SPRING BREAK '93

Where we are going and where we would like to be!

by Danette Parrett Features Editor of campus will begin a week of Greece. rest and relaxation. March 5-14 is the infamous Spring Break that and go diving from the cliffs." has been anticipated by students and professors since the beginning in mind. of the semester.

So, where will everybody be going? What will everyone be doing?

In talking to the students at Behrend, it is easy to see that heading for the sun is one of the popular plans.

"I'm going to Panama [City] with all my friends," said Jonelle Curtis, a fourth semester engineering major.

Travelling with friends seems to be a familiar theme.

Dave Hardnock, a second semester accounting major, says that he's going to Panama City because "all my fraternity brothers are going."

Other students have made plans in areas other than Florida.

Christy Dove, a second semester special education major, is heading for the Virgin Islands.

"I decided to go to the Virgin Islands because my parents wanted me to go with them," Dove said.

Many students are going to Panama City for Spring Break. This may have to do with SGA offering a package to go to Panama.

The Spring Break Committee, which consists of Eric Pine, Michelle Repman, and Gwen Pellam, has worked with Travel semester communication major is Behrend students.

The rates range from $174-$194. Pine, the committee head, feels this is a good price range for such a trip.

"This is the cheapest trip offered. You are not going to find a better Ft. Lauderdale. "

Although Panama may be more go to Hawaii. lenient. Daytona also seems to be a popular place to go.

Darlene Stremic, an eighth semester business, liberal arts and science major, is travelling to Daytona.

"I have always wanted to go to Daytona," she says. However, she says for Spring Break she'd be happy just going "anywhere but semester communication major, Eric!"

Other students haven't been as lucky to go to warmer climates, they have opted to go home for coral reefs." break.

home because she couldn't find nothing else to do."

enough people to go to Panama City with her. If Joseph did have the opportunity and the money to Beginning March 5 the majority go on vacation, she would head for

"I would love to go to Greece

Others have more prudent plans

Sarah Melchiorre, a second because "it is so great!"

Sousa thinks that Florida is definitely the hot spot this year. She attributes it's popularity to the fact that "it's warm and there isn't three feet of snow!" Sousa says she wouldn't head for the sun, but rather head for Europe. She would like to go on Spring Break in Europe plainly home for her means retiring to the of us." beaches of Virginia. She says, "I To get some rest and relaxation, heading for Ocean City."

Others have made the best of dream vacation as "me with Kathy going home. Catherine Kunkel, a Ireland and Cindy Crawford on the fourth semester history/pre-law shores of Waikiki, while my major, is going home; but going photography staff is taking photos am going to the beach and then some students don't have to travel far. Pam Mesta, a fourth semester Lack of funds seems to be the communication major, is going major reason students aren't going home to Pittsburgh to "get away."

> Mesta thinks the hot spot this year will be St. Padre Island in Texas.

Jonelle Curtis agrees, "The last couple of years, [travel] to St. Padre has been getting bigger."

Some people have more cconomical plans. Greg Stickle, a second semester accounting major, plans on camping in Tionesta to get some "rest and relaxation." Stickle would also like to travel to Australia someday because of "the weather and the different way of life."

Although students have their own opinions of the hot spots. Jill Pacy from Broz Travel 'n' Trips says that one of the most popular packages she's sold is to Orlando.

She also offers this advice to students. "Have your plans set far in advance and know exactly how much money you want to spend."

Carla Wilson, an agent from Capabianca Travel, agrees with Pacy to have everything planned. "Get everything arranged--airfare, hotel accommodations, transportation, etc."

Tina Oleski from Atlas Travel Service has more practical advice to offer. She says, "Be street smart. Don't take any chances. Getting there is the easy part."

Kristle Guldner/ Photographer

No more snow: Beginning Friday many students are leaving the snow behind and heading south for Spring Break.

and outback are so awesome!"

graphic design major, also plans the man of her dreams. on going home for break to work deal. It's the best place to go right and earn some money. Wilson now. It's the most popular and a agrees that Greece would be a great lot more lenient than Daytona or place to go for a spring break vacation. She also would like to

> "I have already been [to Hawaii] and it is wonderful. The beaches are so beautiful and clean. You can lie on the beach and smell the exotic flowers.'

> Wanting to travel to Australia seems to be a common trend, as Jen Toubakaris, a second also thinks that Australia would be a great place to go.

"I'd like to go and see all the Dylan Sousa, a second semester Kelly Joseph, a second semester film and video major, is going biology major, has decided to go home simply "because there is Lori Dyer, a sixth semester south. Associates to offer special rates to going home "to find a summer communication major, has plans Arnel Balcita, a seventh semester job." Melchiorre would rather to "stay home and study." Her communication major, agrees that travel to Australia if she had the major reason for not going on travelling would be "too opportunity because "the nature vacation is because she can't afford expensive." Balcita is going it. If Dyer could afford it, she home to work, so he can afford the Chris Wilson, a second semester would head for the Caribbean with trip sometime in the future.

Until then, Balcita sees his Turn in a strip of negatives (black & white or color) of your Spring Break by 3/17/93 & see one of your photos in the March 18th issue of The Collegian!!! Stop by the Collegian office & ask for Arnel or dial ext. 6488 for more details.