Lion Ambassadors trying to adopt lions at Erie Zoo

by Dave Berger
The Collegian

Most of us have had some kind of pet in our lifetimes. And, by year's end, Behrend will have three of them.

The Lion Ambassadors are presently in the process of fundraising to adopt three lions at the Erie Zoo in Behrend's name. In order to do this though, they need your help.

Diana Montgomery, president of the Lion Ambassadors, said "We have raised $100 already. The cost to adopt the lions is $250, and we would appreciate any donations made to the 'Lion Fund'."

The Lion Ambassadors are planning to adopt three lions, including a Puma lion, which is on the endangered species list.

"I think it would be a great idea that Behrend would work with the community in adopting these lions in Behrend's name," said Montgomery.

The Ambassadors hope to adopt the lions within the next semester or two. Any questions about the lion adoption program can be directed to Diana Montgomery at 864-6794, or Bonnie Fagan at 898-6159.

New bill could change campus crime reporting administrators, but if you dig you can find inaccuracies."

How does Behrend fare in the crime analysis? The number of assaults and motor vehicle thefts did not change in the last year, while burglaries and larcenies declined. There has been no murder, manslaughter, rape, arson or robberies reported in the last two years.

The total number of part one offenses (crime which includes assaults, burglaries, larceny, and motor vehicle thefts) declined from 86 reported offenses in 1989 to 55 offenses in 1990.

However, in looking at the crime reported in Lawrence Park, there is an increase in the total number of part one offenses from 57 reported in 1989 to 73 reported in 1990.

The public reporting of crime on campus will allow students more information to make wiser choices. If this system goes into effect, names and addresses of students involved in criminal activity on campus will be released to the general public, allowing students to be fully informed of crime on their campus.

Police Report

Police and Safety makes house calls for medical problems

by Jeff Johnson
The Collegian

Police and Safety officers were called to the intramural fields Sunday when a student injured his ankle while playing flag football. The student was transported to Hamot Medical Center by Brookside Fire Company ambulance.

On Monday Police and Safety officers were involved in two separate medical calls. In the student apartments, a student complained of having severe headaches --possibly the result of a neck injury.

Officers also responded to a call from Niagara Hall, where a student complained of chest pains. In both cases, the students were transported to Hamot Medical Center by Brookside Fire Company ambulance.

Harassment Charges Filed

On Tuesday charges were filed against two students for harassment by communications and criminal conspiracy. The students were caught making harassing and annoying phone calls to the room of two other students.

Vending Machine Theft

On Saturday Police and Safety officers were called to investigate an unlocked snack machine in Lawrence Hall. Officers discovered several items were taken from the machine and the coin box had also been emptied. The incident is currently under investigation.
