ROTC Cadets Participate in Orientation Exercises

Twenty-eight ROTC cadets embarked on an orientation trip to Fort Indiantown Gap (FIG) on the afternoon of Friday, April 7. FIG weekend is used to acquaint cadets with Army life and train them not only in things such as land navigation and M-16 rifle firing, but also in leadership. All Penn State campuses with ROTC programs attend this yearly event.

After an eight hour drive, the junior cadets put on their ruck sacks and went to the begin a weekend of tactical training to prepare them for summer camp. The freshman and sophomore cadets got their duffels and were taken to barracks. They put on their Battle Dress Uniforms (BDUs) and went to pick up one Army Meal Ready to Eat (MRE), and get linens to make up their bunks.

The cadets were given classes on night land navigation, the assembly and disassembly of the M-16, and firing techniques for this weapon. Cadets were taken into the field, put into pairs, and given a map and compass. Then they used the land navigation techniques they had been taught to find several points. After they finished they returned to the barracks, made up their bunks and went to bed.

Saturday morning's activities began at 5 am when cadets went outside into the cold morning for Physical Training (PT). After exercising and going on a short run, the cadets returned to their barracks and went to breakfast. The first site the cadets went to that morning was the Rappelling Tower, which was run by members of Behrend's ROTC program. After rappelling demonstrations and instruction on tying a rappell seat, the cadets were sent up the tower to try their courage on both low and high lanes.

After this exciting start to the morning, the cadets were next sent to an urban warfare training site. The cadets were issued M-16's and blank ammunition, then traveled through the site to fight against aggressors in various warfare scenarios. After their MRE lunch, the next stop was the M-16 range where they were given nine live rounds and were taught how to sight a rifle. Then they were given twenty more rounds which they fired at competition silhouette targets. After dinner they were sent to the night tactics site. After a night patrol they came back to rest and clean weapons.

Up early again on Sunday, the cadets got a hot breakfast and went to the helicopter orientation site. The cadets were flown in Huey helicopters on an open door ride to the orienteering site. The cadets were issued maps and given instructions for completing the course.

After this last exercise, the cadets were taken back to the barracks area and finally dismissed. After loading the bus, the cadets, most of them ready for a nap, gladly settled into their seats, and traveled back to Behrend.

On-Campus Protestant Worship Services Begin

On-campus Protestant worship services began on April 2 and will continue through the month of April and into future semesters. Services will be held each Sunday from 3-4 pm in the Reed 117. The services are sponsored by Behrend Campus Ministry.

"We have been working out the details for these services since 1987 fall semester," said Campus Ministry Board President Pastor Ray Sines. "Rev. Ronald Garrett, Pastor of the Messiah Lutheran Church and Campus Ministry Board Treasurer, and I began with a Protestant worship survey to see how many Behrend students would be interested in an on-campus service."

All the Protestant pastors on the Campus Ministry Board have volunteered to conduct the services on a rotational basis. These ministers are Rev. Charles Case, Pastor of Wesleyville Baptist Church; Rev. Ronald Garrett, Pastor of Messiah Lutheran Church (Wesleyville); Rev. Ray Sines, Pastor of the Erie Church of God (Brown Ave.); and Rev. Gerald Schmidt, Pastor of Wesley United Methodist Church.

The Campus Ministry pastors welcome students to participate in the services. Song leaders, singers, musicians, and Scripture readers are needed. Contact anyone in the Campus Ministry office (located in the Student Services office) or leave a message on the answering machine (phone 898-6111).

Behrend Campus Ministry was started by the Messiah Lutheran Church of Wesleyville in 1981 as an evangelical outreach to Behrend students. Student Affairs provided an office where local volunteer pastors could counsel. These volunteer ministers, along with the Dean of Student Affairs and selected faculty and students, organized the Campus Ministry Board. The Board's responsibilities are to provide students with counseling, worship opportunities, transportation to local churches and liturgical and nonliturgical programs.

In the fall of 1983 the Board organized on-campus services for Catholic students. To minister to additional Behrend students, the Board recently organized the on-campus Protestant worship services.

Behrend's Campus Ministry also sponsors an on-campus Roman Catholic service each Saturday evening at 5:30 in the Reed Lecture Hall.
