THE FREE LANCE is published on or about the fifteenth of each month from October to June, inclusive, by a Board of Editors elected from the three upper classes of The Pennsylvania State College. Its aim is to encourage literary work in College, and to give a faithful representation of College life. Contributions of all kinds are, therefore, earnestly solicited from the Students and Alumni.

The subscription price, for one volume of nine numbers, is $1.00; single copies, 15 cents. The LANCE will be sent regularly to all old subscribers and new students unless ordered to discontinue.

Address all contributions to Editor of FREE LANCE; all business communications to E. R. NORRIS, Business Manager, State College, Penn'a.

Editorial.

With this issue of the FREE LANCE, a change in the editorial staff will be noticed. A new editor and two associates have been elected to fill the vacancies which have occurred since our last issue. As is the case in all changes of membership in a board, their first work is somewhat handicapped by being placed in new environment and the lack of a wide experience.

The editor, in the assumption of his duties, desires to continue the successful effort made last year to revive our journal from the obscurity which threatened it in its recent history. After thoughtful consideration on the part of the staff, we have decided to change the policy of the LANCE. Heretofore, literary matter was intended to be the predomi-
