Police and Safety now dispatched by EECCC

New system to bring faster emergency service to Behrend

by Loretta Russ
The Collegian

This past weekend changes were made in dispatching Police and Safety officers that should improve response time in emergency situations, according to Police and Safety Manager Larry Silvis.

After 10 p.m. weekdays and on weekends calls placed to Police and Safety will go to East Erie County Communications Center (EECCC). EECCC is the primary dispatching center for fire, police and medical services for the eastern portion of Erie County.

"This change will be extremely beneficial for the campus community," said Silvis. "This service will greatly increase response time to emergencies, as well as access to trained personnel."

During the day calls to the Police and Safety office (6101 and 6231) will be answered by the on-duty operator. After 10 p.m. calls on those lines will go

"White people have raped, murdered, plundered, deceived and tricked every race that they have ever come in contact with."

This statement appeared in an Opinion page column which ran in last Tuesday's edition of The Daily Collegian at State College.

Chino Wilson, a black senior journalism major, wrote the column, entitled "African Americans should not trust 'devilish' white people."

The column advocated violence against whites, and suggested that blacks should unite, organize and execute (whites).

Wilson also wrote that "85-90 percent (of white people) ... are devout racists," and went on to list historical offenses against blacks.

Wilson's column, which has gained national attention on radio talk shows, has created quite a stir among University Park students and has caused a reaction

Conference gives students opportunity to sharpen skills

Last Saturday the Student Organization Council (SOC) held its 1992 Spring Leadership Conference. Over 70 students, ranging from new leaders to veteran presidents, were at the conference.

"The theme of the conference," said Lori Royer, president of SOC, "was to motivate student leaders as well as future student leaders."

Workshops at the conference ranged from meeting procedures to handling leader transitions. The retreat was designed to meet the needs of different leaders by offering sessions for new, experienced, Greek leaders and graduating seniors.

One speaker, David Maxwell, assistant dean of students at Allegheny College, spoke about the importance of etiquette on job interviews and how to properly use table utensils.
"The important thing to remember about job interviews," said Maxwell, "is that you are being interviewed from the time you step out of your car to the time you climb back in. People have lost jobs because of an inappropriate comment in an elevator after they thought the interview was over," he said.

A major goal of the conference was to attempt to get more students in the various organizations at Behrend.
