College Spirit. A term which one often hears, yet which one would find hard to define, on account of its various phases of meaning, is "College Spirit." We have often heard Penn State praised for this college spirit of its students, and we may understand this praise; yet just what does the expression mean?

Perhaps the phase usually considered is to stand by the college athletic teams, and cheer them on, whether in victory or defeat. However, this is probably one of the lesser elements of the term as a whole. It is to the college what patriotism is to a nation: it is an appreciation, a pride, a love, perhaps, for one's College. The institution is regarded by the student as the best, and greatest in the world—he is ever ready to promote and defend its name; he respects its laws, its customs, and everything connected with it. He has faith and hope in its future; he believes that even greater advancement is being made along the road of improvement.

Yet this feeling is, as a rule, not boisterous, but quiet and dignified. Except, of course, when cheering a college team, a man having true college spirit does not persist in noisily placing his college far above others, even though he has, and should have, a strong conviction that it is the finest in the world. He realizes that there are other great institutions of learning, and he respects them accordingly.

Finally, college spirit is not sectional. To be sure, it permits a man to be proud of his being in a certain class, a certain department, or even from a certain "prep" school; yet still stronger than all these must be his pride in his college.

The New Business Manager. E. A. James, '12, has recently been elected to conduct the business management of the paper for next year. By his efforts during the past he has shown his ability to carry on the work, and we have no fear for his success in the new position. Upon the retirement of Mr. Preston the staff wishes to extend their thanks and at the same time to congratulate him for the eminently satisfactory way in which he has fulfilled his duties during the year.

Associated Editors. J. B. Hogarth and F. C. Dose, of the freshman class, have been elected as associate editors, and in welcoming them to the position, we wish them a successful enjoyment of their duties.

We In adding a new department to our columns it is hoped that we may, by introducing facts and impressions gathered about college, increase the local interest of the paper. The suggestion, which came from one of our faculty friends, appears to be a good one, and we shall endeavor to carry it out in a successful manner.

The College Appropriation. The Maintenance bill for the college as it passed the senate and house carries $800,000. It is believed that the governor will approve the entire amount. This total is $260,000 more than the college received two years ago. The Appropriations committee rewrote the bill so as to make four items as follows:

For the School of Agriculture, $225,000; for all the rest of the college, $350,000; for paying old debt, $200,000; for a sewage disposal plant, $25,000. Total, $800,000.

Forestry Notes. In addition to the nine men who have already left for work in the Appalachians this summer, three more men—Jaenicke, Collins, and Cornman—will leave in a few days. The investigative work is now being carried on largely by Penn State men, although later in the season, others will probably enter the service.

Mr. E. A. Sterling, forester for the Pennsylvania Railroad company, was here on Thursday to arrange for taking several students for work during the summer in the forest nursery and in several logging operations being carried on by the railroad company.

Tentative arrangements have been made through Mr. Sterling for a working plan, by the Forestry department, for 18,000 acres of timberland in northeastern Pennsylvania. The work will be done during the summer, and several students will be employed in the field work. After the plan is completed the owner of the tract will employ a trained forester to carry out the system. The tract is one of a series of large holdings in that part of the state, and the owner expects to continue the work on the rest of the area.

During the present week, the department will put out a windbreak along the north edge of the athletic grounds. It will consist of White Pine and Carolina Poplar. The latter is a very rapid grower, and will be used for immediate effects, then removed as soon as the pine is large enough to afford protection against severe winds.

R. C. Harlow will have charge of the forest nursery and woodlots during the summer.

Seniors Defeat Freshmen. The Seniors defeated the Freshmen by the score of 6-2 in a game which was characterized by hard hitting. Davis '11, deserves credit for his great catch near second base which resulted in a double play.

Three base hit, McNeal. Two base hits Porter, Duncan, Dondero. Struck out: By Lentz 5, by Duncan 6. Base on balls off Lentz 1, off Duncan 4. Hit by pitched ball, Diehl, Davis, Dondero, Graham. Umpire Spangler.
