among others.

In Scenario C, the enhancement section, the Computer Center will receive a budget increase; a classroom technology/equipment fund, which will allow the classes to keep up-to-date with recent instructional technology; and the coaching staffs of the various collegiate teams will be augmented.

Although the possibility is that the University will initiate the full 7.5% cut, the Behrend Futures Committee is confident that only a 2.5% cut will occur.

A contingency plan has been made for just that occasion. Cuts will primarily be made in support areas and the bus service; the pool will be closed, the radio station will become self-sustaining, and University staff assistant positions will undergo changes.

environment. He felt there should be an Earth Day every day.

The red maple tree that was planted during the Earth Day ceremony is located in the triangular area between the upper and lower Reed parking lots. There is a plaque by the tree which reads, "Dedicated to the Preservation of all life, Campus Ministry."

The ultimate goal of Earth Day was to remind people that they had a responsibility to preserve all life. Many people who attended the Earth Day festivities felt the celebration was meaningful, and it helped them to better see their obligation to the environment and to the earth.

"I felt that we accomplished our goal in reminding our students, faculty and staff of their responsibility to preserve all forms of life," said Sue Anderson, Coordinator of Protestant Campus Ministry.

Driving Under the Influence

On Saturday, April 24, a student was seen driving across the lawn in the Residence Hall area. When stopped, it was noticed that the student had been drinking alcoholic beverages. He was arrested for driving under the influence and was taken to North East for an intoxilizer test. He was then returned to the Police and Safety Office where he was fingerprinted, photographed, and then released to the duty resident assistant. He was charged with driving under the influence, careless driving, and underage drinking.

Criminal Mischief

On Monday, April 26, a student reported to Police and Safety that his vehicle had been keyed while parked on campus. This incident is under investigation.

Retraction

An error needs to be corrected that occurred in the April 22nd issue of the Collegian. It was stated in the "Earth Day '93 Events" article that Steve Cash had an artificial heart. He indeed only underwent a heart transplant, and at no time lived with an artificial heart.
