

WIDE AWAKE FOR 1882.

The Editors and Proprietors of WIDE AWAKE make the following announcement of leading features for 1882:

FROM THE HUDSON TO THE NEVA. The materials for a hundred tales of adventure are crowded into this one grand serial story of travel, by David Ker. The author has recently visited the countries where the action of this romantic story lies: Algiers, Greece, Turkey, Albania, Montenegro, Russia—hence into Bohemia among the fierce and sorcery-loving Malays; hence all descriptions of places, people, manners and customs are accurate. The editors do not hesitate to say that as a brilliant story of adventure it is without an able rival in current juvenile literature. This story will be fully illustrated.

THEIR CLUB AND OURS is a serial story by a boy only fourteen years old. The fun and adventures of the out-of-school life of a mixed school of boys and girls are depicted with the gay touch of a boy who knows his own capital story to tell and enjoys telling it. The story will have thirty six illustrations.

A LONG HISPANO-ROMAN STORY of the Second Century, by Rev. Edward Everett Hale, will be a leading attraction of the Christmas (Jan.) number, and will at once take its place in the long line of Mr. Hale's famous stories. Other brilliant writers of Short Stories will contribute to the magazine during the year: Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney, Mrs. Helen Hunt Jackson (C. H. A. E.), Mrs. A. M. May, Mrs. Kate Gannett Wells, Sarah Orne Jewett, Mrs. Lizzie W. Champney, Nora Perry, M. E. W. S. (Mrs. Sherwood), Author of "Honor Bright," &c.

Rich material from the Folk Lore of all nations has been given our best balladists and artists for a series of

ILLUSTRATED FOLK-LORE BALLADS. In the way of informing Little Citizens about their future rights and responsibilities, WIDE AWAKE boldly takes the lead and does what no other magazine for young folks has ever done for its readers. Mr. Benjamin Vaughan Abbott, in

THE TRAVELLING LAW SCHOOL, will deal with American institutions and laws; while

Rev. E. E. HALE, in his TO-DAY Papers, will discuss in his vivid, dramatic way, what is timely and important in the world's affairs from month to month.

Some highly interesting papers, under the quaint titles of OLD-TIME COOKERY AND A SUIT OF HOME-SPUN, descriptive of early days and ways, have been written and illustrated at one of the oldest New England homes.

SHORT STORIES FROM THE DICTIONARY, by Arthur Gilman, M. A., will tell the history of certain words in a way to suggest how to use the Dictionary.

Mrs. Harris has prepared a most charming set of WILD FLOWER PAPERS, to be fully illustrated from nature by Miss L. B. Humphrey.

Among the more amusing features will be A Parlor Connoisseur, running through Mrs. A. G. Gannett's, both for indoors and out, accompanied by diagrams and spirited illustrations; and Fresh and humorous Studies of Country Life, in pictures without text.

In the October WIDE AWAKE was begun a Course of Readings, designed for our young folks who would like to read in a thorough manner about interesting and practical subjects. The magazine has been permanently enlarged to admit this

NEW EDUCATIONAL FEATURE. The Reading Course for 1882 includes the following series (12 papers each):

Magna Charta Stories, edited by Arthur Gilman, M. A.

Ways To Do Things, by Rev. C. R. Talbot, "Shirley Dare," &c.

Old Ocean, by Ernest Ingersoll.

Travelling Law School, by Benjamin Vaughan Abbott.

Little Biographies—Music, by Hezekiah Butterworth.

Health and Strength Papers, by able authors.

What To Do About It, by the Wise Blackbird.

Miscellaneous papers on Natural History, Natural Philosophy, Astronomy, Chemistry, Geology, Botany, Ornithology, &c.

Artists and Engravers have combined to produce finer illustrations than ever before, a very pleasant indication of which may be gathered from the following:

DELIGHTFUL EXTRAVAGANCE! Last spring the Publishers of WIDE AWAKE offered American artists $500, in Three Cash Prizes, for the Three Best Drawings for Frontispiece to the Magazine. These Prize Frontispieces will appear in WIDE AWAKE for 1882. The best of them cost $300.00, and the cost of engraving (nearly $300.00 more), amounting in total expense to $600.00, make the First Prize picture, A-Maying, the most costly frontispiece ever given in a juvenile magazine.

The Music will be under the editorship of Louis C. Elson, and in advance of anything before attempted.

OFFER EXTRAORDINARY! The Subscription Price of WIDE AWAKE is $2.50 per year; and as a special liberality the Publishers have decided to give each new subscriber for 1882, whose name, with $2.50, is received before January 1st, the October, November and December numbers of this year free! Address

THE SUN.

NEW YORK, 1882.

THE SUN for 1882 will make its fifteenth annual revolution under the present management, shining, as always, for all, big and little, mean and gracious, contented and unhappy, Republican and Democratic, depraved and virtuous, intelligent and obtuse. The Sun's light is for mankind and womankind of every sort; but its genial warmth is for the good, while it pours hot discomfort on the blistering backs of the persistently wicked.

THE SUN of 1865 was a newspaper of a new kind. It discarded many of the forms, and a multitude of the superfluous words and phrases of ancient journalism. It undertook to report in a fresh, succinct, unconventional way all the news of the world, omitting no event of human interest, and commenting upon affairs with the fearlessness of absolute independence. The success of this experiment was the success of THE SUN. It effected a permanent change in the style of American newspapers. Every important journal established in this country in the dozen years past has been modelled after the success of THE SUN. It effected a journal already existing has been modelled and bettered by the force of THE SUN's example.

THE SUN of 1882 will be the same outspoken, truth-telling, and unflinching newspaper.

By a liberal use of the means which an abundant prosperity affords, we shall make it better than ever before.

We shall print all the news, putting it into readable shape, and measuring its importance, not by the traditional yardstick, but by its real interest to the people. Distance from Printing House Square is not the first consideration with THE SUN. Whenever anything happens worth reporting we get the particulars, whether it happens in Brooklyn or in Bokhara.

In politics we have decided opinions; and are accustomed to express them in language that can be understood. We say what we think about men and events. That habit is the only secret of THE SUN's political course.

THE WEEKLY SUN gathers into eight pages the best matter of the seven daily issues. An Agricultural Department of unequalled merit, full market reports, and a liberal proportion of literary, scientific, and domestic intelligence complete THE WEEKLY SUN, and make it the best newspaper for the farmer's household that was ever printed.

Who does not know and read like THE SUN? Each number of which is a Golconda of interesting literature, with the best poetry of the day, prose every line worth reading, news, humor—matter enough to fill a good-sized book, and infinitely more varied and entertaining than any book, big or little?

If your idea of what a newspaper should be pleases you, send for THE SUN.

Our terms are as follows: For the daily SUN, a four-page sheet of twenty-eight columns, the price by mail, post paid, is 55 cents a month, or $5 a year, including the Sunday paper, an eight-page sheet of fifty-six columns, the price is 65 cents per month, or $7.70 a year, postage paid.

The Sunday edition of THE SUN is also furnished separately at $1.20 a year, postage paid.

The price of THE WEEKLY SUN, eight pages, fifty-six columns, is $1 a year, postage paid. For clubs of ten sending $10 we will send an extra copy free. Address

Deaf Hunter's Politics.

During the war they had down in Florida a shrewd old fellow known as "Deaf Hunter." Every body knew him. He was as deaf as a post, and through his dealings and shrewdness he managed to completely hide his sympathy for either party during the war. It was suspected however, that he was with the Confederates at heart.

Every means had been tried by the Union officers to procure from him some admission of preference, but of no avail. When reduced to a corner he never lacked an expedient to get himself out. But one day a Union Captain put up a bet that he could tap him and get his secret. He accordingly went up to Hunter's and skirmished around, but not one hint did he get. He would be deaf to questions that were unpleasant, and the inquirer was baffled. At last there came two big bull-dogs into his store, fierce fellows, and exactly alike.

"Fine dogs, those," yelled the inquirer in his ears.

"Yes," was the reply.

"What are their names?" in the same loud tones.

"Wall," said the old man, "I call one Beauregard and 't'other McClellan."

"You do," shouted the inquirer; "which one do you like the best?"

"Hey?" queried Hunter, putting his ear down.

"Which do you like best?"

"Oh, wall," said he, with a twinkle in his eye, "both on 'em is as ugly as the devil."

The Captain paid the bet.

The next day he was drinking in Hunter's store, and, taking advantage of the old man's deafness, proposed a toast.

"Here's to old Hunter, the two-sided old villain; may he be kicked to death by mules, and his body be sunk in the sea a hundred fathoms deep. May no prayer be said over him, and may his blind soul wander rayless through all eternity."

The toast was drunk with great glee in which the old man joined.

"The same to yourselves gentleman," said he, "the same to yourselves."

Of course he had not heard a word that was said!

Sam's Chances for a Wife.

If a man has three chances for a wife, he should certainly improve one of them. Yet Sam Hopeful did not succeed with such heavy odds in his favor. He shall tell his story:

I once courted a gal by the name of Deb Dawkins. I made up my mind to get married. Well, while we were going to the deacon's I stepped into a mud puddle, and splattered the mud all over Deb Dawkin's new gown, made out of her grandmother's old chintz petticoat. When we got to the deacon's he asked Deb if she would take me for her lawful wedded husband.

"No," says she.

"Reason," says I.

"Why," says she, "I've taken a mislikin' to you."

Well, it was all up then but I gave her a string of beads, a few kisses, some other notions, and made it all up with her; so we went up to the deacon a second time. I was bound to come up with her this time, so when he asked me if I would take her for my wedded wife, says I,

"No. I shant do no such thing."

"Why," says Deb, "what on airth is the matter now?"

"Why," says I, "I have taken a mislikin' to you."

Well it was all over again; but I gave her a new apron, and a few other trinkets and we went up again to get married. We expected that we would be tied so fast that all nature couldn't separate us; and when we asked the deacon if he would marry us, he said,

"No." I shan't do no such a thing.

"Why, what on earth is the reason?" says we.

"Why," says he, "I've taken a mislikin' to both of you."

Deb bust out cryin', the deacon bust out scoldin', and I bust out laughin', and such a set of busters you never did see, and that is the reason I never married. My chance has gone.

At a somewhat fashionable party, a young man approached a table for the purpose of taking a cup of coffee. As there was no milk at hand he turned to Miss — and said: "Nellie, I wish you'd drive the cow in; I want some milk." The response of the young lady was: "Wouldn't it be better for me to drive the calf out?"

A young clergyman in Iowa, recently married a couple in the following brief manner: "Do you want one another?" Both replied yes. "Well, then, have one another."
