'King' Loses Pants, Crown At Holy Cross Pep Rally

By PAT VARGO

The Nittany Lion dethroned King Holy Cross, who lost his pants when a gift "victory candle" exploded at last night's Penn State-Holy Cross pep rally in front of Old Main.

WDFM to Broadcast Second Opera Program

Richard Wagner's opera "Tristan and Isolde" will be broadcast by WDFM the student radio station at 7 p.m. tomorrow.

The program will be the second in a monthly series which are being selected by G. William Henninger, professor of music.

For December and January, Henninger has selected the second fourth operas of Wagner's Ring Series. "Die Walkure" will be broadcast December 13 and "Götterdämmerung" on January 17.

proclaiming: "Lion Will Reign at Holy Cross Game."

Assistant Line Coach Jim O'Hara and tackle Andy Stynchula addressed the crowd of about 400 students who attended the rally. O'Hara commended the student body on the spirit shown so far this season and said he hopes it will carry over into future years when the gridgers will be playing on the new Beaver Field, which will be opened next year.

He added that contrary to the Holy Cross point of view, State is not a "let down" team, and tomorrow's victory will be an added

Diem Hits Numbering Auto Spaces

By CAROL BLAKESLEE

Albert E. Diem, vice president for business administration, said yesterday there was no need for parking spaces to be numbered.

Commenting on the Student Encampment report approved by the SGA Assembly Thursday which suggested this, Diem said there is usually a "turn over" in each parking lot and there should be plenty of spaces for every student right away.

He added that if all students would park properly instead of taking up more than one space as often happens, there would be more places to park.

This type of parking may become a traffic violation, Diem added.

Further, Diem said, it would cost money to paint and re-paint the spaces and to get the added enforcement which would be necessary. This would mean that parking fees would have to be increased further, and "I'm trying to keep them down," he said.

Diem also said he didn't believe that more permits are being issued for an area than there are spaces in that area, as Harold Sandstrom remarked when he gave his encampment report to the Assembly Thursday night.

If this is true, he said, "then one of my instructions is being violated." Diem said he believes a student who purchases a permit for a parking space is entitled to that space "24 hours a day, seven days a week."

On the suggestion that there be parking lots with overflow availability for faculty use, Diem said this is already being done, since faculty lots are now over-allocated about 22 per cent.

Diem also said that another of the report's suggestions was already in existence. The report asked that floating permits be available for cars in a car pool. According to Diem, one permit may now be purchased for all cars in a pool, although only one car in the pool is allowed on campus at a time.

a cold, inanimate object, but what warm and thrilling stories it could tell if it had the power of speech.

It would speak of the day Pete Mauthe, Larry Vorhis, Dex Very, Heff Hirshman and their cohorts thrilled the home fans by tying Jim Thorpe and his band of pigskin-playing Indians from Carlisle in 1909. And the day 34,000 fans bulged its confines to witness the Syracuse game last weekend.

It would relate tales of the 1912 Lion team that amassed 285 points and allowed only 6 while crushing eight grid opponents. And the unbeaten, untied 1947 club that ranked in the nation's top 10 list and went on to tie Doak Walker and SMU in the Cotton Bowl.

It could boast of the total record of 183 wins, 34 defeats, and 11 ties that its Nittany teams have compiled on its turf, and the 23 Lion squads that emerged from the fall campaign unscathed on its friendly soil.

It would recall mournfully the first loss it saw Penn State suffer at the hand of Notre Dame in 1913 but would be quick to point out the 29 consecutive triumphs the Nittanies registered from 1919 to 1924.

It would name with pride the All-Americans, whose performances it embraced — "Mother," Dunn, Bob Higgins, Charley Way, Glenn Killinger, Joe Bedenk, Leon Gajecki, Steve Suhey, Sam Tamburo and Sam Valentine.

It would reminisce about the way it started as wooden bleachers, holding 500 fans in 1909, became a steel structure capable of seating 14,000 in 1931 and finally reached its present 27,500 capacity with the addition of the northern section closing the horseshoe in 1948.

And after recounting its history, it would tell you that of which it is proudest, the fact that though it is passing from its present site near the heart of campus, it will be reincarnated on northeast campus where it will grow to a capacity of 43,500 and continue to serve for the "Glory of Old State."

Lions, HC Play In Beaver Field Finale

By SANDY PADWE
Collegian Sports Editor

A golden era in Penn State football history comes to a close today when the Nittany Lions and Holy Cross meet on Beaver Field at 1:30.

The State-Holy Cross battle will be the last played on 50-year-old Beaver Field, scene of many great ball games.

Monday morning, workmen will begin dismantling the steel horseshoe for removal to a site in the northeast section of the campus where a new stadium seating 43,500 will stand.

An estimated crowd of 24,000 is expected to be on hand today for the Beaver Field farewell, which pits two once beaten squads against each other.

Both the Lions and Holy Cross have lost only to Syracuse. The Lions lost to the Orangemen last week, 20-18, in what many people call the most exciting game ever played here. Syracuse dumped Holy Cross, 42-6, earlier in the campaign.

The defense minded Crusaders have registered their six wins over Dartmouth, Villanova, Dayton, Columbia, Colgate and Boston University.

In those wins, Holy Cross held the opposition to an average of 60 yards rushing per game and the Crusaders rank as the sixth best defensive team in the nation.

Penn State also has beaten Colgate and Boston University. In addition the Lions hold wins over Missouri, V.M.I., Army, Illinois, and West Virginia.

Ten seniors, including All-American quarterback candidate Richie Lucas will be making their final home appearance this afternoon.

Tackles Charley Janerette, Tom Mulraney, and Andy Stynchula will be bowing out along with end Norm Neff and guards Frank Korbini, Bud Kohlhaas and Sam Stelatella.

Williams to Speak At Encampment

The Committee on Inter-Religious Affairs will sponsor an encampment at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Civil Engineering Cabin.

Representatives from campus religious clubs will attend the meeting, and the Rev. Preston Williams, acting University chaplain, will deliver the keynote address.

Moroccans Hit by Oil Paralysis

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — About 10,000 Moroccans have suffered partial paralysis after using cooking oil adulterated with a machine oil from surplus U.S. supplies, the Moroccan Health Ministry announced yesterday.

The situation has been officially proclaimed a national calamity, barely a month before President Eisenhower arrives here for a visit.

Twenty-seven Moroccan merchants have been arrested, charged with selling adulterated olive and peanut oils during a Moslem festival in September. They are liable to a death sentence under an emergency law proclaimed last week.

The oil used in the mixture is described as a mineral-type sold as machine oil from U.S. Air Force surpluses at Nouasseur, near Casablanca.

The oil is intended for use in flushing airplane engines. It is about the color of olive oil.

No legal action was planned against the Air Force.

The Air Force, however, is sending four truckloads of food, clothing and medicine for distribution among the victims at Meknes, where the outbreak was first noted. The Moroccan government has appropriated funds for relief. No cure has been found.

No new cases have been reported in the last four days. Strict controls and a publicity campaign have turned up about 800 tons of U.S. oil.

Glee Club Gives Concert

The Air Force Glee Club Ensemble gave its first concert of the season this week to the Berwick Kiwanis Club.

Cadet Maj. Robert N. Davis directed the ensemble.

Beaver Field Tells History

By JOHNNY BLACK

Assistant Sports Editor

Remember the three touchdown gallops of "Lighthorse Harry" Wilson that spelled defeat for a heavily favored Navy team in 1923? Or the after the whistle scoring romp of Yutz Diedrich to salvage a 6-3 victory over Lafayette in 1929? Or the maneuvers of the "Masked Marvel," Johnny Roepke, in the late '20's?

For half a century Beaver Field has been the site of memorable performances by Nittany Lion gridiron greats. And soon Beaver Field will join these performances as just another niche in the mind of the loyal Penn State alumn.

Today's game with Holy Cross, the 228th on this gridiron, signals the end of a 50-year era and the action packed epoch of Beaver Field will enter the annals of pigskin history. Grey steel and concrete form

Frosh Open Houses Set for Tomorrow

The Interfraternity Council will hold an open house for freshmen from 2 to 5 p.m. tomorrow with fraternities north of Beaver Ave., on W. College Ave., and on campus participating.

According to Donald Orr, IFC rushing chairman, the fraternities which will be open are: Beaver House, Pi Sigma Upsilon, Pi Lambda Phi, Phi Gamma Delta, Alpha Zeta, Sigma Nu, Sigma Chi, Phi Delta Theta, Beta Theta Pi, Alpha Phi Delta, Kappa Alpha Psi and Delta Theta Sigma.

This is the fourth open house to be held by the IFC this semester. Freshmen are permitted in fraternity houses only at these times unless by special permission of the dean of men.

According to Orr, attendance at the open houses has been improving. During the last held Nov. 1, the average number of men visiting each fraternity was 60 to 65.

Richard Moyer, Junior Interfraternity Council president, has announced that a meeting of the Jr. IFC will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the HUB assembly room.

There will be a special discussion of "social graces applied to fraternities" and a panel of five housemothers to discuss various fraternity social problems.

According to Arthur Miltenberger, Jr. IFC adviser and member at large of the IFC executive committee, the meeting is open to all interested pledges.

4 Women Debators To Attend Tourney

Four members of the Women's Debate Squad will attend an intercollegiate tournament this weekend at St. Joseph's College in Philadelphia.

The proposition that will be debated is, "Resolved, that Congress should be given the power to reverse decisions of the Supreme Court"

Those attending are Joan Kemp and Lurene Jochem, representing the affirmative side, and Shelia Cohen and Jacqueline Leavitt, on the negative side.
