JUSTICE COX is in receipt of many letters from various parts of the country reflecting upon his management of the Guiteau case, and some giving him advice on the subject.

THE Pennsylvania R. R., commenced on Monday of this week to use their new depot at 15th and Filbert streets .-This will be quite convenient to travellers who will now be landed within a few squares of all the principal hotels .-The building is lighted by the electric

IT USED to be that independent voting was not fashionable. It was a rare thing to see a man go to the polls and cut a candidate. Party rules were so stringently enforced that it was a little more than a man could conveniently and safely do to split his ticket; but that has been done away with.

J. A. ALCORN, of Mount Sterling, Iowa, has in his possession a diamond whose true value is estimated at $2,500 This valuable stone he found about seven or eight years ago, while leveling and graveling walks around his house. On account of its peculiar appearance he picked it up, and carried it in his pocket a year before its true character was known.

THE "Nation" makes a good point when it says that if Guiteau were really insane he would not only glory in having shot the President but would make himself fully responsible for the consequences of the act. He seems now inclined to rejoice in the shooting, but to hold the physicians responsible for the death of the President. A genuine madman would be consistent enough to claim the whole credit for himself.

Commissioner Raum in his annual report referring to the reduction of internal taxation says: "Whenever the wants of the government will allow the reduction of the internal taxation my opinion is that it will be wise to confine these taxes to distilled spirits, malt liquors, tobacco and its products, and to special taxes upon manufacturers and dealers in these articles, and to fix taxes at such rates as will yield the amount of revenue necessary to be raised from these sources."

The Postmaster General's Report.

The Postmaster General's annual report has been given to the press. The following are some interesting items gathered from its pages. It states that the cost of operating the mail service for the last fiscal year was $39,251,736.46 and the receipts were $36,785,897.97, leaving a deficiency of $2, 466,838.49. The reduction of letter postage from 3 to 2 cents is recommended, as is the establishment of postal savings banks. The employees, including contractors, number 61,444; 1,046,107,348 letters were mailed during the year, of which 3,323,621, or 1 in 315, found their way to the dead letter office. Of the letters and packages opened in the dead office, 18,617 were found to contain money amounting to $40,587.80: 22,012 contained drafts, money orders, checks, notes, etc., the aggregate face value of which was $1,899,062.51; 37,978 contained receipts, paid notes and cancelled obligations of all sorts; 83,731 contained photographs; 61,556 contained small remittances of postage stamps, and in 75,214 there we found valuable articles of third and fourth class matter in endless variety. The amount of money separated from dead letters for which no claimant could be found was $6,584.40, which was deposited in the Treasury. The records of the department show that 8,338,918 registered letters and packages were mailed in this country during the year. Of this number only 2,614 reached the dead letter office, and of these 2,131 were flually delivered to the owners, the balance being placed on file awaiting identification by the parties interested.

A Chapter of Accidents.

On Sunday evening two young men standing on the platform of a horse car, in Philadelphia, were instantly killed by being struck by the runaway horses of a steam fire engine. No damage was done to the engine or horses.

A young man in New York, tried to stop a runaway horse on Saturday and was thrown down and instantly killed.

A switchman named George Shelf, in the Lake Shore yard, had both his lega cut off the other night by being run over. After he saw that both legs were gone he laid his head on the track and begged that the job might be complet-

A platform in the new Bessemer mill at the Steelton steel works gave way Sunday night, throwing four men to the ground. A man named Miller, from Millersburg, had his back broken and is not expected to live. The other men sustained slight injuries.

In Kershaw county, South Carolina, the other day, a little girl, upon leaving her grandfather's house for her home, put several ears of corn, which had just been roasted, in her apron to take with her. She had not gone far before she found her apron was on fire. She started to run back to the house to get some one to put it out. The running fanned the fire into a blaze, which soon burned all the clothing off of her. She died that night from the effects of the burn-

BUTLER, Nov. 29 .- Dr. T. M. Zimmerman, in attempting to kill a pig, exploded a pistol in his pocket. The ball penetrated the right groin and lodged in the left knee. The wound is painful but not necessarily fatal.

Jacob Fisher, of Columbia, was instantly killed Tuesday morning by a freight train on the Port Deposit Railroad, near Washington Borough.

George Houston, a young man about twenty years of age, employed in the woollen mills at Montgomery, New York, while placing a belt in a pulleywheel on Monday, was caught and drawn round the shaft between a space of six inches and thrown upon a carding machine several yards distant. He died the same evening. He was to have been married in a few days.

LANCASTER, Pa, Nov. 30 .- William Kneir, of Petersburg, this county, and Nathan Greybill went out to hunt muskrats last night and in the darkness Greybill, mistaking his companions for the object of their search, shot him fatally.

Foul Play Suspected.

About two weeks ago Robert Craven, formerly in the grocery business at 3963 Market street, died suddenly in New York. He was rather eccentric in his ways, and had a habit of carrying large sums of money with him, often amounting to $7000 or $8000. About two years ago he sold out his business here, speculated in stocks for a while, and then went to New York, where he opened another grocery and continued to operate on Wall street. Previous to leaving this city he formed an attachment for Miss Lizzie Chase, of 3964 Market street, and made a will constituting her his sole heir. After his death the lady visited New York for the purpose of bringing the body to this city, which was done. While there she ascertained that not a dollar was found upon his person nor in his store, the stock of which had been reduced to a considerable extent. Acting upon the belief that he either came to his death by violence or that his body had been robbed, Miss Chase placed the matter in the hands of detectives, who are now working on the case. - Philadelphia North American.

Gulteau to Lecture and Marry.

A few days ago a large crowd of ladies and gentlemen gathered at the jall to see Guiteau, but few of them were permitted to see the prisoner. During the morning about fifteen experts on insanity called to examine him. In the conversation which followed, Guiteau said the trial was progressing satisfactorily to him; that he was certain of acquittal by the jury; that when he got on the witness-stand he would soon convicce them that he removed the President under inspiration. Even the lawyers, he said, were friendly to him, and he mentioned Colonel Corkhill and Mr. Davidge by name as having no desire to convict him. He was asked what he should do supposing the jury said he must hang. "I would go upon the scaffold without fear." said he, "If the Lord wills it I will obey His commands without complaint. I will cheerfully go. It may not be in this generation, but the odium attached to my name will be removed. I will be regarded as a patriot and the savior of the nation from civil war. My name will go down in history with Lincoln's and Grant's." He was asked what he would do if sequitted. "I will go into the lecture field as soon as I am out. I would make $50,000 the first year. I would pay all my debts and board bills and start life again. I would go out to Indiana and marry that hundred thousand dollar girl who recently advertised for a husband."

Matrimonial Freaks.

A heavy rain storm prevalled at the time appointed for Frank Wells' marriage, at Crawfordville, Ind., and it may be that the dampness quenched his matrimonial ardor, for he borrowed $0 and an umbrella from the bride, walked off, hurriedly toward the railroad station, and has not since been seen in the town.

Matthew Bray is the head of a wealthy lumber firm at Hudson, Wis. He was Bertha Suell's suitor ten years ago, and they made a marriage engagement. Subsequently he changed his mind, and asked her to fix a price for permitting him to marry another. She said that $3,000 would satisfy her, and he signed a note for that sum, payable on his wedding day. He did not take a wife until lately, and now a lawsuit is the consequence of his refusal to pay the claim-

When a Texas couple stood up to be married, the minister saw the handle of a pistol protruding from the bridegroom's pocket and suggested that, out of respect to the solemn ceremony, it be laid aside. The advice was heeded. Then the bride demurely drew a dagger from her bosom and tossed it beside the other weapon.

Found Her Baby.

A resident of Battle Creek, Mich., was called to his front door last Thursday morning by a vicious jerk of the bell. What he saw on the door step was a clothes basket, and it did not take long to discover that the basket contained a baby. As that household already had a full assortment of treasures of that kind the citizen was angry as well as shocked. He lost no time in sending the basket with its contents to the police station .-As the colored man who had been hired to carry the baby to the station entered the door he saw a young woman frantically endeavoring to give an officer a piece of information. Glancing at the basket, however, the woman uttered a scream and hugged the infant until it in turn became demonstrative. The foundling had found its mother, whose strange explanation was that a discharged and angry servant girl had kidnap ped it while the family were at breakfast proved to be true.

An Unfortunate Legacy.

That it may be a misfortune to have money left one is illustrated by the case of Miss Mary E. Conley, who had seventy-five shares of stock in the Newark Mechanics' Bank bequeathed her. The assessment made by reason of Baldwin's racality and the Bank's ruin not only calls for the entire value of her shares, but money besides; and unless the Directors can be held responsible for not doing their duty, what was intended to fitrnish Miss Conley a fixed income will prove a positive loss.

A Great Enterprise.

The Hop Bitters Manufacturing Company is one of Rochester's greatest busi-ness enterprises. Their Hop Bitters have reached a sale beyond all precedent, having from their intrinsic value found their way into almost every household in the land.—Graphic. 492t

The dead body of a new-born male infant was found in the rear of the Franklin house Huntington, on Monday morning. The coroner's jury came to the conclusion that the child had been born some time during the night and its mother, who is unknown, had murdered

Burglars broke into the Post-office at Sunbury on Monday night and blew open the safe. Some persons attracted by the noise fired into the office and the robbers fied. They secured only four registered letters, dropping $250 worth of postage stamps in their flight. They also left behind them a set of burglar's tools and a can of Mrs. Green horsewhipped Dick Clinton at Adairsville, Ky., last week, for insulting her. She gave him a pretty severe thrashing, and exacted a promise that he would be more respectful. On turning away Clinton yelled at her, and she came back and improved upon the first lashing. Here Richard struck her with a brick, but she whipped him until she was tired, and then waltzed him up before a crowd and forced him to make a public apology.

A terrible accident happened shortly before 11 o'clock Tuesday morning at Mt. Joy, by which John A. Sayder a highly respected citizen of that borough, was instantly killed. Mr. Snyder crossed the railroad track to get to his team, which was on the other side, noticing the approaching of the mail train west. Several persons who saw his danger called to Mr. Snyder not to cross the track, but he evidently did not hear him. He was struck and knocked down by the engine, and it passed over his head. Deceased was fifty years of age and was considered one of the wealthiest men in the county. He was the owner of the large flour mills at the lower end of the borough.
