Sex , Lies, and Psychiatry

Gere and Basinger star in Final Analysis

by Victoria Sousa
The Collegian

Suspense, action, sex, confusion- What more could a person want in a movie? If you're looking for a thriller that has more twists and turns than a Rubix Cube, Final Analysis, is for you; now playing on campus as the Student Programming Council's movie of the week.

quickly shifts from his patient, to his patient's sexy, older, married, sister played by Kim Basinger (Batman). One major problem in their relationship, aside from a question of ethics, is Basinger's possessive and abusive gangster husband (Eric Roberts).

Roberts is taken care of soon enough, when he's murdered by Basinger and Gere is framed for it. That's when the criss-cross of

As for the casting, it's difficult to picture Gere as the world's biggest sucker and Basinger as the world's biggest bitch. Once you get past those two obstacles, the characters seem somewhat believable.

Final Analysis is a cross between Basic Instinct and The Grifters. Somewhere among all the sex, lies, and psychiatry the basis of the movie is to figure

"If you're looking for a thriller that has more twists and turns than a Rubix Cube, Final Analysis is for you."

Richard Gere (Pretty Woman) plays a San Francisco psychiatrist treating a disturbed young woman, played by Uma Thurman (Dangerous Liaisons).

Thurman, an incest victim, is plagued by recurring nightmares of a vase of flowers sitting on a table and going up in flames (a text book Freudian dream, that Gere doesn't catch onto until half way through the movie).

The kind doctor's interest sub-plots and ideas start to get a bit ridiculous.

Director Phil Joanou (State of Grace), tries to create a film in the suspense style of the legendary Alfred Hitchcock (including a picturesque lighthouse scene). The problem is, he goes too far trying to make the audience guess what's going to happen next; confusing them with sub-plot on top of sub-plot in the end.

out who finally out-cons who.

If you have any desire to see Final Analysis, see it now for only $1.50 while it's on campus. It's a definite conversation piece on your way out of the theater- if you stay awake that long.

Final Analysis will play in Reed 116 tonight and tomorrow night at 10:30 p.m., Saturday night at midnight, and Sunday night at 9:30 p.m.
