

Health Care in Stable Condition

by Kristin Wasilewski
Collegian Staff

The Health and Wellness Center has been moved from its previous location on Jordan Road to the Carriage House.

If you are a freshman, you may have noticed them moving into the new building during your orientation programs on Saturday, August 25. They are now settled in and organized.

Patricia Pasky McMahon, the nurse practitioner at the center, believes the new location has already begun to bring in a greater number of students and will continue to because "this building is more central and more accessible to both commuters and residents."

She also said that "the new building itself should also be more efficient than the old building because it is set up more like a regular health practice."

This new building has individual examination rooms and offers more privacy for the students.

There are also offices for the staff, a conference room, and a screening room for HIV testing.

Not only has the location been changed, but there are also some new policies at the center this semester.

First of all, the physician which comes in every Wednesday and Thursday now charges $5 for every visit. There was no fee for visiting the doctor last year. A fee was implemented to make up for some budget cuts. Students can see the physician with either an appointment or just by walking in, but appointments are taken care of first.

There is now a doctoral candidate who comes in 20 hours a week, replacing the graduate student who came in last year.

Last, they have extended the gynecological services to all day Friday due to an increased demand.

Are there really any parking problems at Behrend?

by April Bogdanski
Collegian Staff

Since classes began nearly three weeks ago, students have been parking on the grass all around campus, but especially near the lower parking lot between Reed and the new Academic Complex.

Police and Safety gave a two-week leniency before starting to ticket the vehicles that were parked on the grass. They started ticketing on Thursday, September 9. Before Thursday, they had been verbally warning people not to park on the grass.

"The issue is whether they (students) will park in the back and walk," said Larry Silvis, manager of Police and Safety.

He said that there is an abundant amount of parking behind the Hammermill Building, but students just do not want to walk.

The Health and Wellness Center's relocation to the Carriage House made new parking space available.

Students may now park in the old center's parking lot, located on Jordan Road next to Police and Safety. This lot is located close to the new Academic Complex.

Police and Safety were not sure if there was a parking problem. They went out on September 9 and found about 60 empty spaces behind Hammermill and 20 spaces in the lot by Police and Safety.

They did the same on Friday, September 10 and found at least 40 spaces available, particularly in the Hammermill lot.

"The heaviest days for traffic are Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays," Silvis continued. "Parking seems to be more available on Tuesdays and Thursdays."

After Police and Safety took a parking count, the major issue was that there are spaces open where students don't want to park, that being behind Hammermill.

Police and Safety will continue to ticket students who are parking on the grass.

All-U-Day

by Reagan Warner
Collegian Staff

Every year, Penn State students are offered a chance to participate in All-U-Day.

All-U-Day is the one time of the year that all of the campuses are invited to University Park for a football game.

This year's game is against Rutgers University and will be held on Saturday, September 25.

There will be 80 Behrend students, faculty, and staff who will be attending the event.

There is also an All-U-Day banner contest. Every campus brings its own banner which is displayed throughout the game. During half time, the top three banners are given awards.

The SGA is in charge of obtaining the tickets and selling them.

SGA president Joe Mycka said All-U-Day is a great chance for students at commonwealth campuses to see University Park.

"It's an excellent opportunity to go to State College, enjoy the football game, and interact with similar students from Penn State campuses."

TAKE THE KEYS.
CALL A CAB.
TAKE A STAND.

FRIENDS DON'T LET FRIENDS DRIVE DRUNK

Join The Collegian call 898-6488 or stop in the office. We are located in the Reed Building across from the Student Government Suite. You can earn credits and gain valuable experience.

IS IT A COLD OR THE FLU

SYMPTOMS	Possible complications		Prevention
	COLD	FLU	COLD: None	FLU: Annual vaccination
Fever	Rare	Characteristic, high (102-104° F); lasts three to four days
Headache	Rare	Prominent
General aches and pains	Slight	Usual, often severe
Fatigue, weakness	Quite mild	Can last two to three weeks
Prostration (extreme exhaustion)	Never	Early and prominent
Stuffy nose	Common	Sometimes
Sneezing	Usual	Sometimes
Sore throat	Common	Sometimes
Chest discomfort, cough	Mild to moderate, hacking cough	Common, can become severe

SOURCE: National Institutes of Health, Grand Forks (N.D.) Herald

A Public Service of This Publication

Earth Share