Jim's Journal

by Jim

Today when I got to the copy store, Hal was talking to some police officers.

I went in back to punch in and found out from Julie that the copy store got robbed the night before.

"They stole some paper and messed up Hal's office," she said.

I looked at Hal and he was answering "no" and "not really" to a bunch of the officers' questions.

Today at the copy store, Hal was telling us what he thought of the copy store robbery.

"The police said it might've been a disgruntled former employee," he said, "but I doubt that."

Then Dan said, "They obviously tore up your office looking for money."

Then Joel looked at Dan and said, "Duh."
