don't skip a beat as far as advertising is concerned."

Prior to the accident Mentch had been working 20 hours a week.

"If needed, an employee from one of the local Erie radio stations, possibly JET-FM, will be asked to oversee station operations. But I doubt it'll come to that. We intend to make Fred proud," said Engelleiter, Assistant Student Station Manager.

Although Anzivino is expected to be sidelined for the remainder of the semester, he hopes to continue some of his responsibilities as Station Manager, once he is discharged from the hospital. Via a modem, Anzivino will be able to do some of his paperwork and communicate with the staff at WPSE.

Following a visit to St. Vincent's, Pellegrino said "I went to see Fred at the hospital and he was telling jokes as usual." Some things never change.

interested in what it means to be a woman."

George, quoting Webster's Dictionary, said, "It's someone who believes in equality between the sexes."

Equality of the sexes was a generally agreed upon definition of feminism; the desire for equality.

"There will be equality between the sexes when women can walk their dogs at night; when women can walk to the parking lot and feel safe; and when women can walk the streets without being whistled at," said George.

The idea of lesbianism "goes against the traditional idea of women," said Davis.

"Lesbians are people you fear; they're women who are aggressive; they are strong, and this is something men fear in women," said someone from the audience.

The topic strayed to male/female relationships between the African-American population, when one man asked, "what do you women want?"

Some of the closing comments addressed what still needs to be done to bring about equality between the sexes.

The comments, following, were offered in quick succession. They are given here now without the speakers' names because this reporter lost track of who said what as people rushed to speak.

"To understand women, we should know the ethnic history of women."

"Women should not have lines drawn as to what they can or can't do with their lives."

"Everyone needs to support women, not just women," said Angie Johnson, last year's ABC President.

"Men should be involved in raising the family...and cooking,"

Johnson further stated, "Radical feminism allows for a woman to be with a man as long as she doesn't lose her identity."

Kei Fuller said, "the key is, both men and women should try to live together and co-exist with each other."

Marie Boyer, Vice President of the Multi-Cultural Council contributed to this article.
