Brief Items.

The canal was closed for the season on Saturday. Singing in Markleville next Saturday evening.

See advertisement of small farm cheap. Mrs. Campbell must sell and here is a bargain.

Iokesburg congregation, M. E. church, greeted their pastor with a Christmas present in the form of a substantial donation, for which he returns thanks.

Why, after going to the expense of lamps and posts, can't we have the streets in this borough lighted? Let us have light.

A sum of money was found a few days ago between Darlington's and Zimmerman's in Centre twp. The loser can get more information at this office.

Several cases of small-pox are reported in Altoona. The authorities are trying hard to keep it within its present limits.

W. R. Dum, of Spring twp., killed four hogs recently which averaged 321 pounds apiece. He has also a lamb of the Cotswold breed, only seven months old that weighs 106 pounds.

The roads in Spring twp., north of Blue Ball are in better condition now than they have ever been known to be. The cause of this is, more money had been used to put them in this condition.

Ed Clouser came into town on last Friday with a large red fox hanging over his shoulder. It is pretty certain death for fox or turkey, to get too near Ed when he has his gun with him.

On Tuesday last Rice's stage broke an axle, when about a mile below town. The driver returned here and hitched to his new stage, with which he completed his trip, but not in time to make mail connections.

See changes in railroad schedule. The changes are very great. The facility for going east are the worst ever had since we knew anything about the road. One change in 24 hours, and that at 11.42 A. M., to go east of Harrisburg.

Two men named Nicholson and Yeingst, while engaged at digging a well near Mt. Holly, made a narrow escape from being killed or badly hurt. The hoisting bucket became detached from the chain and fell to the bottom, but in falling it luckily only grazed Yeingst.

We acknowledge a card from Col. Feger, of St. Elmo Hotel, Philadelphia, enclosing his bill of fare for Christmas dinner. We regret we cannot accept his invitation to dinner, but we don't know as he offers a much better dinner than we have had there many a time. In fact his dinners are always good.

In the western part of Franklin Co., on November 19th, George W. Hornberger and G. W. Simpson quarreled; Hornberger was knocked down, his head striking a bench and receiving injuries from which he died several days ago. Simpson is hiding among the mountains, and the crime has just been returned to the District Attorney.

The cash assets of the defunct State Capital Mutual Insurance Company of Harrisburg, have been ascertained by the receiver, and amount to $55. The office fixtures and all other property of the concern is estimated at about $1,200. The receiver is constantly besieged by policy holders, who are anxious to realize on their policies, but their hopes are dashed by an examination of the state of affairs as they exist.

Personal. - We received calls from a great many fine looking teachers last week. We might omit some of the names if we attempt to mention them, so we give them all a general invitation to call again.

Rev. George Crist, of Duncannon, who was very ill, has begun to improve and his friends now hope for his speedy recovery.

Henry K. Bridge, son of Mr. Henry Bridge, of Wheatfield twp., is in from Illinois on a short visit. He likes the west very much.

Mr. Hollenbaugh has been compelled to resign the charge of the Grammar School in this borough owing to ill health. In accepting his resignation the following letter was sent him by the school board.

New Bloomfield, Pa., Dec. 23, 1881. To Mr. B. F. Hollenbaugh - The Bloomfield Board has accepted your resignation with regret, and desire by this resolution to so testify, and express their condolence with you in your sickness and to hope for your speedy recovery.

We are sorry to learn that John M. McKee son of Wilson McKee of this borough had the middle finger of his left hand smashed so badly that it had to be amputated. He is employed at South Pueblo, Colorado.

Mr. Charles and Wm. M. Withrow, of Altoona, spent Christmas with their friends in Centre township.

Mr. John R. Lefever and his sister Fannie, of Harrisburg, are visiting friends in this place.

Miss Irene Kuhn, of Hummelstown, is visiting friends in this section. She formerly resided in this town.

Mr. Alfred Shearer, who is attending lectures in New York, is spending the week with his parents, in Centre township.

Mr. Charles Bollinger, who is attending the College of Pharmacy in Philadelphia, is spending this week at home. He brought a friend with him.

Mrs. Amanda Mickey, of Bedford county, is visiting her mother, in this borough.

Miss Marian E. Spahr spent Christmas with her parents in this place.

Thieves Around. - On Monday night some person stole some tools from the smith shop of Harry Smith in this place. The same night an attempt was made to break into Garbert, McKee & Co's. warehouse in Newport but the thieves were discovered and fired at, unfortunately without doing them any injury. The tools taken from Mr. Smith's shop in this place, were found at Newport, where they were left by the thieves.

Her Missing Turkeys. - A woman residing in Spring twp., lost a brood of turkeys, nine in number some four weeks since. Last week her husband was on the ridge and found a man who had just shot three wild turkeys and he said there were several more that he ought to have got. The farmer then hunted them up and found what was left of his wife's missing turkeys. All but four had been shot for wild ones. Now she wants the hunter to pay for the three she knows he shot.

Jimmy Flynn's Horse. - This horse objects to having a store box put into a buggy, and so when Jimmy put one into his buggy on Thursday evening, the animal forcibly expressed his objections by kicking till he knocked the box out and then ran away. When near Barnett's mill he lost the road, and went over the stone wall doubling himself up badly, and making the vehicle look like a pile of kindling wood. Mr. Flynn escaped with a few ugly bruises, which, considering the fall he had was a remarkable escape.

Another Swindle. - Some people will never learn what a great risk they are running in signing papers for strangers, especially without reading it over or carefully examining it. The following, we clip from the Waynesboro Gazette, is given to our reader as about the nineteenth warning, but still we would not be surprised to hear of the same swindle being perpetrated upon some of our citizens before our next issue: "A barefaced swindle was perpetrated on Mr. Wm. Wiles, near this place, a short time ago. We have been unable to get the full particulars, but from what we have heard the following are about the facts in the case. Several weeks ago a couple of men stopped at Mr. Wiles' and asked him to take the agency for a patent Wind Engine and asked the privilege of erecting one on his premises as a sample. Mr. W. agreed to take the agency and had the Engine put up with the understanding that it was only as a specimen of the article and he would not be required to pay for it. In the course of the business constituting him agent it was necessary, they told him, to sign several papers, which were articles of agreement. This he did and in a short time the Engine came on and was put up. Several weeks afterward Mr. W. received notice from the Hagerstown bank, we think, that they held a note against him for a sum of money which he would oblige them by lifting, how much we are unable to state. It now turns out that what Mr. Wiles thought were articles of agreement that he was signing were notes. What the result will be we must patiently wait to see.

Junata County. - We copy the following from the Junata county papers of last week:

[From The Port Royal Times.] On Wednesday of last week a fodder stack belonging to Mr. John Thompson, on his farm in Spruce Hill township, was ignited by a spark from his steam saw mill and the fodder was entirely consumed.

Cumberland County. - We copy the following from the Cumberland county papers of last week:

[From The Newcastle Enterprise.] A serious accident befell our townsman and traveling salesman, Mr. J. S. Elliott, who was married on Thursday last, leaving on the evening train for a trip through some of the Southern states, stopping all night at Hogshead, Va., and when at Shepherds town, Va., he went forward in the car to see the brakeman, and, while standing, along side the stove the gas exploded the stove, throwing the steam and dirt into Mr. Elliott's face knocking him to the floor and burning him severely on the face and neck. Mr. Elliott was taken in charge and a telegram sent to his parents at this place, notifying them of his return to Newville, on the afternoon train. On arriving at this place he was conveyed to the residence of Mrs. Skinner, where he is under medical treatment, and is improving slowly and satisfactorily to all his friends.

[From The Valley Sentinel.] Mr. Hellbrenner, the rag merchant, while driving on the pike Tuesday fell off the load of rags and broke his arm of the wrist and elbow. He was brought to town by Mr. John Wetzel, and taken to Dr. Hemminger's office where the fracture was reduced.

One night recently, Mr. W. W. Gutschall, of near Carlisle Springs, hearing the door of his corn crib slapping (as he supposed by the wind), left his warm bed and hurried to the crib. After fastening it securely, he returned to the house, thinking no more of the occurrence. How surprised he was the next morning you may imagine, when he found that a thief had been pilfering his crib, and that he had actually shut the fellow in. Of course the thief made good his escape during the night.

A Farmer's Opinion. Mr. Edron - I noticed what you said last week about paying road tax in money, and letting the supervisor hire his men. I would be in favor of this, and believe as you say, that we will not have good roads till that way is made a law. I am sure we would have better roads, and I have no doubt that our taxes would be less than they are now. I, for one, would like to see this plan tried. Let us hear some other ideas on this subject. Spring twp., Dec 21st, 1881. FARMER.

Perry County Teachers' Institute.

The following proceedings were had at the Teachers' Institute held in the Court House in this borough, December 19th, 20th, 21st, 22nd and 23rd, 1881:

The thirty-second annual meeting of the Perry County Teachers' Institute convened in the Court House at New Bloomfield, December 19th, 1881, at 10 o'clock P. M., and was called to order by the County Superintendent, Prof. J. R. Fieking. Rev. John Edgar opened by reading a portion of Scripture and offered prayer. Prof. Fieking, in a short and appropriate address, explained the object of the teachers' meeting. The election of officers was next in order and resulted as follows:

Vice President, J. S. Campbell; Secretaries, David Boyd and A. K. Souder; Reporter, George R. Barnett; Treasurer, Wm. Willis; Recording Secretary, J. W. Soule. One hundred and thirty-two teachers present. Considerable dispute arose in regard to paying an enrollment fee of 50 cents, which amount was carried by a large majority. Music, followed by the reading of a paper on the subject of Language Lessons by Prof. S. B. Fahnestock. On motion it was agreed that the hours of meeting and adjourning should be the same as our school hours - from 9 A. M. to 12 M., and 1 to 4 P. M., with the exception of Friday morning's session, which is to open at 8 and adjourn at 11 o'clock, A. M.

MONDAY EVENING SESSION. - Institute opened by music. P. G. Kell read a paper on the topic, "To what extent should our public schools provide opportunities of acquiring a business education." He proposed that all school work should be of a practical nature. Prof. Silas Wright made some remarks and suggestions on the subject and heartily endorsed the views presented by Mr. Kell. Prof. S. Helges, of York, was then introduced by the President. He delivered a lecture on the subject of "Dime Nature's Apparent Absurdities." The Professor took up many examples and showed conclusively that what appeared as absurdities in nature were but the wise provisions of the Creator. Institute adjourned to meet Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

TUESDAY. MORNING SESSION. - The opening exercises were conducted by Rev. A. H. Spangler, who read the 1st Psalm and offered prayer, followed by music by the Institute.

Professor Helges then gave the teachers a talk on the subject of Sense Culture. He outlined his work as follows: 1, Possibility and necessity; 2, Habit of observation; 3, Condition, care of organs, attention; 4, Exercise; (a) Object Lessons, (b) Topical Spelling, (c) Drawing, (d) Descriptive Remarks, (e) Natural Sciences. In the course of his remarks he suggested that recitations of primary classes should last about ten minutes, as that is about the time their attention can be held.

A piece of music was had, after which Percentage was explained in a paper by Rev. John Edgar. Remarks were made by Prof. McCaskey, Messrs. Harkins, Baker and Wright. Prof. Fahnestock concluded his paper on Language Lessons. The subject was discussed in a very interesting and practical manner by Messrs. J. E. Stephens, Harkins, Rev. J. J. Hamilton, D. A. Hagar, Prof. McCaskey, Rev. Edgar and Prof. Helges. Adjourned until 10 o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION opened with music, followed by a talk by Prof. Helges on the "Development of the Mind." A selection entitled "The Charcoal Man," was next read by George W. Gehr. The particulars and incidents were discussed in a paper read by A. L. Anderson. Remarks by Rev. Edgar and others.

J. C. Preisler read a paper on Professional Literature in our common schools. Another talk was given by Prof. Wright on the subject of "Primary work in school." He discussed this work in a very interesting, instructive and enthusiastic manner. "Shall we compel pupils to use the right hand on all occasions?" was discussed by Prof. Helges and others.

Number of teachers enrolled, 147. EVENING SESSION opened with music. Miss Brown, of Newport, read a paper on the subject of "Aimless Teaching." The quiet and close attention of a crowded house, showed that the lady's essay was well appreciated by all. Applause. Music by the Glee Club, "Beautiful Hills," a song and chorus. After another piece of music a poem was read by Rev. J. J. Hamilton.

Bill Perkins, the lecturer for the evening, was then introduced by the President. His subject was the "Philosophy of Fun." The lecturer kept his audience in good humor for about an hour and a half. His lecture was not only humorous but argumentative and well arranged, and all who heard it expressed themselves as much pleased. After a piece of music was sung the Institute adjourned.

WEDNESDAY. MORNING SESSION. - Institute opened with devotional exercises, conducted by Mr. Buck, followed by music. Prof. Silas Wright continued his subject of yesterday, "Primary Teaching." He very highly recommended the "Word Method" in teaching the subject of reading. Next in order was a talk by Prof. Helges, subject, "Object Lessons," which was followed by music. A committee consisting of Prof. Silas Wright, J. J. Asper and J. Calvin Sniebly, was appointed by the President to examine pupils' work on exhibition in the Court House in connection with the Institute.

Next in order was the reading of a selection entitled "No Sect in Heaven," by G. W. Gehr. This was followed by a paper on school organization, by J. Elmer Stephens. He divided the subject into two parts, class organization and school organization. The subject of Percentage was continued from yesterday's session by Rev. John Edgar. He takes Brook's Arithmetic as his standard on the subject of Percentage. He illustrated on the blackboard his method of computing interest. Adjourned.

AFTERNOON SESSION. - Meeting called to order by the County Superintendent, and opened with music, followed by the reading of a paper by Prof. McCaskey, subject, "How can the teacher attain a higher degree of professional power?" Professor McCaskey spoke in a very earnest manner and was warmly applauded.

A telegram from the Dauphin County Institute was read by the chairman, the teachers of that Institute tending greetings of friendship. On motion, the President appointed Messrs. Fahnestock, Wright and McCaskey to respond by telegraph. After a piece of music was sung a paper was read on the question, "What shall we teach?" The reader, L. E. Stephens, summed up his paper with the answer, Moral Courage. Report by the chairman of committee on response to Dauphin County Institute was accepted. Prof. Helges continued his instructions on Object Lessons. Prof. McCaskey made illustrations on a sand moulding-board which he uses in his school for teaching geography. He gave among other illustrations that of an active burning volcano.

G. W. Gehr read "The examination of a witness," and "Charcoal." Rev. J. Edgar resumed his instruction on Percentage. Prof. Wright put an outline on the blackboard to show "How to teach Literature" and made some very good suggestions. Messrs. Fahnestock and McCaskey gave their methods of teaching the same subject.

EVENING SESSION. - Opened with music by the Glee Club. A laughable poem of German twang, "The wonderful one hour shilly" was read by W. E. Baker. This was followed by the "Plantation Song."

Prof. Daniel Fleisher, principal of the Newport Select School, introduced "Our Profession" by an able paper on the subject. Miss Moyer recited the "Bell of the Atlantic." Music by the Institute. A declamation by J. M. Eschelman, Title, Bernardo del Carpio. Another by I. E. Stephens, called "Schneider's Ride." Music by the Institute, was followed by Prof. Helges with a talk on "The Powers of the Sunbeam." He divided his subject into two topics "Natural Heat" and "Artificial Heat." The instructions on this subject, were very interesting and instructive. Adjourned.

THURSDAY.

MORNING SESSION. - Devotional exercises conducted by Rev. John Edgar. After some music by the Institute Prof. Silas Wright continued his instruction on "Primary School Work." The "Word Method" was explained and the method was further discussed. Music by the Institute. Prof. Helges took up the subject introduced by Prof. Wright and some practical information. He followed with a lesson on color to a class of 9 children. He presented the primary colors on a card and showed by an experiment that by the mixing of these three primary colors, the secondary colors are produced.

Prof. L. B. Kerr presented the subject of visiting schools by Directors. He said that in Saville twp., the Directors divided themselves into three divisions for convenience, and visited each school once a month took notes of school work, to be read at the monthly meetings of the school board, which the teachers are obliged to attend in order to obtain checks in payment of their salaries. He advocated the payment of one dollar per day to directors for school work done by them. On motion, a query box was opened for referred questions. This was followed by further remarks on visitation of schools, after which institute adjourned.

AFTERNOON SESSION. - Institute opened with singing. An election of County Committee on Permanent Certificates took place. Mr. Baker answered the question "how do you teach reading in the 1st and 3rd Readers?" To day being director's day most of the topics were opened by them, Mr. McKeehan answered the question: "How can directors create a spirit of emulation among their teachers. Explanations from the County Supt., were made in regard to examination papers sent to him by the teachers of the County. Considerable discussion took place on the subject introduced by Mr. McKeehan, Messrs. Baker and Buck advocated the district institutes. Prof. Helges was called on by the President. He advised the holding of district institutes if properly conducted. With respect to visiting schools he favored the paying of competent persons to do this work.

After another piece of music Prof. McCaskey gave an illustration on the molding board, of an earthquake. While he was preparing for this the ladies and some of the gentlemen showed some uneasiness, but the experiments were a success and nobody was hurt.

Prof. Helges gave a talk on the construction of school houses, and showing in a very practical way how any room may be ventilated. He recommended comfortable seats for pupils in school, also advised the teachers to be very careful about the moral instructions given to the pupils. "Practice what you teach" and always be sure you teach correctly.

Mr. D. R. Kane introduced the subject of Recitation. Prof. Helges gave some very valuable instruction on conducting recitations. Prof. Fahnestock and others took part in the general discussion.

Music by the Institute. Messrs. Spangler, Smiley and Seibert were appointed by the chair to count the vote for Committee on permanent certificates. The Institute adjourned after the announcements for the evening session were made.

EVENING SESSION. - Institute called to order by President, opened with music by the Glee Club. J. L. McCaskey answered the question "How do you teach History?" A paper on the "Teachers Literary Preparation," was read by Miss Moyer of Newport.

Dr. O. Tiffany, of Philadelphia, was introduced to the audience by the County Supt., J. R. Fieking. The Dr. delivered a lecture on the subject "Work and Its Worth." He classes all society into three classes, viz: Paupers, Working Class and Aristocrats; the 1st consists of all the beggars, the 2nd the Farmers, Mechanics, Merchants and Professional men, and all laboring classes, and the 3rd, the rich noblemen. The 1st and 3rd classes live on the labor of the 2nd class. He recited some of the manifold works of progress that the working men of the world take up and carry on a boldly and energetically. The speaker closed with a fine tribute to the working class; to the "Worth of Work." Great applause by the audience.

The quiet and close attention of an over crowded house showed the appreciation of the lecture by the audience. Music, after which the Institute adjourned 11:30 o'clock Friday morning.

FRIDAY. Rev. W. Glandorf, of Newport, conducted the devotional exercises. W. A. Smith, conductor of the musical exercises during the Institute, led in music.

On motion of Prof. Fahnestock, an enrollment fee was fixed permanently at 75 cents.

"How to manage unruly boys" was answered by W. E. Baker, Fleisher and McCaskey. Report of chairman of Committee on Examination of Scholars' work, was presented and accepted. The chairman of the committee to count the votes cast for Committee on Permanent Certificates reported that the following persons had received the highest number of votes: J. L. McCaskey, Silas Wright, S. B. Fahnestock, J. E. Campbell and Isaiah E. Stephens.

Prof. Helges concluded his instruction on color, gave rules for determining the different kinds of iron ore, and closed by thanking the teachers for the courtesy shown him. On motion, a vote of thanks was tendered to Prof. Helges, for his faithful labors as instructor.

Prof. McCaskey gave the following chemical parts for his experiments; Equal parts Chlorate Potash and Dry White Sugar, place a small portion in the volcano and a drop of sulphuric acid applied will cause it to ignite and burn with a lighted flame, put in a little gun powder and you have an earthquake.

A discussion among teachers on the subject of monthly reports, was then had, after which came the closing address of the County Supt. Rev. J. Edgar pronounced the benediction and the Institute adjourned.
