50,000 majority over the Democrats and about 30,000 over the Greenback, Temperance and Democrats combined.

THE ELECTION in Ohio on Tuesday last resulted in the re-election of Gov. Foster (Republican) by about 20,000 majority. The Republicans also have a majority on joint ballot, which secures them the U. S. Senator, which is to be elected next winter.

THE goods used for mourning decorations have been sent from many of the cities to the sufferers by the Michigan fires. Just imagine a man wearing a pair of black crape pants, with a black calico overcoat, while his wife would sport a suit of black underclothing, with an oversuit of black cambric. That kind of philanthropy is much like boiling eggs and giving the soup to the hungry.

THE RAILROADS reaching the Southern States are using great exertions to attract emigration to that section of the country. Several of the companies are issuing circulars giving full information regarding the country. Mr. Pope, General Passenger Agent of the Railways of Virginia and the Carolinas, is circulating a pamphlet that gives full and complete information regarding the lands on that line and its connections. Thousands of copies have been distributed in Europe, and the result is that foreign immigration is turning in that direction.

THE SENATE met in special session on Monday of last week. The Senators from New York, and the successor of Gen. Burnside from Rhode Island, were not admitted till after the Senate was organized. Therefore the democrats had the majority and elected Mr. Bayard, of Delaware, as President Pro tem. The N. Y., and R. I., Senators were admitted the next day. The two parties are now a tie, without counting Davis and Mahone, both independents, and usually Davis votes with the democrats and Mahone with the republicans.

On Thursday, by a vote of 36 yeas to 34 nays, Hon. David Davis was elected President pro tem.—thus replacing Mr. Bayard. The committees of the senate were, on motion, continue during the present session.

It would have been better if by unanimous consent, Mr. Davis had been put in that office, when the Senate organized.

Postal Nominations.

The President has sent a number of nominations to the Senate Wednesday, among which were the following: Wm. W. Dudley, of Indiana, to be Commissioner of Patents; Addison Brown, of New York, to be United States District Judge for the Southern District of New York, and several postmasters, including the following Pennsylvania appointments: Edward B. Reed, at Erie; T. C. Reynolds, at Reynoldsville; Alexander W. Selfridge, at Bethlehem, and Richard D. Wells, at Downingtown.

Operatives Burned in a Factory.

PHILADELPHIA, October 12.—Charles H. Landenberger's mill, owned by Jos. Harbey, at 1711 Randolph street, was burned to-night. The fire broke out about 9:45 o'clock. An officer noticed that there seemed to be something peculiar about the electric lights and in another moment the three upper floors seemed to become suddenly a mass of smoke and flames. The neighbors rushed to the building and saw the operatives at the windows on the third and fourth floors. They called to the girls not to jump, as a ladder would be brought, but several of the girls sprang from the windows. Mattie Cowlan, Fred Krep, George Dougherty, Henry Morgan, Jos. Reynolds, and an unknown girl were badly burned and were taken to St. Mary's hospital, where their injuries were pronounced dangerous, the patients without exception having suffered internally. Matilda Schultz, Annie Muller, Samuel Lapham, George R. Hutton, Kate Shafer, Lizzie Franks, Annie Brady, Michael Larkin and an unknown man were also injured, but not so severely. Joseph Glazier is missing. There was a double stairway back and front but no life escapes. The loss is estimated at $70,000; insurance, $50,000. At midnight the fire was under control.—The two girls at St. Mary's Hospital are likely to die before morning. The cries of the poor creatures in the building when their escape was cut off was heartrending. Most of them jumped to the sidewalk, and a few escaped by the elevator rope. There were some thirty-five persons in the building, of whom twelve were females. The excitement in the neighborhood is intense. It is believed there are some of the operatives buried in the ruins.

The fire is supposed to have originated from sparks from the electric light firing a lot of material on the second floor.—One girl is reported to have been killed outright by striking the iron steps, and at least twenty of the employes are injured. It is believed that one half of those injured will die.

The Blacksmith was Right.

Mrs. Corliss was arrested at South Acton, Mass., on a suspicion that she had stolen $400; but, as she was old and highly respected, and the accuser was a commonplace blacksmith, she was promptly discharged. Much sympathy with her was manifested, and, as for the blacksmith, he was condemned as a reckless calumniator. There were several dissenters from these views, however, and they secretly set a watch upon Mrs. Corliss, by means of which she was caught taking the money from a place in which she had hidden it.

High Waters.

A western dispatch of Wednesday last, says:
The Wisconsin river has been rising rapidly during the past twenty-four hours. At Wausau the water covers the rail road track to the depth of four or five feet. At Stephens' Point the dykes have been ordered to be opened, and if the rain does not soon cease falling terrible results are feared. Considerable damage has already been done.—The Black river has risen eight feet during the past twenty-four hours, and is flooding the country round about.

Explosion Near Bradford.

BRADFORD, Pa., October 13.—A magazine containing three hundred pounds of nitro-glycerine, belonging to the Roberts Torpedo Company, exploded to-night with terrible force, west of the city. Two men were seen going towards the magazine shortly before the explosion and it is thought they were tampering with the lock when the explosion occurred. A careful search to-night fails to disclose anything of the men or the iron safe.

Dropped Dead.

LANCASTER, October 12.—Elias Herr, aged 80 years and one of the best-known farmers in Lancaster County, dropped in one of his fields in Lime Valley, Strasburg Township, yesterday afternoon. He had been helping his men at corn-husking, and was carrying a bundle of "corn-fodder" to its proper place when he was observed to fall. Those who saw him fall ran to his assistance, but life was extinct when they reached him. His death was caused by apoplexy.

A Medical Experiment.

A man was paralyzed by a stroke of lightning at Highwater, Minn. Some of his friends reasoned that if earth would receive electricity from the buried end of a lightning rod, it would in the same manner draw out the charge with which they supposed him to be filled. Therefore they dug a hole and covered him up to the chin. He died in that position.

A Rheumatic Court Room.

A juror serving in the court at Indianapolis, Ind., contracted sciatic rheumatism by reason of the defective heating and ventilation of the court house, and has brought suit against the county for $10,000 damages.

We never saw any one joyous when suffering from pain; neuralgia for instance. In relation to this malady Mr. George Guyette, Prop. Guyette House, thus informed our representative: I have used St. Jacobs Oil for neuralgia, and can confidently recommend it to any one similarly affected.—Sheboygan Falls, Sheboygan Co. News.

Miscellaneous News Items.

Judge Jameson, of the Criminal Court of Chicago, delivered in his charge to the Grand Jury yesterday emphatic utterances in regard to gambling in grain, and declared that the laws in existence against such operations must be enforced.

The work of construction on the majority of buildings in course of erection in New York was suspended on Monday, the bricklayers refusing to agree to a reduction of their wages per day from $4 to $3.50, as proposed by their employers.

A Canadian, who is poor and in ill health, and is unable to maintain himself, has a wife who owns considerable property but refuses to contribute anything toward his support, and he has brought suit against her to compel her to provide for his wants.

A dispatch from Wilcox, Arizona, says that the Chirihabua scouts who have deserted have killed one of the White Mountain Indians. Fears are entertained that the latter will retaliate and a conflict be precipitated, of which no one can foresee the extent.

HANNABLE, Mo., October 13.—The family of Hiram Westfall were poisoned yesterday by a colored girl, who put arsenic in oatmeal. Mrs. Westfall died last night, and the hired man is not expected to live. The other members of the family suffered severely. The girl has been arrested but denies the act.

MOUNT JOY, October 13.—George Kiehl, while driving along the turnpike, was stopped at Clark's mills last evening by two traps, one of whom approaching the wagon received a blow over the head with a bottle, delivered with such force that the bottle was broken. As carriages were heard approaching the traps fled.

Robert L. Stuart, Robert Lenox Kennedy, and his sister, Miss Kennedy, have each given Mrs. Garfield $15,000, or $45,000 altogether. The money was deposited by the donors, a few days ago, in the Bank of Commerce to Mrs. Garfield's credit and notice sent to her that she could draw it at her pleasure.

The clergyman of Roxbury, Mass., are devising new methods of temperance work, and one of them is to employ an agent to visit the Police Court every day, interest himself in the cause of men arraigned for the first time for intoxication, and adopt whatever course may seem most judicious for their reform.

A woman living in a Boston apartment house let herself down in the elevator after the usual time for operating it. She found herself at the bottom of the well, with the door locked and no steam up to lift the car again. The janitor, to punish her for what she had done, left her prisoner all night. Then she made him a prisoner in a police station.

A trial over the ownership of a kitchen took place before a justice and jury at Tom's River a few days ago, in which C. W. Potter brought suit against Hiram Horner for $10, the alleged value of a kitchen which defendant had taken. After a number of witnesses had been examined, and the counsel on each side had made lengthy arguments, the jury rendered a verdict of "no cause of action."

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 12, 1881.
The usual crowd that fills the galleries and corridors of the Capital when Congress assembles pressed for admission on the opening of the special session of the Senate. Long before 12 o'clock every seat in the public gallery had an occupant and throngs on the outside were still trying to get in. The House is generally the attractive side and it is rarely that the dignified Senate presents such an animated appearance. A previously announced debate on some important question, or a set speech by Blaine, Conkling, Voorhees, Thurman or Lamar are the occasions which heretofore have caused the crowd to flock in that direction. But at this time there was a general expectation that something lively or sensational would occur. The evenly balanced condition of parties in the body rendered the events of the day uncertain, and the people of Washington are so familiar with the wiles and plots and counterplots of politicians that they know a "circus" is at all times possible under such circumstances. It is all a squabble for power and the offices. Senators Mahone and David Davis have been objects of considerable interest by reason of their peculiar position. Senator Davis now really holds the balance of power which formerly rested with Mahone, and upon which ever side he elects to throw his ponderous weight the scale is sure to turn. It can not be a very agreeable position to occupy in these times.

Statements are going out concerning Army changes soon to be made and it is true that several retirements and promotions are already booked. Gen. McDowell, Major-General, will be one of the first officers to be retired. He is over 62 years of age and would have been retired in place of Gen. Ord, had it not been for his personal relations with the late President. Gen. Terry, who is a brigadier, will, in all probability, be promoted to major general, to fill the vacancy caused by McDowell's retirement. Gen. Terry is not a graduate of West Point. His promotion would be a compliment to the volunteer forces of the Army during the late war. Quartermaster Gen. Melges will be retired. Col. Rucker, of that department, who is father-in-law to General Sheridan, will be his first successor, as the programme now runs, but shortly after his appointment he will retire, to be succeeded by Col. Ingalls who is the friend of Ex-President Grant. This suggests a reference to the many changes in personal fortunes wrought by Guiteau's fatal bullet. Col. Rockwell, Gen. Garfield's faithful friend, would have been made Quartermaster General had the late President survived. But his prospects, with those of many others, Cabinet officers included, are now changed. It is alleged that the papers for Col. Rockwell's promotion were all made out in August, ready to present for the President's signature should an opportune moment occur, but Mr. Blaine—so the story goes—voted the project. After Gen. Garfield's death Mrs. Garfield wrote to President Arthur on behalf of Col. Rockwell. About the same time Gen. Grant also wrote, stating that he had long desired and now recommended the appointment of Col. Ingalls, and Ingalls will be appointed. In the medical department of the Army, Surgeon-General Barnes will be retired and Col. Crane appointed to the place. Medical purveyor Baxter has been seeking this position for years and President Hayes desired to appoint him. Gen. Garfield also had the same purpose and did actually have the papers made out at one time.

Cabinet talk still prevails and it is not improbable that, by the time this reaches you the new Cabinet will be announced. Secretary Lincoln, it is now positively stated, is to remain in charge of the War portfolio, and Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, to be Secretary of State. Judge Folger of New York, has been positively named for Secretary of the Treasury, but he denies that the President has communicated with him on the subject. Mr. Conkling, who was here some days, has now returned to New York, suffering from his old malarial troubles and looking, as he was, a sick man. He had several interviews with the President and it is generally believed here that he could have told who would constitute the new Cabinet if he had pleased, as he doubtless was consulted concerning it. Gen. Grant is understood to be very bitter against the anti-stalwart element and to advocate a general slaughter. Mr. Conkling is reported as equally bitter but more politic. I give this current gossip for what it is worth, without undertaking to vouch for any of it. A little time will bring tangible developments, and "we shall see what we shall see." One thing, however, may be set down as settled, President Arthur is a shrewd politician and he starts out with a purpose to be discreet and do his best.
