

The Matchbox players' first play is "Next..."

by Jennifer Toubakaris
The Collegian

Have you ever thought about what will happen in your life after college? The Matchbox Players newest production, "Next..." will address all your concerns, anticipations, and thrills of life after you graduate.

"Next..." is not your traditional "run of the mill" play. It consists of various scenes from plays, monologues, and poems that deal with the stages of life a person goes through.

Relationships, marriage, having children, aging, and death are some of the important events that "Next..." touches upon.

Dr. Kathleen Campell directed the cast which includes: Stephen Daniel, Terri Evans, Ericha Hagenbuch, Glenn McCalli, Eric Soder, and Terri Swanson.

The play is approximately one hour long and is being performed at Behrend college's Studio Theater at 8:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 25 and at 1,5, and 8 p.m. Saturday Sept. 26. Tickets are $3 for the general public and $2 for students, faculty, and staff.

Once just wasn't enough: Ric and Brian Butler's triumphant return Friday night at Bruno's.

Ric and Brian Butler to Perform

Back by popular demand! Making their second appearance at Bruno's (Behrend's only on-campus night club) this fall, it's Ric and Brian Butler. The Butler brothers are accoustical guitar players that put on a show you must see.

"This act was designed especially for venues that don't need a large band, yet desire a quality and style second to none," says Mark Lots, the manager of the brothers, "The atmosphere is both sincere and carefully calculated-a style reflective of their personalities on one hand, and a product packaged for sale on the other,".

"The brothers, Ric, 28 and his brother Brian, 26 have been singing together since they were young boys", continues Lots. The brothers lived on a farm as young men. "They learned to drive a tractor before they could read, and piano and voice lessons started soon after", finishes Lots.

Both members of the duo attended college. Ric studied at Cedarville College, his brother, Brian, studied at Edinboro University.

Their music is a combination of works from great artists such as John Mellancamp, Bruce Springsteen, and John Denver. The mixture can provide an air of humor as well as a spectacular show.

Ric and Brian Butler will be performing Friday night at 8:00 pm If you missed their first show, be sure to catch this long delayed encore.

Aries: (Mar. 21-Apr. 19) Your stress will peak when you accidentally run down a sidewalk full of pedestrians in a high speed chase.

Taurus: (Apr. 20-May 20) A nasty cut you get while shaving will become infected with gangrene. An amputation is likely.

Gemini: (May 21-June 21) The new moon is perfect for making resolutions that stick. Cut back on anal intrusion.

Cancer: (June 22-July 22) Swallowing a bottle of little blue pills will bring an end to those nagging financial difficulties.

Leo: (July 23-Aug. 22) A new relationship will have you walking on air, but will come to an abrupt end when you repulse your mate with your incessant nose-picking.

Virgo: (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Ask yourself what you need to feel secure, then blow Vienna sausages in people through sections of garden hose.

Libra: (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Emulate people in the countries that they are the worst on Earth.

Scorpio: (Oct. 24-Nov. 21) Bring friends together this weekend, then bicker with them about unsubstantiated gossip.

Sagittarius: (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) You'll acquire the ability to withstand extremely cold temperatures. Use this new power to fight crime.

Capricorn: (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Ensure your position at the workplace. Urinate on the walls in areas that you consider your territory.

Aquarius: (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) After staring at a video display terminal for too long, you will see a ghostly image of Gavin MacLeod.

Pisces: (Feb. 19-Mar. 20) If your feet tire, ache, pain, burn, itch or perspire excessively from over-exertion, fatigue or stress, then eat them.
