

NORTHFIELD STUDENT CONFERENCE

Annual Student Conference Will be Held at Northfield June 24 to July 3, 1910.

More and more of the best men the world over are being attracted by the activities of the voluntary religious organizations of collegemen. Every year from Europe and the East we have reports of an increasing usefulness to the college and to students. The aim is to treat all subjects from the student viewpoint. Especially are we here concerned with the central things for which the the Student Christian Association stands and the methods that experience has shown are the most satisfactory in promoting these great aims; but in this comprehensive view there is presented a challenge that no fair minded man who knows that service in the highest realms of life ought to be the aim of all, can pass by without the most careful profitable and thoroughly enjoyable.

Interesting classes, meaty discussions, inspiring addresses, wholesome companionship, spirited athletics, all these will be found in full measure.

The first delegation from State several years ago comprised three men and this number has steadily increased until last year our representation totalled twenty-eight. We expect no less than fifty students to attend the conference this summer and with this number the world of this banding together of men of serious Christian purpose. No activity of these organizations has proved more useful in the carrying forward of the ideals that all the truest and best of educated men agree are the highest than the summer Conference where, in good fellowship and open-hearted and open-minded sympathy, one finds the conditions under which the most important things of life can be discussed.

These conferences belong to the consideration. It is no small thing to be lightly set aside that hundreds of the very strongest men of the colleges of America believe they have found the way to the truest service.

The officers and leaders of the Christian Association work should therefore especially welcome this opportunity to see what is going on in other colleges. Beyond this, it is safe to say that any man who has the welfare of his college at heart will find the time spent here highly State's showing will be a most creditable one.
