Bud Dudley and George Kerrigan, the two wandering promoters of Philadelphia's latest production—the Liberty Bowl, wound up in State College yesterday for a "business men's chat" with University President Eric A. Walker and Athletic Director Ernest B. McCoy.

And after the hour-long closed-door meeting, everything remained the same. The Lions still had the Liberty Bowl bid and no acceptance or rejection had been declared.

The meeting was held to discuss State's possible participation in the Liberty Bowl game to be COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Col. George Simler, director of athletics at the Air Force Academy, said yesterday the Falcons have received a feeler about playing in the Liberty Bowl in Philadelphia Dec. 19.

"The game follows our exam week, so the likelihood of our accepting is rather remote," Simler said.

played in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium Dec. 19. The Lions received the invitation following their 46-0 win over Holy Cross Saturday.

A joint statement released by Dudley and McCoy said: "The meeting was purely exploratory and was designed to fill in President Walker on the details of the game."

Both McCoy and Dudley stated that no decision had been reached and that President Walker had made no commitments on behalf of the University.

However, they said that Walker asked the Liberty Bowl committee for more time to consider the matter with other University officials.

The Associated Press reported late last night that Walker (Continued on page six)

By SUSIE LINKROOM

"Entertainment is merely a distraction for modern-day audiences" according to Hal Holbrook, portrayal of Mark Twain.

Holbrook feels that the field of entertainment is available to so many people, that audiences do not enjoy it as much as

Thespian's to Produce 'Kiss Me Kate' Comedy

Thespians will produce "Kiss Me Kate," for their spring show next semester. The show will run in Schwab Auditorium March 31 through April 1.

Thespians produce two shows each semester. In the past the fall show is always an original review. The spring production is a Broadway show.

they used to before the media of television and motion pictures. Instead they watch a performance with the attitude "Just show me what you can do," said Holbrook.

He stated that college audiences, however, are better-than-average audiences. "Young people are always looking for new things, always seeking — and it's a damn good thing." "College students are open-minded — they emit emotional and intelligent responses to performances," he said.

Holbrook began his career appearing before high school and college students.

Holbrook worked on television for five years but prefers working on the stage. He said the lack of an audience in that medium is bad for the performer. He must feel the empathy of the audience — "it is half the performance."

Holbrook will give no advice to "aspiring young artists." He said that "advice for some people won't go for others" and people must develop their own talents.

When asked why he did not announce the selections he would read, Holbrook replied that he (Continued on page three)

The magazine will be published in the spring and the deadline for manuscripts is set for February.

Extreme Cold Expected Today

Today should be the coldest day ever observed so early in the season with temperatures ranging from a low of 10 degrees to a high of only 25 degrees.

A bitter cold blast of arctic air surged into this area yesterday accompanied by strong winds, a few snow flurries and a rapid drop in temperature.

The waning fall sun was no match for the biting cold north-west wind and temperatures fell at a steady rate all afternoon. By sundown the mercury stood at 23 degrees.

This rapid fall in temperature was expected to continue until a record breaking 10 degrees was reached around dawn today.

The brisk wind and possibly a few snow flurries may combine with partly cloudy skies to make today feel even colder than the very low thermometer readings indicate.

2000 Student Tickets Remain for Symphony

Less than 2000 student tickets remain for the Pittsburgh Symphony to be held at 8 p.m. Sunday in Recreation Hall.

Non-student tickets go on sale at 9 a.m. today at the Hetzel Union desk. They will cost $1.25. Students can buy no more than four tickets each.

William Steinberg will conduct the 89-piece orchestra.

Line Coach Will Speak At Pep Rally

Senior members of the Lion football team will be introduced by David Williams, the team's head manager, at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the "Beat Pitt" pep rally to be held behind the balcony of the Hetzel Union Building.

Line coach Sevor "Tor" Torretti will be the main speaker at the rally.

The cheerleaders led by Larry Buck, head cheerleader, and the Air Force ROTC Band will parade around the campus starting at 7 p.m. from Carnegie, reaching the HUB at 7:30 p.m. for the rally.

Richard Haber, junior in liberal arts from Bethlehem, will act as master of ceremonies.

Larry Buck, head cheerleader, said that originally a pep dance had also been scheduled for Thursday night.

However, the dance could not be arranged because the HUB ballroom is being used for a banquet and Recreation Hall is unavailable because of the intramural basketball games.

Mil Ball Contest To Close Friday

Coeds who wish to enter the Military Ball Queen contest must submit their photographs at the Hetzel Union desk by Friday.

All photos should be 5x7 inches or larger and must contain the name, address and phone number of the contestant and sponsor and the ROTC branch and class of the sponsor.

The contest is open to all girls who are sponsored by an ROTC cadet or midshipman.

Ten semi-finalists will be selected by cadet judges from the United States Military Academy at West Point. Five finalists will then be chosen by the groups sponsoring the dance.

European Skier To Show Films

Walter Foeger, internationally-known European ski instructor, will narrate two films on skiing at 8 tonight in Schwab Auditorium.

In the first film Foeger will demonstrate his new natural technique of skiing, "natur-technik." The second film will show him skiing in the Alps.

Tickets may be purchased for 50 cents at the Hetzel Union desk or at the door the evening of the performance. The program will be sponsored by the Ski Division of the Outing Club.

Panhel Adopts Open Bidding System

Open bidding was unanimously adopted by Panhellenic Council last night.

The new system will go into effect one week following ribboning at the end of formal rushing this spring. It will mean that sororities may issue bids throughout the semester to coeds who registered for formal rushing and did not pledge.

The system will work as follows: Immediately following ribboning the open contact system adopted by Panhel last week will go into effect. One week later any sorority which did not fill its quota may issue a written bid to any coed who registered for rush but did not pledge.

The rushee will have seven days to answer the bids, replying through the dean of women's office. If a rushee regrets a bid and still does not pledge, the sorority may rebid her as often as they wish.

Open bidding will last the rest of the semester. However, although the open contact system will also be in effect, no formal entertainment may be planned for rushees outside of the formal rushing period. This will not be open rushing, according to Carol Dominick, Panhel president.

Open bidding is designed to: "attempt to equate all groups on campus in number, try to make sorority membership possible for more girls who want to belong to sororities, and reduce the strain and formality of the rushing program," according to the recommendations adopted by the council.

A suggestion was made to adopt a semi-strict silence period between the rushee and a sorority which has issued her a bid during the seven days she has to answer the bid. It was the opinion of the group that this would defeat the purpose of the 7-day waiting period and the suggestion was not brought to a vote.

In commenting on the move, Miss Dominick said, it was "a step up for our Panhel system." These sentiments were echoed by Mrs. Norma Mountain, Panhellenic advisor, who added that open bidding should certainly strengthen the whole sorority system at Penn State.
