The Gossip Hoe

Digging the Campus Dirt

by Roxy Foxhole
Semiannual Columnist

It's time again for Behrend's favorite staff writer -- me, Roxy Foxhole -- to disclose the current rumor dirt circulating around the campus.

I know you all are faithfully sitting on the edges of your seats anticipating the trash! Okay, okay -- I won't keep you in suspense for a single moment more. Here's what we heard this week:

Weird love triangle collapses as Trish Thibodo, Jacquie Wade, and Chris Rizzo erupt into a feud. Gerald Spates told us that Ms. Wade began shrieking when she found out that Rizzo is actually a necrophiliac! This explains his sick need for Thibodo and Wade to take ice cold showers and lay motionless beside him.

Matt Cissne maintains that he is not, and never was a woman. Alpha Sigma Alpha sister Leah Daw claims otherwise. Our sources discovered that the entire AEA sorority is spiteful toward Cissne. Upon deeper investigation, it was revealed that he actually was female! Furthermore, he is a former AEA sister! Following his sex change, Mr. Cissne pledged the Delta Chi fraternity, and continues his life as a man.

Inside connections report that bookstore manager Robert MacDonald was recently contacted by the McDonald's corporation, who is pressing charges against him. The Forbes 500 company claims that Mr. MacDonald has deliberately stolen the name of their official mascot: Ronald McDonald. A company spokesman commented that "...although Mr. MacDonald's name is not the same, he had vicious intentions. We intend to make him pay for this heinous crime."

Rumor has it that campus Dean and Provost Dr. John Lilley was sighted at Jimmy Z's Time Out Tavern with sidekick Dr. Chris Reber, Dean of Student Affairs. The drunken pair was arrested for exposing their guez to a group of passing nuns. So far, no one has posted bail.

Sources say that Student Activities office personnel David Shields, Teryl Anderson, and Diana Melinowski are involved in a bizarre Erie-based cult. The cult allegedly celebrates the consumption of raw meat, speaking in tongues, and autoeroticism. Translating for Mr. Anderson (who was in a flurried session of speaking in tongues), Shields said: "I want a big piece of beef." Whatever.

Alicia Hartman is what?! Is dead! But not only that, she was pregnant at the time! The father was reportedly either Gary Johnson or Arnel Balcita. All three of this naughty bunch are Collegian staff members. Before her untimely death, Ms. Hartman was overheard declaring that the baby would be named Garnet. When asked who she thought the father was she replied, "It's a mystery to me."

Eye witnesses claim that Sister Anna Mae, campus clergy woman, was seen at the adult bookstore on State Street. An undercover Gossip Hoe reporter informed us that she was in some sort of stupor. Her eyes were apparently glazed over, she was foaming at the mouth, and she continuously fed quarters into the peep booths.

Anonymous informants tell us that staff psychologist Sue Daley beats the patients. "I like to treat my clients the old fashioned way," announced Daley while tapping a billy club on her thigh. A traitorous insider said that some of her other "instruments of affirmation include a hammer, a stapler, plastic vomit, a whip, and a wire hanger that was purportedly used in a back-alley abortion clinic."

Did somebody say sperm bank? Yes! The newly inducted students of Lambda Sigma are coordinating a sperm drive in the Reed lobby tomorrow from 12-2:00pm. Students planning on donating are encouraged to bring a friend or relative. Donors must have a minimum GPA of 3.2.

Well, that's it for this week. Be sure to pass these factual accounts on to every living soul you talk to.

Until next time, keep that rumor mill turning, and that gossip hoe digging!
